Welcome from the Head of Department

This is to introduce you to the Department of International History (if you are a new student) or to welcome you back again (if you are returning to us as a graduate student).

This year, the Department will have about 180 graduate students, about 250 undergraduates, 28 academic staff, and six teaching fellows. The Department is located on the ground, mezzanine, first, second and third floors of Sardinia House.

Each student will be allocated an individual adviser from among the academic staff. In addition, there is a Masters Programmes Tutor, Professor Antony Best (a.best@lse.ac.uk), who has special responsibility for Masters students.

As Head of Department, I am responsible for the overall management of the Department. I am available to speak to all students by appointment via Ms Demetra Frini (d.frini@lse.ac.uk), the Department Manager.

Your first point of contact in the Department on all administrative matters relating to your degree are Mrs Milada Fomina (ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk) in SAR 1.03E and Mrs Nayna Bhatti (n.bhatti@lse.ac.uk) in SAR 1.03C.

We will be holding Welcome events for all students during the week commencing 18 September 2023. Full details are available on the department's website.

I look forward to seeing you in September.

The Academic Mentor*

The Academic mentor will normally remain your tutor throughout your time of study at the LSE. It is important that you establish contact in the early days of term and maintain a close working relationship with your academic mentor throughout your programme. S/he can advise on academic and pastoral care matters. In other words, your academic mentor is your first point of contact if you have any concerns about your studies at the LSE (eg, choice of courses, MSc regulations, progress in studies, references) or other personal concerns which you may wish to discuss in confidence.

Your academic mentor will normally contact you at the beginning of each term and will let you know when s/he is going to be available to see tutees. S/he will also post the times of her/his regular, weekly office hours on her/his door when they see students without prior appointment. It is your responsibility to make sure that you respond to your mentor's request to see you and/or seek him/her out during office hours. You should, as a minimum, see your academic mentor at least twice in both Autumn and Winter terms and at least once in the Spring term to discuss your overall progress.

NB. Academic staff do not hold office hours out of term. You can find all staff office hours on the department's website and on their office doors.

 The School (other departments) sometimes also refer to academic mentors as 'supervisors'. In the Department of International History, we only speak of 'dissertation supervisors' (in the context of HY490, HY498, HY499 and HY4A4).

If you are unable to resolve any matter satisfactorily with your academic mentor, you can discuss it with the Masters Programmes Tutor.

Other Useful Information

Office Hours

All members of staff can be contacted during their office hours when they are willing to see students without prior appointment. Academic staff do not hold office hours out of term. If the teacher responsible for a course is not your class teacher, the office hours are a good opportunity to discuss the subject matter of the course with him or her if you so wish.

You can find all staff office hours listed on the department's website, and posted outside individual lecturers' offices.

Language Course reimbursement

It has been agreed that International History can assist all students in the department with the cost of language study at the LSE. The department will assist by reimbursing half the cost of one normal fee certificate course on successful completion of study. Full details will be circulated by email in the Autumn Term.

Laptop/iPad Loan

The Department can offer on loan for short periods of time a small laptop or iPad for the following uses/occasions:

- Archival visits
- Minute taking at the Staff-Student Liaison Committee meetings
- School forums
- History society
- When computer failure could hamper progress on essays or dissertations.

Please enquire with your programme administrator/manager or the Department Manager for further details and availability. Please also note that the number of available laptops or iPads is limited.

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion in the Department of International History

LSE's diverse mix of people and ideas, with students and staff from over 140 countries, underpins its global reputation for excellence. It is the School's dynamic community that makes studying and working here a unique experience. Within this setting, the Department of International History is committed to promoting inclusivity and equity, and to creating an environment of mutual respect and dignity. We pride ourselves on providing a welcoming academic atmosphere for students and staff alike, one where lively intellectual discussions result from encounters with difficult, challenging and sometimes controversial subjects.

History is an ongoing conversation, and new generations of historians ask new questions, bringing their own experiences and perspectives about the past and the present to bear on their work. Our curriculum and sources are chosen on intellectual grounds and are closely linked with staff's research and expertise. In studying history, students are given the chance to discuss and critically engage with varied material. And in doing so we believe that students will have the best opportunity to thrive and reach their full academic potential. As a departmental community we cherish the chance to work with each individual student to achieve a meaningful learning experience.

Our environment of open academic dialogue is fundamentally important to the Department. Learning how to place history in context and critically analyse historical sources is an essential part of studying history. Historians very often have to deal with subjects that they might find disturbing, both written and visual, and that primary material from the past often deals with contentious subjects and may contain discriminatory or prejudiced views. However, there is a sharp distinction between encountering offensive views in the context of historical study and endorsing them in the present. The latter is unacceptable; the former is part of being an historian and a social scientist. Recognising the legacies of racism in the present, for example, is vital to understanding how structures of inequality built in the past continue to shape the contemporary world.

If you have any concerns or questions, you can contact the Department's EDI representative, Dr Jake Richards (j.richards@lse.ac.uk)

Department of International History Policy for Student Conduct on Social Media

Things to be aware of:

Social networking platforms are in the public domain and it is not possible to be sure what is being viewed, shared or archived, even if material is posted on a closed profile or group. There can be no reasonable expectation that posts will remain private and will not be passed on to other people, intentionally or otherwise.

Social media is sometimes used for bullying and harassment. Such behaviour from our students will not be tolerated. Bullying and harassment contravenes the School's expected standards of conduct and could result in disciplinary action.

You should be very mindful that posting offensive comments on a public site can damage your reputation. These may be seen by potential contacts and employers and could bring into question your judgement and character. In some cases, social media may also cause damage to the School's reputation and, where this is the case, the School may consider disciplinary action.

It is now standard practice for prospective employers to Google candidates, so you should assume that any references or images relating to drug taking, excessive alcohol consumption or other inappropriate behaviour could be around and attached to your name for many years.

Actions

- Remember that there is no such thing as an entirely private social media account – you will always leave a trace of your actions online.
- Clean up your profile and ensure nothing is available that you wouldn't want your parents, relations or potential employers to see.
- Do not use language or phrases that could be considered sexist, racist, homophobic, or any other type of offensive language.
- Think about others' feelings before posting comments and consider whether you may cause offence or embarrassment.
- Ask permission before sharing videos or photos of others.
- Be careful about the information you post online such as your address or whether you're going away.

Events of Interest to Masters Students

Department's Annual Lecture

The department hosts an annual lecture as part of the LSE Events programme. The speaker is a renowned historian invited by the department; speakers in recent years include Professor Avi Shlaim, Professor David Blackbourn, Professor Fredrik Logevall, Professor Dominic Lieven, Professor Joya Chatterji, Professor Patricia Clavin, and Professor David Armitage. The details of this year's annual lecture will be announced in the Autumn Term.

Cumberland Lodge Weekend, 27-29 October 2023

The Department of International History holds an annual weekend conference for staff and students in Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Great Park in November on an international history theme. The theme of the conference this year will be announced during the Autumn Term. The full programme and registration instructions will be circulated by email early in the Autumn Term.

Cumberland Lodge weekends are heavily subsidised and offer excellent value for money in very pleasant surroundings. However, they are usually over subscribed so we strongly recommend you book early.

Senate House Library Tours

Each year, the Department arranges for new students to take a tour of Senate House Library which is highly recommended. The Senate House Library is an invaluable back-up to the LSE Library, and its history section is particularly strong. It is important to make as much use of it as possible, as its funding is currently under threat. It is very worthwhile taking this opportunity to get to know what it can offer.

This year the tour dates details will be announced in the Autumn Term.

Senate House Library, University of London (SHL) is one of the largest humanities and social sciences libraries in the UK. Its holdings amount to c.2 million volumes and it receives c. 5,500 current periodical titles. A wide range of electronic resources is also available through SHL's subscriptions. The History Collection is (in terms of books borrowed and renewed) the major subject collection in SHL. The aims of the visit to SHL are to provide students with introductory guides to SHL and some of its collections, and also to give a sense of the physical layout of SHL, concentrating on History and other relevant collections, including Politics and International Relations.

Membership of SHL is available free of charge on production of current LSE ID. Students can join SHL in advance of the visit, or on the day itself. The entrance to SHL is in the North Block of Senate House, on the west side of Russell Square – a 15 minute walk or a short bus ride from LSE (routes 59, 68, 91, 168 or 188).

MSc Programmes

The Department of International History runs six Masters Programmes. Each has distinctive elements, but all reflect our belief that Masters level education should provide students with a wide range of choice when it comes to individual courses and a balance between obligatory courses and options. The programme rules for each Masters thus include a high level of flexibility designed to allow our students to tailor their education to their interests, career plans and strengths.

All of the programmes are based around a model of studying three full unit taught courses while at LSE, and (with the exception of the LSE-Columbia double degree) preparing a 10,000 word dissertation in international history. All of our courses are taught primarily by means of seminars in which there are never more than sixteen students.

MSc History of International Relations

This wide-ranging Masters programme is aimed at those looking for a taught graduate programme in history in an international context. It caters for a wide variety of students, including those who have studied history at an undergraduate level and those who are making the transition from related subjects such as political science, modern languages, economics, law or journalism.

MSc Empires, Colonialism and Globalisation

This Masters programme focuses on the phenomenon of imperialism and related issues, including technologies and ideologies of empire, notions of race, ethnicity and gender, economic development and underdevelopment, and trans-regional flows and interactions. Your core course is complemented by a range of specialist options.

MSc Theory and History of International Relations

This is a joint degree with the International Relations Department which allows students to sample courses in both departments, giving them a chance to understand and appreciate the theoretical and the empirical approach to the study of international relations. The structure of the degree is intended to ensure a good balance between the two disciplines.

MSc International and Asian History

This master's programme is designed for those who wish to study Asia in a regional perspective, from the 16th century onwards. Learn about individual countries in Asia, as well as global flows and interactions.

MA Modern History

Enabled by a research-oriented approach rooted in the humanities, this master's programme provides broad coverage of the origins, formation and reinvention of the modern world. This course will give students a firm grasp of the nature and genealogy of the modern world, and furnish secure foundations for more advanced research.

LSE-Peking University Double MSc in International Affairs

Offered jointly by LSE and Peking University, this innovative double MSc degree offers an outstanding opportunity for graduate students and young professionals to study the international relations of China and the Asia Pacific region, as well as the theory and history of global international relations.

LSE-Columbia Double MSc in International and World History

This master's programme at Columbia and LSE asks students to explore our world by studying the forces that have been remaking it: migration, trade, technological revolutions, epidemic disease, environmental change, wars and diplomacy. Working with preeminent historians in the field, students analyse large-scale historical processes, pursue empirical research, and produce their own comparative and cross-cultural histories.

LSE-NUS Double MA in Asian and International History

This exciting two-year master's program taught by the National University of Singapore and the London School of Economics is designed for students interested in studying Asia from an international perspective. It is also for those interested in decentring international history by studying it from an Asian perspective.

Paper 4 Courses to the value of 1.0 unit(s) from the following:

A course from another LSE department (subject to approval by the Masters Programmes Tutor and the Teacher Responsible for the Course)

Or another course from papers 2 or 3:

Prerequisite Requirements and Mutually Exclusive Options

means there may be prerequisites for this course. Please view the course guide for more information.

Course Selection and Timetables

Programme structure and what you need to do

Each Master's programme comprises four papers. Each of these papers is completed by taking either one full, or two half units.

A full list of available courses on each programme and links to more detailed information on each course can be located on programme-specific pages of this Handbook and in the LSE Calendar here:

MSc in History of International Relations

MSc in Theory and History of International Relations

MSc in Empires, Colonialism and Globalisation

MSc in International and Asian History

MA in Modern History

LSE-Columbia University Double MA Degree in International and World History

LSE-PKU Double Degree in MSc International Affairs

LSE-NUS Double Degree MA in Asian and International History

When to select your courses

Course selection will open for browsing at 10am on Monday 18 September and will open for course selection on Thursday 21 September at 10am. Course selections need to be made by Friday 6 October at 5pm. You will be able to make changes to Winter Term half unit courses early in Winter Term. For the exact dates check the course selection webpages.

How to select your courses

1. Find out about your courses – check the Course Finder on LSE calendar and also Moodle to find out more about courses you want to take.
2. Select your courses in LSE for You – courses can be selected using LSE for You. Step by step instructions are available on the SSC webpages.
3. Check you have Moodle access for your selected courses – check you can access courses on Moodle, after completing course selection.

Course Finder lists all the courses, course content and modes of assessment available for each programme. This is a place to view the information but not to make a selection using Course Finder. You should select courses in LSE for You as stated above.

Providing your selected courses are ready in Moodle, you should be automatically enrolled on their Moodle pages a few hours after selecting your courses on LSE for You.

Different departments handle course selection in different ways so if you are taking a course outside of International History then please make sure you understand how that course is managed.

Should you need advice with this process, please contact your Academic Mentor or a member of the PSS team at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk

Controlled access courses

Many graduate courses are designated as ‘controlled access’ due to limited places and/or prerequisites that are required in order to study the course. These will be highlighted in green on the list of available courses in the LSE for You course selection system. You can find information about controlled access courses, how applicants are selected, and deadlines for applying at controlled access courses.

You will be notified of the outcome of your request to take a controlled access course by email. If you have been offered a place on a controlled access course, you must use the LSE for You course selection system to indicate whether you would like to accept or decline the offer within two working days of receiving the offer email. After this time the offer will expire.

Seminar sign-up and timetables

Where a course is taught in more than one seminar group, you may also be required to enrol in seminar groups for the course. Some departments allocate students to seminars, and some departments will allow students to sign themselves up to seminars. You can see which method is used for each of your registered courses in the seminar sign-up system in LSE for You.

You can use seminar sign-up once you have signed up for a course and the department responsible has made the course available for seminar sign up.

Seminar sign-up is accessible throughout the course selection windows. If you fail to sign up for seminars during this time, the department may allocate you to a seminar group of their choice on your behalf.

Once you have successfully registered for your courses and seminars in LSE for You, your personal timetable will be automatically generated and you will be able to access it in LSE For You by clicking the 'Student Timetable' option on the left-hand menu.

Auditing courses

Some LSE courses allow students to 'audit'. This is an informal arrangement where you can join the lectures but do not take the assessments. These courses do not appear in your course selections or timetable and will not appear on your transcript. Some students choose to audit courses to expand their knowledge in other areas. If you would like to audit a course you should first check that your timetable will allow you to join the lectures. If so, contact the relevant course leader and ask permission to audit their course.

Winter Term course selection

Course selection will reopen at the start of Winter Term 2024 to allow you to change Winter Term half units, provided the newly chosen courses are not already full. Late course changes are not permitted in Winter Term once course selection has closed. We strongly advise that you minimise the changes you make in this period. You cannot change any course that has any teaching in Autumn Term 2023.

Getting help

If you need help with Course Selection, please contact the department in the first instance. The PSS team or your Academic Mentor will be able to offer advice. You can also find detailed information on course selection on the course selection webpages and here: info.lse.ac.uk/current-students/services/assets/documents/PG-Student-Guide.pdf

HY499 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance

1. Introduction

The HY499 dissertation in International History is mandatory for the MSc in the History of International Relations and the MSc Empires, Colonialism and Globalisation. It is also available as an alternative to the HY498 dissertation in International Affairs in the LSE-Peking University Double MSc in International Affairs and the MSc in Theory and History of International Relations. It is the single most important component of those Masters degree programmes: the dissertation requires students to pursue sustained primary research in an area of particular interest to them, and it is the sole paper in which a fail mark cannot be compensated by a Merit or better elsewhere (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook).

These guidelines provide the timetable for the preparation and completion of the dissertation, an account of the departmental rules that govern its technical presentation and formal submission, and some general advice on how best to approach the project. It is essential that students study this document carefully before beginning work on the dissertation as well as before submitting the dissertation.

It is strongly recommended that students attend the HY499/HY498 Dissertation Workshops in Autumn Term, which provide guidance and practical training in greater detail.

2. Requirements

The HY499 dissertation is an exercise in using primary sources to write on a precise topic in International History. Candidates should aim to include an element of originality in the conceptualising of the thesis and/or the treatment of the evidence.

The only formal limit on the choice of subject is that it must fall within the syllabus – ie, the dissertation has to be a study in International History. Dissertations that represent contributions to disciplines outside History, such as International Relations or Politics, will not be approved or accepted. Dissertations must therefore be based substantially on a critical analysis of primary sources. To qualify as International History the subject must involve an element of engagement with the analysis of relations between states and/or societies; alternatively it may involve the study of the history of attitudes in one society towards others or comparative studies involving at least two states and/or societies. The topic must not be confined purely to the domestic affairs of one society or state. The supervisor is the final judge of whether a particular topic falls within the syllabus.

Dissertations must not exceed 10,000 words, including text and footnotes but excluding the cover page, the table of contents, the list of abbreviations, the bibliography, and appendices. Students are required to state clearly on their dissertation the number of words that it contains. Dissertations that exceed the word limit are subject to penalties (see Section 7 below).

Dissertations must include a bibliography of all consulted sources at the end, listing first primary sources (by collection, not referring to individual documents), then secondary sources. Dissertations that do not provide a bibliography are subject to penalties (see Section 7 below).

Dissertations must be submitted on time, ie, before the passing of the set deadline. Dissertations that are submitted late are subject to penalties (see Section 7 below).

If a student expects to be unable to meet the submission deadline for serious reasons such as illness or bereavement, s/he should immediately discuss the matter with the dissertation supervisor. If deemed appropriate, students shall then apply in advance for a formal extension. For more details on the department's extension policy, please see Information on Assessment..

3. Timeline and Procedure

Students should use the Autumn Term to find, decide on, and develop a suitable dissertation topic and consider possible dissertation supervisors. Help with this process is available from the students' academic mentors. Students are then required to complete the HY498/499 Dissertation Proposal Form and to seek approval for their project from their dissertation supervisor before submitting the completed and signed form to the Masters Programmes Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk.

Supervisors

It is the students' responsibility to find a dissertation supervisor. They should meet with the potential supervisor in late Autumn term (every member of staff has weekly office hours) to discuss their dissertation proposal, and then get the supervisor to sign the HY498/499 Dissertation Proposal Form before the deadline at 12 noon on Friday, 19 January 2024, at the latest.

Note that the availability of individual supervisors is limited (and decreasing over time) as the supervision load is equally distributed among the teaching staff in the department. Every member of staff has a capped number of supervision slots, which fill up as supervisors take on supervisees. If the supervisor you wish to work with already has full number of dissertations s/he can supervise, you have to approach another member of staff.

Dissertation Proposals

The proposal form asks students to outline their topic and research question, the primary sources available for research, and the most important relevant literature. It is designed to ensure that the dissertation conforms to the department's regulations; that it is not too broad; and that it is on a subject with accessible primary sources. For the proposal itself to be approved, it needs to:

1. be sufficiently specific and substantial (incomplete, broad, or superficial proposals or proposals whose feasibility appears questionable will be rejected by the supervisor);
2. comply with the HY499 rules and regulations in this document.

Form and Deadline

The HY498/HY499 Dissertation Proposal Form is available on the HY498/499 Moodle site. Completed forms must be signed by the supervisor and submitted to the Masters Programmes Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk by 12 noon on Friday, 19 January 2024, at the latest.

Students, who miss the deadline for submitting a dissertation proposal with a confirmed supervisor, will be allocated a 'technical' supervisor who will assist them with general methodological and writing issues. Students cannot expect a subject-specialist supervisor if they miss the deadline.

Title Changes

Later title changes and changes in scope (within the confines of the same geographical region and time period) can be agreed informally with the supervisor at any time. Title changes do not require approval by the Masters Programmes Tutor but do need to be registered with the office. However, do take care with the wording of the working title indicated on the proposal form as dissertation markers will be allocated on that basis.

Topic Changes

Significant later changes of the topic itself (ie, those that tackle a new geographical region or a significantly different time period from the original proposal) require the approval of the supervisor, and students will need to submit a new proposal on the HY498/499 Masters Dissertation Topic Change Form (available on Moodle), signed off by their supervisor, and submitted to the Masters Programmes Administrator before the end of the Spring Term.

Students who change their topic without discussing it with their supervisor and without, in the case of topic changes, resubmitting a Topic Change Proposal Form bear full responsibility for ensuring that their subject is within the regulations; if it is not, the dissertation will be failed.

Supervision after the Winter Term and Feedback on Written Work

It is the students' responsibility to contact their supervisor to arrange at least one but no more than three meetings in the Spring Term to discuss their dissertation. At this stage the supervisor will be prepared to read and give feedback on either a draft table of contents and a draft chapter or draft section of no more than 1,000 words or on a detailed plan of the dissertation of no more than 1,000 words. A mark will not be included in this feedback. Members of staff have no formal teaching obligations after the end of the Spring Term and are likely to travel for research or be otherwise unavailable for extended periods. It is the students' responsibility to enquire about the details of their supervisor's availability during the summer in good time and to make arrangements accordingly.

4. Sources

Most students undertake research for their dissertations in archives, such as for example the British National Archives (formerly the Public Record Office, PRO) at Kew or the US National Archives in College Park, MD near Washington, DC or an American Presidential Libraries. Note that the LSE Library Archives also have extensive holdings pertaining, in particular, to modern British history. However, published documents in edited collections – for example those in the Foreign Relations of the United States series or the Documents Diplomatiques Français – or primary documents found on respectable web sites are acceptable alternatives to archival research. For those working on pre-twentieth century topics numerous published sources, such as for example the Calendar of State Papers, exist and are easily accessible.

Memoirs, diaries, relevant media reports and information gathered from witness interviews also count as primary sources, but they should normally be used in conjunction with, not as alternatives to, documentary sources.

When choosing the subject and identifying the source material, students need to consider the opportunities and limitations resulting from their language skills: their language skills must be sufficient for the nature of the topic and the resulting primary and secondary sources of importance.

The HY498/HY499 Dissertation Workshops provide detailed information on primary sources and archival research as well as on secondary sources, and further information can also be found on the HY498/499 Moodle website.

If students have any doubts about the appropriateness or combination of specific sources in view of their particular topic, they should always consult their supervisor.

5. Writing and Presentation

The HY498/HY499 Dissertation Workshops in the Autumn Term provide further guidance on writing the dissertation and students are strongly encouraged to attend them. The following is some preliminary advice:

Students are expected to write clearly and to present a well-constructed argument. Chapter headings are usually helpful guideposts for the reader. The department expects Masters students to observe high standards of spelling, punctuation, and syntax, and students may be penalised for failing to do so. English or American spellings are acceptable, provided usage is consistent. For advice on prose style, consult a reliable manual such as Ernest Gowers, The Complete Plain Words, 3rd, rev. edn (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1987) or William Strunk, The Elements of Style, 4th edn (Boston/London: Allyn and Bacon, 2000). Another alternative is a recent edition of The Chicago Manual of Style.

Students are allowed to ask somebody to proof-read their dissertation before it is submitted. This person should not, however, be a member of LSE staff (except for Language Centre personnel).

Quotations in major Western languages can be left in their original language, if desired. But in any case quotations should be used in moderation and generally be drawn from primary rather than secondary sources.

Good referencing is essential to avoid plagiarism (see section 7 below). Footnotes are required for all direct quotations and paraphrases and for all uncommon information drawn from primary or secondary sources. Notes should be footnotes rather than endnotes and should be numbered consecutively throughout the dissertation. For further guidance on referencing and bibliographic formats see the guidance documents on the HY498/499 Moodle site.

Students may include an appendix of no more than 12 pages, containing key documents, transcripts of oral history interviews, maps, illustrations, or other visual sources. The appendix must not contain additional dissertation text: if it is found to do so, it will be counted towards the word limit and penalties are likely to be incurred as a result (see sections 2 and 7 above and below).

Students must not put their name or student number, but only their candidate number on the dissertation and are required to state clearly on the dissertation the number of words that it contains (see sections 2, 6 and 7 above and below).

6. Submission

You MUST submit your dissertation to Turnitin available on the course Moodle page by 12 noon on Monday, 2 September 2024. Please note that the date and time that you submit your dissertation on Moodle is taken as the official submission time for the purposes of lateness penalties. If you experience any technical issues submitting your dissertation on Moodle, please email your dissertation to ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk and make sure it reaches the department by the deadline.

Students must not put their name or student number on the dissertation, but use their 5-digit candidate number instead (not the student ID).

Students are required to state clearly on their dissertation the number of words that it contains (see Sections 2 and 7, above and below).

7. Penalties and Plagiarism

Dissertations exceeding the word limit of 10,000 words, including text and footnotes but excluding the cover page, the table of contents, the list of abbreviations, the bibliography, and appendices, will be subject to the following sliding scale of penalties: for up to every 100 words over the limit one mark out of 100 will be deducted - the penalty kicks in at one word over the limit – ie, at 10,001. Any dissertation with more than 1,000 words over the limit will be given a FAIL mark of 0 automatically. In that event, you would have to re-sit HY499. This would mean re-submitting a new dissertation within the deadline for resubmission. Students are formally required to state the total number of words on the front cover of their dissertations.

Failure to include a bibliography will result in the deduction of 5 marks out of 100.

Dissertations not submitted by the set deadline (or extended deadline as appropriate) will be subject to the following penalties: 5 marks out of 100 will be deducted for coursework submitted within the 24-hours of the deadline; a further five marks will be deducted for each subsequent 24-hour period (working days only) until the coursework is submitted. Please see Information on Assessment for the rules and procedures governing extensions.

Plagiarism, ie, the submission of someone else's work without acknowledging the original authorship, is a very serious offence. Both the Department and the School take a very strong line with regard to plagiarism and pursue it vigilantly. If detected in a dissertation, plagiarism is heavily penalised and may jeopardise the student's entire degree. Plagiarism covers not just the literal submission of somebody else's text as one's own (ie, copying out passages from books or articles or downloading material from the internet or copying material from class handouts circulated by staff or other students). It also extends to the appropriation of other people's ideas without acknowledgement. To avoid it, students must make certain that all quoted phrases, sentences, or paragraphs are in quotation marks and clearly footnoted and that all passages paraphrasing somebody else's work and ideas are properly footnoted, including page numbers (ie, detailing not just which text they came from, but also from where in the text they are to be found). Self-plagiarism is also unacceptable: this involves the inclusion in the dissertation of passages taken from earlier pieces of work by the student submitted for assessment either at LSE or elsewhere.

Students should remember that, when submitting the dissertation, they have to sign a declaration reminding them of LSE's rules on plagiarism and asking them to confirm that they have acknowledged all sources and ideas used in the dissertation. Those found to abuse the system and to plagiarise will face harsh penalties – plagiarism is cheating and will be treated accordingly.

8. Prizes

Exceptional distinction in dissertation performance will be recognised each year by the Examination Board in the form of the award of the Medlicott Prize or Prizes to one or more candidates.

9. Failing and Resubmitting the Dissertation

Please see the separate 'HY499 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission' for failed or un-submitted dissertations. A current, up-to-date version of this document for the year of the re-submission will be circulated to students who have failed or failed to submit the dissertation after the release of marks in November.

HY499 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission

If students fail the HY499 dissertation, this is either because they have achieved a mark of less than 50 (categorised as FAIL) or because they did not submit the dissertation (categorised as AB for 'absent' and as a mark of 0 [nil]).

A Fail in the dissertation cannot be compensated by a Merit or better in another course unit (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook). Students who have failed the dissertation must re-sit HY499 in order to be eligible to graduate next year.

Having failed HY499 also means that the mark achieved at re-sit will be capped at 50 in the calculation of any aggregate for the purpose of degree classification (cf. paragraph 4.2 of the Award Scheme).

Resubmission Deadline: Students can re-submit HY499 during the Postgraduate Resit and Deferred Assessment Period 1 (RDAP 1) in January 2025. This means that, if they pass in the second attempt, they can then be awarded a degree in March and graduate in July 2025. If the student is unable to re-submit the dissertation during RDAP 1, they will need to defer their submission to RDAP 2 in the Spring 2025 exam period. This means that, if they pass their dissertation in RDAP 2, they can then be awarded a degree in July and graduate in December. Please note that deadlines will be treated in the usual fashion with regard to all penalties.

Resubmission Topic: If students have failed due to non-submission and have therefore been categorised as AB [absent] = 0 for HY499, they may submit the dissertation that they were originally working on. They will not be offered any further supervision. Their former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact. If students have failed because the dissertation did not achieve a mark of 50 or above, then they can re-submit a revised version of their dissertation. They will not be offered any further supervision. The former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact to be consulted once to discuss how to achieve the new dissertation.

Feedback on failed dissertations: Feedback on failed dissertations will be provided by the point-of-contact (see above) as part of the one-off consultation on the re-submission.

Re-Entry: The Student Services Centre will automatically re-enter students who have failed the dissertation for a re-sit/re-submission in the academic year following the original deadline and will contact students about the re-sitting and re-entry procedures. Students will be charged a re-entry fee. Those students – but only those students – who failed HY499 only and decide to re-submit during RDAP must inform both the department and Student Services Centre of their intention to submit in the RDAP period.

HY498 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance

1. Introduction

The HY498 dissertation in the History of International Affairs is available as an alternative to the HY499 dissertation in International History for students on the LSE–Peking University Double MSc in International Affairs programme and the MSc in Theory and History of International Relations. It is the single most important component of this Masters degree programme: the dissertation requires students to pursue sustained primary research in an area of particular interest to them, and it is the sole paper in which a fail mark cannot be compensated by a Merit or better elsewhere (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook).

However, do take care with the wording of the working title indicated on the proposal form as dissertation markers will be allocated on that basis.

Topic Changes

Significant later changes of the topic itself (ie, those that tackle a new geographical region or a significantly different time period from the original proposal) require the approval of the supervisor, and students will need to submit a new proposal on the HY498/499 Masters Dissertation Topic Change Form (available on Moodle), signed off by their supervisor, and submitted to the programme administrator before the end of the Spring Term.

Students who change their topic without discussing it with their supervisor and without, in the case of topic changes, resubmitting a Topic Change Proposal Form bear full responsibility for ensuring that their subject is within the regulations; if it is not, the dissertation will be failed.

Supervision after the Winter Term and Feedback on Written Work

It is the students' responsibility to contact their supervisor to arrange at least one but no more than three meetings in the Spring Term to discuss their dissertation. At this stage the supervisor will be prepared to read and give feedback on either a draft table of contents and a draft chapter or draft section of no more than 1,000 words or on a detailed plan of the dissertation of no more than 1,000 words. A mark will not be included in this feedback. Members of staff have no formal teaching obligations after the end of the Spring Term and are likely to travel for research or be otherwise unavailable for extended periods. It is the students' responsibility to enquire about the details of their supervisor's availability during the summer in good time and to make arrangements accordingly.

4. Sources

Most students undertake research for their dissertations in archives, such as for example the British National Archives (formerly the Public Record Office, PRO) at Kew or the US National Archives in College Park, MD near Washington, DC or an American Presidential Library. Note that the LSE Library Archives also have extensive holdings pertaining, in particular, to modern British history. However, published documents in edited collections – for example those in the Foreign Relations of the United States series or the Documents Diplomatiques Français – or primary documents found on respectable web sites are acceptable alternatives to archival research. For those working on pre-twentieth century topics numerous published sources, such as for example the Calendar of State Papers, exist and are easily accessible.

Memoirs, diaries, relevant media reports and information gathered from witness interviews also count as primary sources, but they should normally be used in conjunction with, not as alternatives to, documentary sources.

When choosing the subject and identifying the source material, students need to consider the opportunities and limitations resulting from their language skills: their language skills must be sufficient for the nature of the topic and the resulting primary and secondary sources of importance.

The 'HY498/HY499 Dissertation Workshops' provide detailed information on primary sources and archival research as well as on secondary sources, covering both bibliographic techniques (how to find literature) and how to work with the historiography (the existing historical writing on a subject).

If students have any doubts about the appropriateness or combination of sources, they should consult their adviser/supervisor.

5. Writing and Presentation

The 'HY498/HY499 Dissertation Workshops' provide further guidance on writing the dissertation and students are strongly encouraged to attend them. The following is some preliminary advice:

Students are expected to write clearly and to present a well-constructed argument. Chapter headings are usually helpful guideposts for the reader. The department expects Masters students to observe high standards of spelling, punctuation, and syntax, and students may be penalised for failing to do so. English or American spellings are acceptable, provided usage is consistent. For advice on prose style, consult a reliable manual such as Ernest Gowers, The Complete Plain Words, 3rd, rev. edn (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1987) or William Strunk, The Elements of Style, 4th edn (Boston/London: Allyn and Bacon, 2000). Another alternative is a recent edition of The Chicago Manual of Style.

Students are allowed to ask somebody to proof-read their dissertation before it is submitted. This person should not, however, be a member of LSE staff (except for Language Centre personnel).

Quotations in major Western languages can be left in their original language, if desired. But in any case quotations should be used in moderation and generally be drawn from primary rather than secondary sources.

Good referencing is essential to avoid plagiarism (see section 7 below). Footnotes are required for all direct quotations and paraphrases and for all uncommon information drawn from primary or secondary sources. Notes should be footnotes rather than endnotes and should be numbered consecutively throughout the dissertation. For further guidance on referencing and bibliographic formats see the guidance documents on the HY498/499 Moodle site.

Students may include an appendix of no more than 12 pages, containing key documents, transcripts of oral history interviews, maps, illustrations, or other visual sources. The appendix must not contain additional dissertation text: if it is found to do so, it will be counted towards the word limit and penalties are likely to be incurred as a result (see sections 2 and 7 above and below).

Students must not put their name or student number, but only their candidate number on the dissertation and are required to state clearly on the dissertation the number of words that it contains (see sections 2, 6 and 7 above and below).

6. Submission

You MUST submit your dissertation to Turnitin available on the course Moodle page by 12 noon on Monday, 2 September 2024. Please note that the date and time that you submit your dissertation on Moodle is taken as the official submission time for the purposes of lateness penalties. If you experience any technical issues submitting your dissertation on Moodle, please email your dissertation to ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk and make sure it reaches the department by the deadline.

Students must not put their name or student number on the dissertation, but use their 5-digit candidate number instead (not the student ID).

Students are required to state clearly on their dissertation the number of words that it contains (see Sections 2 and 7, above and below).

7. Penalties and Plagiarism

Dissertations exceeding the word limit of 10,000 words, including text and footnotes but excluding the cover page, the table of contents, the list of abbreviations, the bibliography, and appendices, will be subject to the following sliding scale of penalties: for up to every 100 words over the limit one mark out of 100 will be deducted - penalty kicks in at one word over the limit – ie, at 10,001. Any dissertation with more than 1,000 words over the limit will be given a FAIL mark of 0 automatically. In that event, you would have to re-sit HY498. This would mean re-submitting a new dissertation within the deadline for resubmission. Students are formally required to state the total number of words on the front cover of their dissertation.

Failure to include a bibliography will result in the deduction of 5 marks out of 100.

Dissertations not submitted by the set deadline (or extended deadline as appropriate) will be subject to the following penalties: five marks out of 100 will be deducted for coursework submitted within the 24-hours of the deadline and a further five marks will be deducted for each subsequent 24-hour period (working days only) until the coursework is submitted. Please see Information on Assessment for the rules and procedures governing extensions.

Plagiarism, ie, the submission of someone else's work without acknowledging the original authorship, is a very serious offence. Both the Department and the School take a very strong line with regard to plagiarism and pursue it vigilantly. If detected in a dissertation, plagiarism is heavily penalised and may jeopardise the student's entire degree. Plagiarism covers not just the literal submission of somebody else's text as one's own (ie, copying out passages from books or articles or downloading material from the internet or copying material from class handouts circulated by staff or other students). It also extends to the appropriation of other people's ideas without acknowledgement. To avoid it students must make certain that all quoted phrases, sentences, or paragraphs are in quotation marks and clearly footnoted and that all passages paraphrasing somebody else's work and ideas are properly footnoted, including page numbers (ie, detailing not just which text they came from, but also from where in the text they are to be found). Self-plagiarism is also unacceptable: this involves the inclusion in the dissertation of passages taken from earlier pieces of work by the student submitted for assessment either at LSE or elsewhere.

Students should remember that when submitting the dissertation, they have to sign a declaration reminding them of LSE's rules on plagiarism and asking them to confirm that they have acknowledged all sources and ideas used in the dissertation. Those found to abuse the system and to plagiarise will face harsh penalties – plagiarism is cheating and will be treated accordingly.

8. Prizes

Exceptional distinction in dissertation performance will be recognised each year by the Examination Board in the form of the award of the Medlicott Prize or Prizes to one or more candidates.

9. Failing and Resubmitting the Dissertation

Please see the separate 'HY498 Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission' for failed or un-submitted dissertations. A current, up-to-date version of this document for the year of the re-submission will be circulated to students who have failed or failed to submit the dissertation after the release of marks in November.

HY498 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission

If students fail the HY498 dissertation, this is either because they have achieved a mark of less than 50 (categorised as FAIL) or because they did not submit the dissertation (categorised as AB for 'absent' and as a mark of 0 [nil]).

A Fail in the dissertation cannot be compensated by a Merit or better in another course unit (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook). Students who have failed the dissertation must re-sit HY498 in order to be eligible to graduate next year.

Having failed HY498 also means that the mark achieved at re-sit will be capped at 50 in the calculation of any aggregate for the purpose of degree classification (cf. paragraph 4.2 of the Award Scheme).

Resubmission Deadline: Students can re-submit HY498 during the Postgraduate Resit and Deferred Assessment Period 1 (RDAP 1) in January 2025. This means that, if they pass in the second attempt, they can then be awarded a degree in March and graduate in July 2025. If the student is unable to re-submit the dissertation during RDAP 1, they will need to defer their submission to RDAP 2 in the Spring 2025 exam period. This means that, if they pass their dissertation in RDAP 2, they can then be awarded a degree in July and graduate in December 2025. Please note that deadlines will be treated in the usual fashion with regard to all penalties.

Resubmission Topic: If students have failed due to non-submission and have therefore been categorised as AB [absent] = 0 for HY498, they may submit the dissertation that they were originally working on. They will not be offered any further supervision. Their former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact. If students have failed because the dissertation did not achieve a mark of 50 or above, then they can re-submit a revised version of their dissertation. They will not be offered any further supervision. The former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact to be consulted once to discuss how to achieve the new dissertation.

Feedback on failed dissertations: Feedback on failed dissertations will be provided by the point-of-contact (see above) as part of the one-off consultation on the re-submission.

Re-Entry: The Student Services Centre will automatically re-enter students who have failed the dissertation for a re-sit/re-submission in the academic year following the original deadline and will contact students about the re-sitting and re-entry procedures. Students will be charged a re-entry fee. Those students – but only those students – who failed HY498 only and decide to re-submit during RDAP must inform both the department and Student Services Centre of their intention to submit in the RDAP period.

HY4A4 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance

1. Introduction

The HY4A4 dissertation with an Asian focus is available for students on the MSc in International and Asian History and LSE-NUS Double MA Degree in Asian and International History. It is the single most important component of this Masters degree programme: the dissertation requires students to pursue sustained primary research in an area of particular interest to them, and it is the sole paper in which a fail mark cannot be compensated by a Merit or better elsewhere (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook).

These guidelines provide the timetable for the preparation and completion of the dissertation, an account of the departmental rules that govern its technical presentation and formal submission, and some general advice on how best to approach the project. It is essential that students study this document carefully before beginning work on the dissertation as well as before submitting the dissertation.

It is strongly recommended that students attend the HY498/HY499 Dissertation Workshops in Autumn Term as well as the HY4A4 dissertation workshops in Winter Term, which provide guidance and practical training in much greater detail.

2. Requirements

The HY4A4 dissertation is an exercise in using primary source material to write on a precise topic in International and Asian History. The only formal limit on the choice of subject is that it must fall within the syllabus - ie, it has to be a topic in International History with an Asian angle, and the dissertation has to be a study in the discipline of history. Dissertations that represent contributions to disciplines outside history, such as International Relations or Politics, will not be approved or accepted. Dissertations must therefore be based substantially on a critical analysis of primary sources, and candidates should aim to include an element of originality in the argument and/or the treatment of the evidence. The subject must involve an element of engagement with the analysis of relations between states and/or societies; alternatively it may involve the study of the history of attitudes and/or policies in one society towards others or comparative studies involving at least two states and/or societies. The topic must not be confined purely to the domestic affairs of one society or state. The dissertation supervisor is the final judge of whether a particular topic falls within the syllabus.

Dissertations must not exceed 10,000 words, including text and footnotes but excluding the cover page, the table of contents, the list of abbreviations, the bibliography, and appendices. Students are required to state clearly on their dissertation the number of words that it contains. Dissertations that exceed the word limit are subject to penalties (see section 7 below).

Dissertations must include a bibliography of all consulted sources at the end, listing first primary sources (by collection, not referring to individual documents), then secondary sources. Dissertations that do not provide a bibliography are subject to penalties (see section 7 below).

Dissertations must be submitted on time, ie, before the passing of the set deadline. Dissertations that are submitted late are subject to penalties (see section 7 below).

If a student expects to be unable to meet the submission deadline for serious reasons such as illness or bereavement, s/he should immediately discuss the matter with the dissertation supervisor. If deemed appropriate, students shall then apply in advance for a formal extension. For more details on the department's extension policy, please see Information on Assessment.

3. Timeline and Procedure

Students should use the Autumn Term to find, decide on, and develop a suitable dissertation topic and consider possible dissertation supervisors. Help with this process is available from the students' personal advisers. Students are then required to complete the HY4A4 Dissertation Proposal Form and to seek approval for their project from their dissertation supervisor before submitting the completed and signed form to the Masters Programmes Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk.

Supervisors

It is the students' responsibility to find a supervisor. They should meet with the potential supervisor in late Autumn term (every member of staff has weekly office hours) to discuss their dissertation proposal, and then get the supervisor to sign the HY4A4 Dissertation Proposal Form before the deadline at 12 noon on Friday, 8 December 2023, at the latest.

Note that the availability of individual supervisors is limited (and decreasing over time) as the supervision load is equally distributed among the teaching staff in the department. Every member of staff has a capped number of supervision slots, which fill up as supervisors take on supervisees. If the supervisor you wish to work with already has full number of dissertations s/he can supervise, you have to approach another member of staff.

Dissertation Proposals

The proposal form asks students to outline their topic and research question, the primary sources available for research, and the most important relevant literature. It is designed to ensure that the dissertation conforms to the department's regulations; that it is not too broad; and that it is on a subject with accessible primary sources. For the proposal itself to be approved, it needs to:

1. be sufficiently specific and substantial (incomplete, broad, or superficial proposals or proposals whose feasibility appears questionable will be rejected by the supervisor);
2. comply with the HY4A4 rules and regulations in this document.

Form and Deadline

The HY4A4 Dissertation Proposal Form is available on the HY4A4 Moodle site. Completed forms must be signed by the supervisor and submitted to the Masters Programmes Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk by 12 noon on Friday, 8 December 2023, at the latest.

Students, who miss the deadline for submitting a dissertation proposal with a confirmed supervisor, will be allocated a 'technical' supervisor who will assist them with general methodological and writing issues. Students cannot expect a subject-specialist supervisor if they miss the deadline.

Title Changes

Later title changes and changes in scope (within the confines of the same geographical region and time period) can be agreed informally with the supervisor at any time. Title changes do not require the approval of the Masters Programmes Tutor but do need to be registered with the office. However, do take care with the wording of the working title indicated on the proposal form as dissertation markers will be allocated on that basis.

Topic Changes

Significant later changes of the topic itself (ie, those that tackle a new geographical region or a significantly different time period from the original proposal) require the approval of the supervisor, and students will need to submit a new proposal on the HY4A4 Masters Dissertation Topic Change Form (available on Moodle), signed off by their supervisor, and submitted to the programme administrator before the end of the Spring Term.

Students who change their topic without discussing it with their supervisor and without, in the case of topic changes, resubmitting a Topic Change Proposal Form bear full responsibility for ensuring that their subject is within the regulations; if it is not, the dissertation will be failed.

Supervision after the Winter Term and Feedback on Written Work

It is the students' responsibility to contact their supervisor to arrange at least one but no more than three meetings in the Spring Term to discuss their dissertation. At this stage the supervisor will be prepared to read and give feedback on either a draft table of contents and a draft chapter or draft section of no more than 1,000 words or on a detailed plan of the dissertation of no more than 1,000 words. A mark will not be included in this feedback. Members of staff have no formal teaching obligations after the end of the Spring Term and are likely to travel for research or be otherwise unavailable for extended periods. It is the students' responsibility to enquire about the details of their supervisor's availability during the summer in good time and to make arrangements accordingly.

HY490 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance

1. Introduction

The HY490 dissertation in International History is mandatory for the MA in Modern History. It is the single most important component of this Masters degree programme: the dissertation requires students to pursue sustained primary research in an area of particular interest to them, and it is the sole paper in which a fail mark cannot be compensated by a Merit or better elsewhere (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook).

The HY490 dissertation is an exercise in using primary sources to write on a precise topic in Modern History. Candidates should aim to include an element of originality in the conceptualising of the thesis and/or the treatment of the evidence.

The dissertation has to be a study in International History. The dissertation is an exercise in using primary sources to write on a precise topic in Modern History. Students will be required to write a 10,000-word dissertation based on their own research. This can be on any topic decided in consultation with a supervisor in the Department of International History, and include topics which are international, domestic, theoretical and historiographical. Candidates should aim to include an element of originality in the argument and/or the treatment of the evidence.

The topic must not be confined purely to the domestic affairs of one society or state. The supervisor is the final judge of whether a particular topic falls within the syllabus.

Students, who miss the deadline for submitting a dissertation proposal with a confirmed supervisor, will be allocated a 'technical' supervisor who will assist them with general methodological and writing issues. Students cannot expect a subject-specialist supervisor if they miss the deadline.

Title Changes

Later title changes and changes in scope (within the confines of the same geographical region and time period) can be agreed informally with the supervisor at any time. Title changes do not require approval by the Masters Programmes Tutor but do need to be registered with the office. However, do take care with the wording of the working title indicated on the proposal form as dissertation markers will be allocated on that basis.

Topic Changes

Significant later changes of the topic itself (ie, those that tackle a new geographical region or a significantly different time period from the original proposal) require the approval of the supervisor, and students will need to submit a new proposal on the HY490 Masters Dissertation Topic Change Form (available on Moodle), signed off by their supervisor, and submitted to MSc Programmes Administrator before the end of the Spring Term.

Students who change their topic without discussing it with their supervisor and without, in the case of topic changes, resubmitting a Topic Change Proposal Form bear full responsibility for ensuring that their subject is within the regulations; if it is not, the dissertation will be failed.

Supervision after the Winter Term and Feedback on Written Work

It is the students' responsibility to contact their supervisor to arrange at least one but no more than three meetings in the Spring Term to discuss their dissertation. At this stage the supervisor will be prepared to read and give feedback on either a draft table of contents and a draft chapter or draft section of no more than 1,000 words or on a detailed plan of the dissertation of no more than 1,000 words. A mark will not be included in this feedback. Members of staff have no formal teaching obligations after the end of the Spring Term and are likely to travel for research or be otherwise unavailable for extended periods. It is the students' responsibility to enquire about the details of their supervisor's availability during the summer in good time and to make arrangements accordingly.

4. Sources

Most students undertake research for their dissertations in archives, such as for example the British National Archives (formerly the Public Record Office, PRO) at Kew or the US National Archives in College Park, MD near Washington, DC or an American Presidential Libraries. Note that the LSE Library Archives also have extensive holdings pertaining, in particular, to modern British history. However, published documents in edited collections – for example those in the Foreign Relations of the United States series or the Documents Diplomatiques Français – or primary documents found on respectable web sites are acceptable alternatives to archival research. For those working on pre-twentieth century topics numerous published sources, such as for example the Calendar of State Papers, exist and are easily accessible.

Memoirs, diaries, relevant media reports and information gathered from witness interviews also count as primary sources, but they should normally be used in conjunction with, not as alternatives to, documentary sources.

When choosing the subject and identifying the source material, students need to consider the opportunities and limitations resulting from their language skills: their language skills must be sufficient for the nature of the topic and the resulting primary and secondary sources of importance.

The HY490 Dissertation Workshops provide detailed information on primary sources and archival research as well as on secondary sources, and further information can also be found on the HY490 Moodle website.

If students have any doubts about the appropriateness or combination of specific sources in view of their particular topic, they should always consult their supervisor.

5. Writing and Presentation

The HY490 Dissertation Workshops in the Autumn Term provide further guidance on writing the dissertation and students are strongly encouraged to attend them. The following is some preliminary advice:

Students are expected to write clearly and to present a well-constructed argument. Chapter headings are usually helpful guideposts for the reader. The department expects Masters students to observe high standards of spelling, punctuation, and syntax, and students may be penalised for failing to do so. English or American spellings are acceptable, provided usage is consistent. For advice on prose style, consult a reliable manual such as Ernest Gowers, The Complete Plain Words, 3rd, rev. edn (Harmondsworth: Penguin, 1987) or William Strunk, The Elements of Style, 4th edn (Boston/London: Allyn and Bacon, 2000). Another alternative is a recent edition of The Chicago Manual of Style.

Students are allowed to ask somebody to proof-read their dissertation before it is submitted. This person should not, however, be a member of LSE staff (except for Language Centre personnel).

Quotations in major Western languages can be left in their original language, if desired. But in any case quotations should be used in moderation and generally be drawn from primary rather than secondary sources.

Good referencing is essential to avoid plagiarism (see section 7 below). Footnotes are required for all direct quotations and paraphrases and for all uncommon information drawn from primary or secondary sources. Notes should be footnotes rather than endnotes and should be numbered consecutively throughout the dissertation. For further guidance on referencing and bibliographic formats see the guidance documents on the HY490 Moodle site.

Students may include an appendix of no more than 12 pages, containing key documents, transcripts of oral history interviews, maps, illustrations, or other visual sources. The appendix must not contain additional dissertation text: if it is found to do so, it will be counted towards the word limit and penalties are likely to be incurred as a result (see sections 2 and 7 above and below).

Students must not put their name or student number, but only their candidate number on the dissertation and are required to state clearly on the dissertation the number of words that it contains (see sections 2, 6 and 7 above and below).

6. Submission

You MUST submit your dissertation to Turnitin available on the course Moodle page by 12 noon on Monday, 2 September 2024. Please note that the date and time that you submit your dissertation on Moodle is taken as the official submission time for the purposes of lateness penalties. If you experience any technical issues submitting your dissertation on Moodle, please email your dissertation to ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk and make sure it reaches the department by the deadline.

Students must not put their name or student number on the dissertation, but use their 5-digit candidate number instead (not the student ID).

Students are required to state clearly on their dissertation the number of words that it contains (see sections 2 and 7 above and below).

7. Penalties and Plagiarism

Dissertations exceeding the word limit of 10,000 words, including text and footnotes but excluding the cover page, the table of contents, the list of abbreviations, the bibliography, and appendices, will be subject to the following sliding scale of penalties: for up to every 100 words over the limit one mark out of 100 will be deducted - the penalty kicks in at one word over the limit – ie, at 10,001. Any dissertation with more than 1,000 words over the limit will be given a FAIL mark of 0 automatically. In that event, you would have to re-sit HY490. This would mean re-submitting a new dissertation within the deadline for resubmission. Students are formally required to state the total number of words on the front cover of their dissertations.

Failure to include a bibliography will result in the deduction of 5 marks out of 100.

Dissertations not submitted by the set deadline (or extended deadline as appropriate) will be subject to the following penalties: 5 marks out of 100 will be deducted for coursework submitted within the 24-hours of the deadline; a further five marks will be deducted for each subsequent 24-hour period (working days only) until the coursework is submitted. Please see Information on Assessment for the rules and procedures governing extensions.

Plagiarism, ie, the submission of someone else's work without acknowledging the original authorship, is a very serious offence. Both the Department and the School take a very strong line with regard to plagiarism and pursue it vigilantly. If detected in a dissertation, plagiarism is heavily penalised and may jeopardise the student's entire degree. Plagiarism covers not just the literal submission of somebody else's text as one's own (ie, copying out passages from books or articles or downloading material from the internet or copying material from class handouts circulated by staff or other students). It also extends to the appropriation of other people's ideas without acknowledgement. To avoid it, students must make certain that all quoted phrases, sentences, or paragraphs are in quotation marks and clearly footnoted and that all passages paraphrasing somebody else's work and ideas are properly footnoted, including page numbers (ie, detailing not just which text they came from, but also from where in the text they are to be found). Self-plagiarism is also unacceptable: this involves the inclusion in the dissertation of passages taken from earlier pieces of work by the student submitted for assessment either at LSE or elsewhere.

Students should remember that, when submitting the dissertation, they have to sign a declaration reminding them of LSE's rules on plagiarism and asking them to confirm that they have acknowledged all sources and ideas used in the dissertation. Those found to abuse the system and to plagiarise will face harsh penalties – plagiarism is cheating and will be treated accordingly.

8. Prizes

Exceptional distinction in dissertation performance will be recognised each year by the Examination Board in the form of the award of the Medlicott Prize or Prizes to one or more candidates.

9. Failing and Resubmitting the Dissertation

Please see the separate 'HY490 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission' for failed or un-submitted dissertations. A current, up-to-date version of this document for the year of the re-submission will be circulated to students who have failed or failed to submit the dissertation after the release of marks in November.

HY490 Dissertation Regulations, Procedures, Guidance ANNEX: Fail/AB Dissertation Resubmission

If students fail the HY490 dissertation, this is either because they have achieved a mark of less than 50 (categorised as FAIL) or because they did not submit the dissertation (categorised as AB for 'absent' and as a mark of 0 [nil]).

A Fail in the dissertation cannot be compensated by a Merit or better in another course unit (local rule 1 of the Classification Scheme, cf. the Masters Handbook). Students who have failed the dissertation must re-sit HY490 in order to be eligible to graduate next year.

Having failed HY490 also means that the mark achieved at re-sit will be capped at 50 in the calculation of any aggregate for the purpose of degree classification (cf. paragraph 4.2 of the Award Scheme).

Resubmission Deadline: Students can re-submit HY490 during the Postgraduate Resit and Deferred Assessment Period 1 (RDAP 1) in January 2025. This means that, if they pass in the second attempt, they can then be awarded a degree in March and graduate in July 2025. If the student is unable to re-submit the dissertation during RDAP 1, they will need to defer their submission to RDAP 2 in the Spring 2025 exam period. This means that, if they pass their dissertation in RDAP 2, they can then be awarded a degree in July and graduate in December. Please note that deadlines will be treated in the usual fashion with regard to all penalties.

Resubmission Topic: If students have failed due to non-submission and have therefore been categorised as AB [absent] = 0 for HY490, they may submit the dissertation that they were originally working on. They will not be offered any further supervision. Their former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact. If students have failed because the dissertation did not achieve a mark of 50 or above, then they can re-submit a revised version of their dissertation. They will not be offered any further supervision. The former supervisor (or, if he or she should be on sabbatical leave, a new member of staff) will merely serve as a formal point of contact to be consulted once to discuss how to achieve the new dissertation.

Feedback on failed dissertations: Feedback on failed dissertations will be provided by the point-of-contact (see above) as part of the one-off consultation on the re-submission.

Re-Entry: The Student Services Centre will automatically re-enter students who have failed the dissertation for a re-sit/re-submission in the academic year following the original deadline and will contact students about the re-sitting and re-entry procedures. Students will be charged a re-entry fee. Those students – but only those students – who failed HY490 only and decide to re-submit during RDAP must inform both the department and Student Services Centre of their intention to submit in the RDAP period.

Learning History, Study Skills

Why Study History?

'Important abilities and qualities of mind are acquired through the study of History. They are particularly valuable for the graduate as citizen and are readily transferable to many occupations and careers'

'The particular characteristics of History as a discipline: Its subject matter, distinguishing it from other humanities and social sciences, consists of the attempts of human beings in the past to organise life materially and conceptually, individually and collectively, while the object of studying these things is to widen students' experience and develop qualities of perception and judgement. History provides a distinctive education by providing a sense of the past, an awareness of the development of differing values, systems and societies and the inculcation of critical yet tolerant personal attitudes.'

'History's ability to promote understanding between cultures and between national traditions remains as important as ever.'

[Extracts from: History Benchmarking Draft Report, 1999]

**** *****

Apart from being extremely enjoyable and enabling students to learn about the past, to understand the past and through it, come to a far better understanding of the present, history also offers students the opportunity to acquire and improve on many of the key skills which have been identified as a priority for Higher Education after consultation with employers.

Each of the courses we offer has a separate description of its content and the way it is taught and examined. Each is distinctive and seeks to cover different yet complementary areas of history and chronological periods. Some also place particular stress on certain skills.

This document highlights the generic skills that are integral to all our courses.

Key Skills

The ideal graduate has recently been defined as someone who is adaptive, responsible and reflective, as well as possessing high level analytical and problem-solving skills. A number of key skills have been identified which have both intrinsic value and are regarded by employers as vital for the workplace:

- Communication (verbal and written)
- The use of information technology
- Learning to learn/ improving own learning and performance/working with others/numeracy.

Studying History

History places particular stress on the development of independent thought and analytical skills, and requires excellent communication skills, namely high levels of literacy and oral presentation. Consequently, students following history courses will be expected to do a great deal of independent work and independent thinking, as well as a good deal of reading and writing. You have to present the results of research both in independent work and in the context of group discussions. The need to come to terms with unfamiliar periods and areas facilitates reflective and adaptable skills, empathy and imaginative insight within critical and methodological constraints. Learning to understand the sixteenth-century Inquisitor or the Chinese peasant in the Cultural Revolution is not only fascinating in itself, but a complex exercise and nurtures multiple skills, not least enabling you to learn to understand unfamiliar cultures and belief systems. These topics are therefore as relevant in terms of skills as the most recent history of your own country. In making your choices you should bear these factors in mind. For those who come convinced that only Twentieth-Century History is relevant, think again!

The MSc in International and World History offers various types of courses in a wide range of subject areas. You are offered the opportunity to master a variety of subjects, in different formats, learning to deal with a wide intellectual and cultural range. Courses vary from general overviews at one extreme, to in-depth primary-source studies at the other. The former encourages understanding of historical process, with its mix of continuity and change; the latter sharpens the analysis of documentary and other material, developing research methods.

We encourage students to cover national as well as international history; political as well as social; early modern as well as contemporary; history of ideas as much as history of events. Each level, each topic, provides specific tasks and stretches the student in a different direction. Collectively, they reinforce each other as nurture the acquisition of complementary skills. History degrees aim to widen the student's experience and develop qualities of perception and judgement, while fostering intellectual independence, sharpness and maturity.

Seminars

History in general encourages and develops both conceptual and thematic thinking and requires the results to be expressed coherently and persuasively. Classes and seminars at this level are not passive learning exercises. They are intended to allow you to discuss the reading you have done and to learn from others. They will help you to develop vital communication and critical skills. Here you are expected to listen, engage in debate, offer reasoned arguments and learn to sustain or amend your own views in the light of the response of others. Although it does not account for your final mark, you will be graded throughout your career on class performance and employers invariably request comments on this area of a student's performance.

Essays

History requires high levels of literacy. Employers too emphasise the need for high levels of proficiency in written work. The ability to persuade through reasoned and clear argument is invaluable in many areas of life. History requires the production of essays and other forms of written work and it both rewards good skills and penalises poor quality work.

Writing essays forces you to practice these technical skills, prompting you to develop greater clarity in structure and expression while also giving you the opportunity to refine your skills at putting forward clear arguments. Demonstrating an understanding of material, conceptual grasp, marshalling an argument, deploying ideas and information, these are the crucial skills to develop.

You will get feedback from essays and classes regarding your general standard of English. You should not ignore these comments. On the contrary, you should act on the recommendations to improve. There are books which give helpful hints on essay writing. For more serious problems, the Language Centre can provide help. It is essential to appreciate that poor spelling, poor syntax and poor presentation will affect your marks adversely in the exams and will make you less attractive to future employers.

Essays require independent research as well as coherent explanations. You are encouraged to do as much work independently as you can, to read widely and extensively. Having gathered information from various sources you must learn how to organise and assess it, although it will often be contradictory or conflicting. This is why you are encouraged to explore the library's holdings independently and only rarely given specific page references to books or articles. Learning how to identify the main topics for your essay and how to find the relevant information are essential parts of your training.

A Guide to Writing

1. Organisation

History essays and examination answers normally consist of three parts:

- 1 An analytical introduction of at least half a page that familiarises the reader with the issue you will address; makes clear your attitude toward it; and mentions in passing the sub-topics through which you will address it. Try to break the issue down into its component parts, and make each part a sub-topic.
- 2 The body of the paper: a carefully structured series of logically linked paragraphs that develops each of your sub-topics using specific evidence and examples.
- 3 An analytical conclusion that flows logically from your argument and sums it up, with reference to the evidence deployed in the body of your paper.

2. Paragraphs

A paragraph must contain the following three elements:

- 1 A 'topic sentence' that makes clear the paragraph's subject, and provides a logical transition from the preceding paragraph.
- 2 Several sentences of development of the thought of the topic sentence.
- 3 A concluding sentence that ends the train of thought appropriately, and helps provide a logical transition to the following paragraph.

3. Avoiding non-sentences

Sentences must have at least a subject and a verb:

No: 'A secret organisation called Mau Mau with no clear leader nor single definition'.

No: 'It is easy to see that due to Germany's aims at any cost to become a world power unleashed the forces causing World War I.'

4. Perfect spelling

Please always use a spelling checker or a dictionary! And always proof-read carefully.

5. Crack the use of the apostrophe to show plural or something belonging to something

The Queen The four Queens

The Queen's Crown The Queens' Palaces

'It's' is a short version of 'It is', and better not used.

6. Avoid the passive voice, non-specifics and generalisations

PASSIVE VOICE: 'There was a view that the Congo might break-up in 1960 and the Prime-Minister was assassinated.'

ACTIVE VOICE: 'Western powers feared the Congo might break-up in 1960, and used proxies to assassinate Lumumba.'

The phrase 'there was' – is best avoided.

7. Ditch present participles

Present participles are verb forms ending in -ing that designate continuing action. Use them as sparingly as possible.

Eg: 'Seeing the French Navy approaching, Nelson's tactics shifted.'

Better: 'As the French Navy approached...'

8. Write impersonally

'I' 'Me'. 'We'. Use sparingly.

Make the historical actors or forces the subjects of your sentences – even introductory ones.

9. Verb tenses

Deal with past events using the past tenses.

NB:

- 1 The past tense of 'to lead' is 'led'.
- 2 would, when used to designate a past time closer to the present than the past time you are discussing (ie, '...would occur...') is awkward, Always use a past tense instead.
- 3 might is the past tense of 'may'.

10. Singular or plural?

Never mix singular subjects with plural verbs or pronouns (or vice versa): 'Even in making the treaty, Germany felt it should be made on their terms.'

(Germany is singular, their is plural).

11. Gender and numbers

Pronouns that refer to countries should always be neuter ('its') not feminine ('her'). The United States – since 1865, is a unit; please consider it singular for purposes of pronoun agreement. In general, collective nouns ('government'; 'Nazi Party'; country names such as 'Germany' or 'France') are singular and therefore take singular verbs and pronouns.

12. Don't use pronouns without a clear antecedent

Beware of using sentences or paragraphs that begin with 'this'.

For instance: 'This was the basic idea of French policy...' (beginning a paragraph)

The reader may be left confused.

13. Commas

Commas are pauses: they halt the flow of the sentence. Do not use a comma unless you really want a pause. Read your sentences out loud to detect excessive use of commas. Shorter sentences are good for clarity. Don't glue separate sentences together with a comma.

14. Abbreviations, colloquialisms, jargon

Contractions (can't, won't, it's, and so on) are unacceptable in formal writing.

Colloquialisms (slang) and jargon are not a good idea either. Do not use eg.

Avoid phrases such as:

- 'at that time' [be specific - use the date instead]
- 'time period' [redundant - what is a period if not a period of time?]
- 'So,' (beginning a sentence)

15. Verbosity, redundancy, repetition

Make every word count. Never say the same thing twice in successive sentences.

Do not even repeat the same word in successive sentences unless you wish to emphasise it, cannot find a substitute, or the word is the subject of the sentence.

But when in doubt, choose repetition over lack of clarity.

16. Frequently misused or mis-spelled words

Affect (as a noun) : do not confuse it with 'cause and effect'. The verb 'to affect' means 'to influence'; 'to effect' is an archaic way of saying 'to do'. Do not confuse the two.

Advancement as a noun, except when meaning career advancement: the noun is 'advance' (as in 'advances in science')

Aggression: double g

As, in a causal sense, is stuck up and unclear. Use 'because' or 'since'.

Ascendancy when you mean 'ascent' or 'accession' (to the throne)

Disinterest, disinterested means not having a stake in; if you mean lack of interest, uninterested, Expansionary is not a word; the word is expansionist

Like with a verb, as in the slogan 'like a cigarette should'. Use like only to compare nouns; with verbs, substitute 'as' for 'like.'

Quote is a verb and nothing else; the noun is 'quotation'.

Tenet, a fundamental principle of a religion or ideology, from the Latin tenere, to hold (often misspelled as 'tenent' or 'tenant' or simply garbled).

To, too: the difference is great: be especially careful in proofreading

Whilst, while not incorrect, if you can bear to use while, please do so.

17. Quotations

Quotations from secondary sources - with rare exceptions - clutter the text to no purpose except as padding. Therefore, do not quote, except when citing primary sources such as the words of historical figures, or when taking issue with a secondary source on a point of interpretation.

If you use a long quotation that runs over two lines, then you must indent it as a mini paragraph and you do not use quotation marks.

All other quotes should conform to either the UK style (single quotes inside the sentence)

The tsar insisted 'Napoleon's use of the word "constitution" is wrong'.

OR the American style (double quotes outside the sentence):

The tsar insisted "Napoleon's use of the word 'constitution' is wrong."

Be consistent. For further elaboration on footnoting see the Dissertation Guidelines.

18. Capitalisation

Use capitalisation sparingly - a little goes along way. As a general rule, only capitalise proper nouns, including full names of institutions. Do not capitalise titles ('president,' 'king,' 'queen') unless they immediately precede the name of an individual. One exception: always capitalise German nouns (Dolchstoss, Blitzkrieg, Geist, etc.)

19. Reference works

The following may be particularly useful in refining style and organisation:

- The Economist Style Guide 11th edition (2015) PE1421 S93
- Christopher Lasch, Plain Style: A Guide to Written English (2002) PE1408 L34
- William Strunk, Jr and E. B. White, The Elements of Style PE1408 S92
- W. H. Fowler, A Dictionary of Modern English Usage (1965) PE1625 F78
- Wilson Follett, Modern American Usage: A Guide (1966) PE1460 F66
- Should you seek a historian as a model for your writing, do peruse Ronald Syme, The Roman Revolution (1939 – but still in paperback; also DG254 S98). It covers matters not taught in this Department, but is the closest thing to Tacitus in English: a brilliant and lasting historical work.

20. Common errors to search for

- it's (USE 'It is...' 'The Amristar Massacre was imperial policy at its worst.')
ELIMINATE 'it's'!
- lead (make absolutely sure that you do not mean led)
- like with a verb (substitute 'as' for 'like': see Section 15, above)
- may (change to might? - see Section 7.3, above)
- now, then, at that point, at that time (BE SPECIFIC)
- them, their (check pronoun agreement)
- This, this (check for clear antecedent)
- time period, period of time (REDUNDANT; BE SPECIFIC)
- quote (must be a verb; the noun is 'quotation')
- utilise (or utilize) (ick!)
- would (when referring to a later past time - see Section 7.2, above)
- Yet, and But (NO COMMA - ever - after an initial 'Yet' or 'But')

Spelling errors

Your spelling checker should pick up the following errors, but please be aware of them; these are some common errors:

- Britian (Britain)
- Bismark (Bismarck)
- Napolean (Napoleon)
- guerilla (guerrilla = little war', from guerra [war, Spanish])
- emporer (emperor)

It is a really good idea to leave enough time at the end of your final draft to:

- 1 run all papers attentively through the spelling checker.
- 2 proof-read carefully after spell-checking to ensure that your sentences make sense, and to eliminate the innumerable errors that spelling checkers cannot catch (ie, 'form' for 'from,' 'too' for 'to').

And finally, a couple of the most abused grammatical devices: the semi-colon, colon and dash.

21. Semi-colons

A semi-colon creates more separation between thoughts than a comma but less than a full stop. Two main uses:

- 1 To help separate items in a list, when some of those items already contain commas.

I bought shiny, ripe apples, small, sweet, juicy grapes, and firm pears.

Better:

I bought shiny, ripe apples; small, sweet, juicy grapes; and firm pears.

- 2 To join two sentences.

An independent clause is a group of words that can stand on its own (independently)—it is a complete sentence. Semi-colons can be used between two independent clauses. The semi-colon keeps the clauses somewhat separate, as a full-stop (period) would do, so we can easily tell which ideas belong to which clause. But it also suggests that there may be a close relationship between the two clauses—closer than you would expect if there were a full-stop between them.

Examples:

I went to Waitrose today; I bought a ton of fruit. Apples, grapes, and pears were all on sale.

OR

I went to Waitrose today. I bought a ton of fruit; apples, grapes, and pears were all on sale.

BUT NOT:

I went to Waitrose today; I bought a ton of fruit; apples, grapes, and pears were all on sale.

22. Colons

Colons follow independent clauses (clauses that could stand alone as sentences) and can be used to present an explanation, draw attention to something, or join ideas together.

- 1 To announce, introduce, or direct attention to a list, a noun or noun phrase, a quotation, or an example/explanation. You can use a colon to draw attention to many things in your writing. The categories listed below often overlap, so don't worry too much about whether your intended use of the colon fits one category perfectly.

Lists/series:

We covered many of the fundamentals in our writing class: grammar, punctuation, style, and voice.

Nouns:

My roommate gave me the things I needed most: companionship and quiet.

Quotations:

Shakespeare said it best: 'To thine own self be true.'

- 2 To join sentences. You can use a colon to connect two sentences when the second sentence summarises, sharpens, or explains the first. Both sentences should be complete, and their content should be very closely related. But if you use colons this way too often, it can break up the flow of your writing: do not get carried away!

Example:

Life is like a puzzle: half the fun is in trying to work it out.

- 3 To express time, in titles, and as part of other writing conventions. Colons appear in several standard or conventional places in writing.

With numbers. Colons are used to separate units of time (4:45:00 expresses four hours, forty-five minutes, and zero seconds); ratios (2:1), and Bible verses and chapters (Matthew 2:24). In bibliography entries. Many citation styles use a colon to separate information in bibliography entries.

Example:

Kurlansky, M. (2002). Salt: A World History (New York, NY: Walker and Co).

23. To dash or not to dash...

The dash is not one of the basic building blocks of grammar but now and again it can be perfect. Overusing dashes can break up the flow of your writing, making it choppy or even difficult to follow, so don't overdo it.

Dashes are not hyphens, which are shorter lines (-) and are most often used to show connections between words that are working as a unit (for example, 'well-intentioned').

Dashes do the following and are used by writers

- 1 To set off material for emphasis. Think of dashes as the opposite of brackets (parentheses). Where parentheses indicate that the reader should put less emphasis on the enclosed material, dashes indicate that the reader should pay more attention to the material between the dashes. Dashes add drama—parentheses whisper.

- 2 Dashes can be used for emphasis in several ways:

A single dash can emphasise material at the beginning or end of a sentence.

Example:

After eighty years of dreaming, the elderly man realised it was time finally to revisit the land of his youth—Ireland.

Example:

'The Office'—a harmless television programme or a dangerously subversive guide to delinquency in the workplace?

Two dashes can emphasise material in the middle of a sentence.

Example:

Everything I saw in my new neighbourhood—from the graceful elm trees to the stately brick buildings—reminded me of my alma mater.

Two dashes can emphasise a modifier. Words or phrases that describe a noun can be set off with dashes if you wish to emphasise them.

Example:

The fairgrounds—cold and wet in the October rain—were deserted.

- 3 To indicate sentence introductions or conclusions. You can sometimes use a dash to help readers see that certain words are meant as an introduction or conclusion to your sentence.

Example:

Books, paper, pencils— in nineteenth-century America many students lacked even the simplest tools for learning.

- 4 To mark 'bonus phrases'. Phrases that add information or clarify but are not necessary to the meaning of a sentence are ordinarily set off with commas. But when the phrase itself already contains one or more commas, dashes can help readers understand the sentence.

Slightly confusing example with commas but with a dash

Example:

Even the simplest tasks—washing, dressing, and going to work—were nearly impossible after I broke my leg.

- 5 To break up dialogue. In written dialogue, if a speaker suddenly or abruptly stops speaking, hesitates in speech, or is cut off by another speaker, a dash can indicate the pause or interruption.

Example:

'I—I don't know what you're talking about', denied the politician.

Advice on Writing Notes

In order to complete any course in Arts and Social Sciences it is vital to produce a set of notes, taken from lectures, tutorials and especially books and articles. These notes must eventually provide you with the necessary arguments, ideas and facts with which to answer essay questions, during the year and in examinations. The purpose of this handout is to give some general hints on how to go about writing notes. As with essay-writing, it is impossible to make any hard-and-fast rules about note making. Everyone will write different notes on the same book or on the same lecture. Nevertheless, it is possible to lay down certain guidelines and to emphasise what you should not be doing.

The first step is, of course, to decide which topics you wish to write notes upon. To an extent this should suit your own interests, but it will also be dictated by the essays you are asked to write during the year and by the questions which appear on examination papers. Past examination questions may help provide you with a focus for the various ideas which appear in books as well as giving hints as to future questions.

Ultimately, a set of notes, on each of the topics you have chosen to cover, should be:

- 1 short enough so that you can revise from them quickly, but comprehensive enough to answer a range of questions fully;
- 2 easy to understand - usually by being divided into several major headings, each of which may have a number of sub-headings, and with a wide range of short, clear analytical points, if necessary, backed up by some selected factual illustrations (dates and events, or statistics, etc.). In any notes, you should include a form of shorthand as far as possible, eg, B for Britain; Gov for government; WWI for First World War; 19thc for nineteenth century; cld for could. The more abbreviations you can make without making the notes difficult to decipher, the better;
- 3 a clear introduction to the main elements under every topic, or in an article or chapter of a book. Again a balanced sub-division of notes into major headings will enable you to use one set of notes, with some quick restructuring, to answer several questions;
- 4 a mixture of arguments and facts, but with the emphasis on argument and analysis. This will ensure that the essays you write are also based on analysis first and foremost. Notes must avoid mere chronology and the simple repetition of facts. Dates and events should illustrate an argument, not become a substitute for it.

By the time of the examinations, you should aim to write a single set of notes on each topic you have selected. These will be taken from four main sources:

Classes and Seminars

These can be used to explore additional issues and arguments, but in order to be valuable they require preparation by students. Those who do not prepare adequately for a class will not understand or be able to contribute to the debate. The main purpose of classes and seminars is to talk and think; they are an opportunity to express your own ideas and to consider other ideas put forward in the discussion. They are not meant to serve as a source of information, and so the amount of notes you can take from classes may only be half a side or so. It will depend on the quality of discussion and its coherence. It can be difficult to be coherent as a book. As classes are not lectures they should not become a monologue by the tutor, however short the students are on ideas. You may find it easier to write notes up after the class finishes.

But again, write down any arguments and illustrations that do seem pertinent. Also write down any questions and the answers suggested to them. And try to sum up the main opposing arguments in any debate that takes place.

Books and Articles

These are clearly vital in order to explore the views of historians and political scientists, but can be complex and long. The problem here is scale: there are numerous books and articles on any bibliography and each can lead to long, detailed notes. You need to be selective, both about the number of books and articles you read, and what you note about them. Part of your university education means developing an ability to make judgments about what you should and should not read on the basis of what is important or relevant to your particular task. Regarding the number of books to read: be guided by any advice that tutors and lecturers might give. You should try and concentrate on detailed studies, rather than general texts and read until you feel that you have a sound understanding of the major problems on any subject, and are able to write a fair answer to any essay question you have been asked.

On individual books, don't simply read everything from cover-to-cover: some books are worth reading as a whole but generally you should use books selectively, looking only at sections that are relevant to your needs. You need to distil from books their main arguments, to note down some factual illustrations that back arguments up (dates, events, actions of key characters, statistics, etc.) and sometimes to write out key, telling quotes (but keep these to a minimum, since they are difficult to remember in examinations.)

It can be difficult to understand the main arguments of a large book at first and the problem is always what exactly to note down. To some extent this requires practice, but it is possible to distil the main arguments from a book by reading either the introduction, or the conclusion, or the introductions and conclusions to individual chapters. At these points almost every book contains a summary of its main ideas. Once you are aware of the main arguments, then any subsidiary arguments and any illustrations or good quotes should also begin to stand out.

Some students believe in 'skip-reading': they simply read the first sentence of each paragraph. In some books this may not be a bad idea but in general it is a rather crude way of going about things! However, it can be useful to skip-read a book at first in order to get the gist of what it is saying - then go back and read it in greater detail.

Again, practice should enable you to keep notes on books to a minimum (perhaps four to six sides on major works; but others should be shorter or you'll simply end up with too much). But initially you may find yourself writing down more than the essential arguments and illustrations. You must work at preventing this because otherwise you will not be making the best use of your time. It may be wise to practice writing notes with an article rather than a book, because articles can be just as valuable as books but are shorter, give a clear idea of why they were written and usually make their main arguments clear in the conclusion.

Primary source materials such as diaries and memoirs by those involved in events can be used to reinforce and illustrate arguments, but may be biased and have a limited perspective. Keep notes on these down to essentials. Collections of documents are more important and should be looked at by graduate students on a selective basis.

After reading several books and articles you may be able to distinguish several approaches to a question. It is then important to note down these differences: it can be useful in essays to show that you understand different schools of thought on an issue, the various arguments used to back them up and any differing interpretations of evidence.

Once you have taken notes from all the above sources, you are well advised to boil them down into a single, coherent, comprehensive set of notes, suitable for quick revision. Some students prefer not to do this, but others can become confused in examinations as they try to fuse together ideas drawn from several sets of notes. A single set of notes will iron out any discrepancies, knock out repetitions and expose any remaining gaps in your knowledge. It will also force you to make final decisions on what you think about a historical problem: what elements are most important, where do you stand in any debate, and why do you take this viewpoint? Again, a single, well-structured set of notes will allow you to adapt quickly in examinations to whatever question appears.

There will be an early chance to test your notes, when you are asked to write an essay during the year. This will expose any gaps in the notes. Whoever marks this essay should point out possible ways to strengthen arguments or to bring in further ideas and information. You should then go back to your notes and make any necessary changes.

Essay Writing

History does not lend itself to “right” and “wrong” answers to questions, and there is no single “correct” approach to any important historical problem. It is possible to write essays on the same question using different material and reaching different conclusions which both gain the same good mark. But the following provides advice to those answering historical questions in course work and examinations, points out some pitfalls and suggests possible approaches to major problems.

Notes

After choosing the questions which you wish to answer, you will need to amass a body of information – from lectures, from tutorials and from your own reading – and organise it into a coherent set of notes. As you read, note down not just information but points to emphasise, investigate or question. Do not simply copy out relevant passages (unless they merit direct quotation). Try to summarise or analyse the facts in your own words rather than simply acquiring factual information.

Thinking ahead to examinations (on which more below) it is best always to structure your notes in such a way that they can be used to answer a wide range of questions on any given topic. This can be achieved by subdividing notes thematically. For example, on the Origins of the Cold War, you might have subdivisions covering origins 1944-47, ideological differences, economic aspects, particular points of dispute, then on the 1947-53 period the impact of events in Europe (Czech, Berlin) and events in Asia (Korea, establishment of communist China). This kind of structure will enable you to answer a broad range of questions on the Cold War.

It is a good idea to begin your reading with general material and move to more specialised reading once you have acquired a broader background. All essays require reading from several sources. You cannot use only one book or article. It is vital to read widely and to evaluate the different views of writers.

Answering the Question

The greatest problem in writing a history essay is deciding exactly what is required from a given question. Frequently students lose most marks by failing to answer the question, so this weakness deserves close attention. Having gathered a comprehensive set of notes you must select the right material and structure an argument to answer the question.

In its simplest form, failing to answer the question may simply mean getting the subject wrong: asked to write an essay on the Truman Doctrine you write one on the Monroe Doctrine. The only way to avoid this is to read thoroughly and think carefully. But such basic errors are very rare.

Another problem is when only half of a question is answered. 'Why, and with what consequences, did China enter the Korean War?' requires you to answer both parts. Too often, this kind of question is simply answered from the viewpoint of 'why?' you also need to say something about the results of Chinese entry.

Far more common is a failure to direct your answer specifically at the question. It is very easy to slip into writing 'all I know about' a particular issue. For example, when faced with the question: 'How far was Russia responsible for the outbreak of the First World War?' you either write a general history of Russian foreign Policy before 1914 or you write a general account of the July-August 1914 crisis. Obviously some points about Russian foreign policy before 1914 are needed. But you must direct yourself at the question, looking at Russia's role in the 1914 war crisis in the same detail, and then assessing (by looking at the role of other powers and general factors) the significance of this in leading to conflict.

Always think carefully about what is required and plan your argument accordingly. This crucial operation should not be left until the end of your reading but should go on continuously throughout. As your reading progresses decide on which books or articles are most relevant. Then plan the stages of your argument in more detail. What specific points need to be made? In what order and with what relative emphasis? Can they be clarified by well-chosen examples or quotations? Plan your essay.

Answers can be unbalanced if too much time is spent on background and not enough on the essence of the problem; too much can be written on one theme when numerous issues need to be discussed.

A particular problem with history questions is slipping into a chronological narrative. It is very easy to produce a list of facts and dates without argument or analysis. But factual material should be used as a 'skeleton' around which an analysis is based. The opposite problem is a diatribe: all opinion and no evidence. This is not acceptable either. Arguments must be supported. An answer needs analysis.

Structure

An essay needs to have a paragraph structure through which the argument is developed. Ideally, this should include an Introduction to "set the scene" or to give a brief outline of the essay; a number of paragraphs, each dedicated to a particular element in an answer; and a Conclusion, which draws elements together, looks back to the original question and reaches sensible and coherent conclusions about it.

With questions where you are asked to produce a 'list' of factors for example 'Why did the Nationalists win the Spanish Civil War?' the structure is fairly easy: each paragraph can look at a particular factor. But questions which ask you to 'discuss' an issue will need more thought. In such circumstance your answer should show that you understand the question, that you are aware of different schools of thought on a particular problem (the various ideas put by historians), but that you have a case of your own, which you favour, and which you develop in the essay.

Style

In general, be crisp, precise and lucid: use clear, understandable English to make your points. Do not waffle. Do not be repetitive. Do not 'overwrite': this is where, in order to illustrate your unsurpassed appreciation of the intricacies of the beautiful English tongue, you determine on a course of unremitting punishment for the unfortunate witness to your dubious talent (the reader) by writing somewhat in the present manner.

There are various other things to avoid: bad spelling; colloquialisms; long or convoluted sentences. The use of the first person ('I think...' and 'In my view...') should also be avoided.

Once you have finished an essay a good idea is to leave it overnight or even longer before reading it over. It is easier to pick up on errors in this way.

References

Since an essay is an evaluation of evidence, there must be some indication of the sources of the writer's material. An elaborate set of footnotes is not required but you must provide:

- 1 a list of books, chapters and articles consulted at the end of the essay using the following form:

AUTHOR, TITLE OF BOOK, PLACE AND YEAR OF PUBLICATION.

AUTHOR, TITLE OF ARTICLE (in inverted commas), TITLE OF JOURNAL IN WHICH THE ARTICLE APPEARS, VOLUME NO. FOR JOURNALS, YEAR OF PUBLICATION.

AUTHOR, TITLE OF CHAPTER (in inverted commas), NAME OF EDITOR OF BOOK AND TITLE OF BOOK IN WHICH CHAPTER APPEARS, PLACE AND DATE OF PUBLICATION.

Essays without bibliographies are not acceptable.

- 2 a footnote or an endnote showing the source (including page no.) of any direct quotation you make or in order to acknowledge the source of a particular argument.

Copying word for word from sources (primary or secondary) without due acknowledgement is not acceptable. Essays which contain such acknowledged and 'undigested' borrowing may be rejected as this is a form of plagiarism.

An essay must always reflect your own analysis.

Examinations

Some additional advice for examinations:

- read all the questions. Make sure that there are no supplementary pages, or questions printed overleaf. You must give yourself the maximum choice.
- follow the rubric, at the top of the page, on how many questions to answer: there is no point answering four questions if only three are required. Also avoid answering three questions from Section A when you should have answered one each from Sections A, B and C. In order to maximise your mark, it is vital to answer the required number of questions. If you are only left with 20 minutes and are running out of ideas you can at least hope to pick up some marks – whereas writing nothing will get no marks at all. You will be penalised for 'short weight', so make sure you time yourself properly and answer all questions.
- choose the questions you answer carefully, making sure that you have the necessary material (ie, facts and argument) to provide an adequate answer
- once again, always answer the question. It is particularly easy to stray from the point in exams.
- in exam conditions, you cannot hope to write the same length of essay as you do during the year, but the same structure applies: an introduction, tackling the problem in separate paragraphs, and reaching a conclusion, with a good mix of fact and analysis.
- even though you will be rushed, write as neatly and legibly as possible. Otherwise you can lose marks. Scripts which are deemed unreadable will have to be typed at your expense.

Information on Assessment

Essays

There is informal (formative) assessment of students throughout their year-long courses in the International History Department, mainly in terms of marking and feedback of essays and class performance.

Some courses also include an assessed essay (or several assessed essays) or other piece of work as part of the final grade – normally these range from 25% to 60% (summative assessment).

Detailed information about assessment on each course can be found in course guides via this link lse.ac.uk/resources/calendar/courseGuides/graduate.htm. The reason for assessment diversity is that we hold to the principle that teachers should be allowed a measure of freedom in the way they teach courses, adopting the methods they judge most effective as a means of imparting and assessing knowledge and skills. Students should be aware that assessed essays can bring down as well as enhance results from unseen exams.

All teachers fill out detailed feedback forms for all formative and summative essays. Feedback on formative assessments is given to students within 3 weeks of the submission deadline. Feedback on summative assessments is given to students within 4 weeks of the submission deadline or in the subsequent term if the assessment is submitted at the end of term. Students meet individually with the teachers in office hours to discuss the assessment of their work.

On any other exam-related data, you can apply to gain access to your file via the DPA process after LSE has released the final results:

Essay Submission

Formative Coursework Submission Guidelines

The Department of International History requires all pieces of formative coursework to be submitted in electronic form to Turnitin via Moodle. You should follow these guidelines carefully to ensure that your coursework is submitted in the correct manner.

Grades and feedback may be withheld if you fail to submit your coursework properly.

Preparing your Submission

- check your work thoroughly – a spellchecker may not identify errors in names and dates
- stick to the set word limits (includes any footnote text, but excludes the bibliography)
- cite primary and secondary sources carefully to avoid plagiarism (see below)

Submitting your Coursework Electronically

- save the coursework as a .doc or .docx file – no other file types will be accepted
- the file name MUST include the course code and your name – eg, HY-name.doc
- the coursework file MUST NOT include your candidate number

1. Submit a copy of your coursework to Turnitin

- use the specific link for the piece of coursework listed on the course Moodle page to submit it
- this submission will generate a Turnitin originality report, which you should read carefully using the guidance documents listed below
- if you wish to edit and resubmit the piece of coursework, it must be done BEFORE the set (or extended) deadline
- to edit the submitted coursework, click Edit, then delete the previous version, upload the new version and click Save Changes (this will also generate a new report)
- if you experience any issues submitting your coursework on Moodle, contact your Programme Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk or the Web Resources Editor at ih.projectadmin@lse.ac.uk

Turnitin Guidance

- Instructions on how to view and interpret your Turnitin originality report (provided by LSE LTI) [lse.atlassian.net/wiki/spaces/ag/pages/398753797/how+to+interpret+turnitin+originality+reports];
- Watch a video on how to interpret your Turnitin originality report youtube.com/watch?v=6bjnVRVIdJA
- Originality reports can take anytime between 10 minutes and several hours (depending on how busy the Turnitin servers are) to be fully generated

Plagiarism

It is your responsibility to avoid plagiarism in your work. You should use the Turnitin report to see if there are any issues with your coursework before the final deadline. If you are unsure or have any concerns, you can ask your class teacher, the Teacher

Responsible for the Course, or your Academic Mentor for further advice. Coursework will be screened, and any cases of suspected plagiarism will be taken very seriously.

Assessed Essays (summative coursework) submission guidelines

The Department of International History requires all pieces of summative coursework to be submitted in electronic form to Turnitin via Moodle. You should follow these guidelines carefully to ensure that your coursework is submitted in the correct manner. Grades and feedback may be withheld if you fail to submit your coursework properly.

Preparing your Submission

- check your work thoroughly – a spellchecker may not identify errors in names and dates
- stick to the set word limits (includes any footnote text, but excludes the bibliography)
- cite all primary and secondary sources carefully to avoid plagiarism (see below)
- save the coursework as a .doc or .docx file – no other file types will be accepted
- the file name MUST include the course code and your candidate number – eg, HYxxx-CandidateNumberxxxxxx.doc
- the coursework file MUST NOT include your name

Submitting your Coursework Electronically

- use the specific link for the coursework, listed on the course Moodle page, to submit this file
- this submission will generate a Turnitin originality report, which you should read carefully using the guidance documents listed below (see below)
- if you wish to edit and resubmit the piece of coursework, it must be done BEFORE the final submission deadline (or revised deadline, where an extension has been confirmed)
- to edit the submitted coursework, click Edit, then delete the previous version, upload the new version, and then Save Changes (this will also generate a new originality report)
- if you experience any issues submitting your coursework on Moodle, contact your Programme Administrator at ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk or the Web Resources Editor at ih.projectadmin@lse.ac.uk

Turnitin Guidance

- Instructions on how to view and interpret your Turnitin report (provided by LSE LTI) [lse.atlassian.net/wiki/spaces/ag/pages/398753797/how+to+interpret+turnitin+originality+reports];
- Watch a video on how to interpret your Turnitin originality report youtube.com/watch?v=6bjnVRVIdJA
- Originality reports can take anytime from 10 minutes to several hours (depending on how busy the Turnitin servers are) to be fully generated.

Plagiarism

It is your responsibility to avoid plagiarism in your work. You should use the Turnitin originality report to see if there are any issues with your coursework before the final submission deadline. If you are unsure or have any concerns, you can ask your class teacher, the Teacher Responsible for the Course, or your Academic Mentor for further advice. Coursework will be screened, and any cases of suspected plagiarism will be taken very seriously.

Last year, there were a few cases of alleged plagiarism which either resulted in a penalty, or referral to a School Assessment Misconduct Panel.

The School's regulations on plagiarism can be viewed at:

info.lse.ac.uk/staff/divisions/academic-registrars-division/teaching-quality-assurance-and-review-office/assets/documents/calendar/regulationsassessmentoffences-plagiarism.pdf

Extensions

The Department expects students to meet assessed coursework submission deadlines, and it is your responsibility to organise your time appropriately. Extensions to deadlines can only be considered if you experience circumstances which are sudden, unforeseen, out of your control and proximate to the assessment(s) in question. You will also need to supply evidence of those circumstances which meets LSE's Standards of Evidence policy; in the majority of cases, requests without evidence cannot be considered.

To allow for processing time, any extension requests must be made at least three days in advance of the submission deadline. Students should complete the form provided on the course Moodle page, gather supporting documents or other evidence, and email the form and the evidence to ih.pgadmin@lse.ac.uk. You will be notified by email as to whether your extension is granted by the Chair of the Exam Sub-Board. Please do not assume that your extension has been granted until you have received such an email.

Unfortunately, the Department cannot consider extension requests made less than three days before the submission deadline. If you experience adverse circumstances after this time but before the submission deadline, you should consult the Exceptional Circumstances procedures.

Penalties for the Late Submission of Assessed Work and Exceeding Word Limits

Assessed essays must be submitted exclusively during School working hours. 5 points out of 100 will be deducted for un-authorized late submissions received during the first 24 hours after the deadline, and a further 5 points will be deducted for each subsequent 24-hour lateness period, or fraction thereof. After five working days, coursework will only be accepted with the permission of the Chair of Master's Exam Sub-Board.

Penalty policy on exceeding the word limit on assessed essays: 'for up to every 100 words over the limit one mark out of 100 will be deducted'. This means that the penalty kicks in at one word over the limit.

In accordance with Departmental policy, computer hardware, software, or printer failures or malfunctions will not be accepted as valid reasons for late submission. Please therefore be sure to keep back-up copies of all your work.

As the essay is part of your examination, plagiarism is regarded as cheating and, if evidence for it is strong enough, the essay will be marked ZERO. In addition, you are likely to find yourself in front of the LSE Misconduct Panel, where harsher punishments are available. For further details, see:

info.lse.ac.uk/staff/divisions/academic-registrars-division/teaching-quality-assurance-and-review-office/assets/documents/calendar/regulationsassessmentoffences-plagiarism.pdf

All students must be asked to add a declaration on all work submitted as part of the formal assessment for their degree other than work produced under examination conditions, to the effect that they have read and understood the School's rules on assessment offences and that the work submitted is their own apart from properly referenced quotations.

Examination Resits – AKA the Resit and Deferred Assessment Period (RDAP)

The School procedure for handling deferred assessments and resits is as follows. If you defer an assessment or you do not pass the assessment/s for a course and need to resit, you will take those deferred or resit assessments in the postgraduate RDAP. All postgraduate deferred and resit assessments from the 2023/24 academic year take place in January 2025. If you need to defer or resit your dissertation, you will also (re) submit your dissertation during the RDAP.

Dissertations

Resit dissertations are 'revise and resubmit'. Students are entitled to one supervisory meeting to discuss the revisions that need to be made.

Assessed Essays

Deferred essays use the questions from the year they deferred from. Resit essays use the questions from the new academic year or specifically formulated resit questions if the course format has changed or course is not running. It is important to understand that if you follow this procedure that members of staff are under no obligation to provide supervision or extra teaching in office hours with respect to assessed essays. Second deferrals of assessed essays align with the regular submission dates of that year. It is the responsibility of the student to find out when these are.

Assessed Participation

A student who fails the assessed participation component will have an oral examination in the form of a 20–30 minute viva (or written equivalent at the TRC's discretion) during the RDAP period.

Postgraduate Marking Criteria

Distinction (70-100)

Scripts will contain answers that engage closely with the implications of the question as well as its surface meaning. There will be a clear and coherent unfolding of the author's argument which deploys an impressively wide range of knowledge. A successful balance will be achieved between generalisation and detail. There will be historiographical awareness, where relevant, along with an ability to demonstrate independent conceptual command, as opposed to merely paraphrasing the views of others. There may be originality in the form of persuasive and well-evidenced new ideas or unexpected connections. Answers will be stylish, well-written and properly presented. Answers at the top of the range will display all these qualities in equal combination.

Merit (60-69)

Essays will display a sustained level of competence in coverage of the subject matter and understanding of the question. Answers will be regularly, but not always consistently analytical. Most of the implications of the question will be explored, but not all. There will be a high, but not impeccable standard of factual accuracy and interpretative coverage. Argument will be clear and direct, and with a sound conceptual grip.

Pass (50-59)

Some of the virtues and more of the defects of the merit grade will be present here. There will be some familiarity with all the terms and concepts bound up with the question, but several important aspects of the question or evidence necessary to answer it may be omitted or misinterpreted. Although still competently structured, argument will often be fuzzy and soft-focused, lacking analytical bite and sharpness. There may be a tendency to state ideas rather than explore them and to leave a part of the argument to rest on unsupported claims. There may be an imbalance in the handling of ideas and data, as, for example, in a purely historiographical approach with insufficient reference to available evidence, or in the regurgitation of a mass of factual data unsubordinated to an overall argument. The knowledge deployed may seem somewhat familiar or imprecise. There may be stylistic weaknesses and errors in written English.

Fail (40-49)

Essays will contain some relevant points but remain inadequately focused on the specific question set. Above all the structure of the answers will be determined by the (limited) knowledge available to the writer rather than by the requirements of the question. Indeed the emphasis of the question may be misconstrued or misunderstood, and replaced by a bland and largely irrelevant narrative. Argument is unfocused and/or fragmentary, usually confined to the opening and closing paragraphs. There will be a sense of the ideas of others parroted uncritically or even with distortion. Points may be listed, giving rise to unexamined contradictions, or alternatively major issues may be omitted from consideration altogether. Answers tend to remain at a level of banal generalisation supported by trite evidence or none at all. There will be many factual errors, and the quality of the written English and general presentation may also fray badly at the edges.

Statement on Assessment and Feedback

The Department of International History believes that teaching and research are interlinked in humanities. The philosophy behind our programmes is to introduce students to the diversity of historical and cultural human experience, to make them aware of the development of differing values, systems and societies, and to inculcate critical yet tolerant personal attitudes. History programmes place particular stress on the development of independent thought and analytical skills, and require excellent communication skills, namely high levels of literacy and of oral presentation. Candidates are required to master a variety of intellectual approaches, in different formats, and have to learn to deal with a wide range of intellectual and cultural challenges. Courses vary from general overviews at one extreme, to in-depth primary-source studies at the other. The former encourages understanding of the historical process, with its mix of continuity and change; the latter sharpens the analysis of documentary and other material, developing research methods. This philosophy informs the Department's constant search for better modes of assessment and feedback.

The prevailing method of assessment in the Department is three-hour examinations in the Spring Term. This method tests above all the ability of students to accumulate an expert knowledge about specific historical areas and issues during the entire year. It allows students to articulate in a structured way a historical discussion, to organize their thoughts, focusing on the construction of an argument that relies on the flexible deployment of factual knowledge and historiographical interpretations. The Department considers that at Undergraduate level the upper second grade (60-69%) should be given for "competent work showing a good grasp of the subject matter... familiarity with the most important reading and historiographical debates." The first-class grade (70% and higher) requires "exceptional answers, well-presented and argued with sophistication, which demonstrate a wide familiarity with the subject matter and the historiographical debate." For graduates/masters students the Distinction grade (70% and higher) requires "historiographical awareness, where relevant, along with an ability to demonstrate independent conceptual command, as opposed to merely paraphrasing the views of others. There may be originality in the form of persuasive and well-evidenced new ideas or unexpected connections."

Students can check on the Department's marking criteria in the Handbooks for Undergraduate and Graduate Students, available also electronically.

The summative examinations at the end of the year provides sufficient time for students who come to the School from very different academic backgrounds and even different educational systems (particularly for Masters degrees), to 'align' with common educational norms and standards, and develop their thoughts in particular areas of expertise that they chose. The candidates practise for the summative exam over the Autumn and Winter Terms through oral presentations, formative essays, and often a 'mock exam' while receiving continuous feedback from their teachers.

The summative exam is also a fair mode of assessment: it allows the Department to assess all candidates in the same way, with the same set of questions and time limit (candidates with disabilities may get more time as appropriate). This facilitates the task of grading and avoids any risk of plagiarism. Because the exam is intended as a test of the course as a whole, three questions are the required minimum. Three hours has long been considered as a reasonable time to undertake such tests.

The Department has substantial experience with this mode of assessment. The criteria used for each grade is described in detail in the student handbooks. At the same time, the Department employs complementary alternative modes to assess learning outcome. This reflects the diversity of pedagogical methods preferred by individual teachers. It is also a reflection of the very different types of history which are taught in the Department which lend themselves to different forms of assessment. The Department allows teachers a measure of freedom in the way they teach courses, adopting the methods they judge most effective as a means of imparting and assessing knowledge and skills. This freedom also contributes to the atmosphere of 'living assessment': every year teachers reflect on their courses and some decide to experiment with different forms of assessment. We also have five-year course reviews in place.

Several of our offerings now include a mixture of assessed essays and assessed presentations. In certain cases this has led to a shortening of the final examination to 2 hours; some courses have dispensed with the final examination altogether and have assessed coursework only.

We offer Masters students a variety of different assessment methods to choose from, and from the beginning students are clearly told how the course is going to be assessed. The assessment methods are outlined in the course descriptions. Several Masters courses have assessed essays or other pieces of work as part of the final grade. Students are made aware that assessed essays can bring down as well as enhance results from unseen exams. Recently, teachers have awarded marks for class participation, regular postings on Moodle, and in some courses there is no exam at all, and the grade is based on one or two longer assessed essays. Class attendance is compulsory for all courses. Some courses include a grade for participation, on the grounds that active and outstanding engagement in class work helps motivate students to prepare for class discussions and to engage more actively in these discussions.

The Department's experimentation with assessment reflects an increasing priority placed on presentation skills and the articulation of reasoned arguments in verbal contributions to class discussion. Longer, more intensively researched and revised pieces of writing are deemed particularly appropriate at postgraduate level than shorter writing assignments. This priority reflects the advanced learning aims and objectives of our postgraduate courses as well as the educational aim of developing the transferable skills needed after graduation.

Formative essays are considered to be very important to achieve learning outcomes: they allow students to test their skills against the criteria of their teachers, better understand most important threads of historiographical discussions, receive feedback and advice on additional readings, and prepare themselves thoroughly for a summative examination. It is a department policy that teachers set aside a time to return formative essays individually to candidates within two weeks after their submission with a detailed written feedback and further discussion on improvement on structure, concept, language, originality, and the use of sources, among other points. The Department has standard feedback sheets available for formative essays. Many courses also offer a mock exam with the TRC providing feedback on the mock exam answer.

There are other modes of communicating feedback to students via Moodle and LSE for You for each individual course. All teachers meet with students to provide feedback on their performance in class, class presentations, and essays. All candidates also have academic mentors and can receive their feedback from them on their assessed work. The contact between students and their teachers, as well as academic mentors goes well beyond the class and office hours – and includes exchange of emails, consultations on lists of literature and sources, and readings of preliminary drafts.

There is also a compulsory dissertation for Masters students which demonstrates the learning outcomes of the whole year of study. As a culmination of study, the dissertation is an opportunity for students to ‘do the work of historians’ rather than just critically engage with historiography, to examine primary sources in archives, and to come up with their own interpretations of historical events. The dissertation arrangements are designed to allow students as much freedom and independence as possible over the choice of subject. It is an exercise in setting a task and solving a problem; in formulating questions and providing convincing answers based on sound evidence. While guided by supervisors, candidates are expected to work alone for the most part; to show initiative and follow references and lines of enquiry, as well as to produce a substantial, coherent and well-argued piece. The dissertation is 10,000 words for Masters programmes. For the research-intensive LSE-Columbia Double Degree in International and World History, the dissertation is researched and written over 2 years and is 15,000 words long. The value of this dissertation is equivalent to one paper in the degree programme.

New members of staff are given appropriate guidance and development on the Department’s assessment and feedback procedures. Teachers are responsible for guiding GTAs by providing detailed marking breakdowns, exemplary essays, and ongoing consultations during the year.

The methods of assessment and feedback are communicated to students at the beginning of Autumn term in classes and during office hours. Also these methods are regularly discussed with Staff Student Liaison Committee (SSLC). Every new course is presented to student representatives at SSLC for consultation.

A few words should be said about the process of setting and marking of exams and assessed coursework. Where assessed essays have been introduced, questions are submitted at the start of the year to the relevant Chair of Exams and to External Examiners – a distinguished historian from outside the LSE who is the additional and final check for fairness and clarity - for approval and feedback. Only once approved are these circulated to students. When it comes to exams, the Teacher Responsible for the Course (TRC) will normally set the exam and develop exam questions. This is then scrutinized collectively within the Department and passed on to an external examiner. Marking of all materials that contribute to the final grade is done 'blind' – ie, students are not identifiable by the examiners since they are given a number which has no key until the exams have been graded.

Each exam paper or essay is read and marked by one examiner (the so-called "moderated marking scheme", which is regularly reviewed by the department). A proportion of all essays and exam scripts, including all fails, borderline marks (39/49/59/69) and firsts are also scrutinized by a moderator who approves the distribution of marks. A sample of essays or exam scripts is reviewed by an external examiner. Agreed marks are then collectively discussed and reviewed by Sub-Boards established for each degree or joint degrees. These are attended by internal and external examiners. There is no identification of candidates by name until marks are agreed and/or a degree is awarded. The assurance of anonymity reduces to the absolute minimum the risk of bias in assessment on the grounds of race, gender or other personal characteristics.

Student Services Centre

The Student Services Centre (SSC) is located on the ground floor of the Old Building. Advice and information is available on services including:

- Support for new arrivals
- Student status documentation
- Course selection
- Immigration advice
- LSE ID cards
- TfL 18+ Student Oyster Photocards
- Exams and assessment
- Results and degree certificates
- Graduation.

We are also a good point of contact to find out more about the support services available at LSE and we host specialist drop-in sessions. Visit lse.ac.uk/ssc for the latest information about our services, opening times and drop-in sessions.

Online pre-enrolment and campus enrolment

The majority of new students will be required to undertake a two-stage process: online pre-enrolment and campus enrolment. You will receive email notification when it is time to complete the pre-enrolment process for your programme. Campus enrolment takes place in-person and is where we will check your official documents and you will be issued with your LSE Card. It is very important that you attend campus enrolment and with the correct original documents. Usually, you can re-enrol for subsequent years of study online, but sometimes we may need to see you in person again.

For more information, visit lse.ac.uk/enrolment

Student status documentation

During your time at LSE you may need official documentation to prove that you are studying with us. A Certificate of Enrolment provides proof that you are enrolled as a current student at LSE to organisations such as council tax offices, embassies and banks. For more information about what a Certificate of Enrolment shows visit lse.ac.uk/studentletters

You can order a self-service Certificate of Enrolment which will be delivered immediately to your LSE email address as a PDF. If the standard letter is not sufficient, you can request a bespoke Certificate of Enrolment to be produced by the Student Services Centre. We will do our best to provide the information required, but this cannot be guaranteed. Please bear in mind that during peak periods bespoke letters may take longer to produce. For more information about both types of Certificates of Enrolment and how to order, please visit lse.ac.uk/studentletters

The Student Services Centre (SSC) also offers a range of other documents including Certificates of Course Selection and intermediate transcripts. For more information about the types of documents available, how to request letters, and to access our enquiry form, please visit lse.ac.uk/studentletters

Your LSE Card

Your LSE card provides access to buildings and acts as your library card. It is important that you keep it safe and never share it with anybody else. If your LSE card is lost, stolen or damaged visit lse.ac.uk/studentidcards to find out how to get a replacement.

Student Advice and Engagement

The SSC has a dedicated Student Advice and Engagement Team that can provide advice on academic (particularly non-progression, interruption, withdrawal, regulations and exams), and immigration matters.

If you are not sure who to contact about a query or question, then the Advice and Engagement Team will be happy to help. You can contact the team via the enquiry form at lse.ac.uk/studentadvice

Immigration Advice

The Advice and Engagement Team are the only team able to provide detailed immigration advice on UK visas for international and EU/EEA students at LSE. You can find a lot of detail on their web pages, which are updated each time the rules change. The best way to contact the team is to use the visa advice query form or to attend one of their drop-in sessions, or log-in to their dedicated visa advice live chat.

What do I do if...

The SSC have developed a series of answers to common “What if...” questions. These cover a broad range of topics including, what to do if you’re unwell during an exam; become pregnant; change your name; or want to change degree programme. You can find these questions and answers at lse.ac.uk/what-if

Interruption

In certain circumstances you can take a year-long break in your studies (which we call an interruption) with approval from your academic department and the School. You are usually required to return at the start of either Autumn Term or Winter Term the following year as appropriate. Spring Term interruptions are not possible. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/interruptions

“ We are the only team trained and regulated to give immigration advice at LSE, under the Office of the Immigration Services Commissioner guidelines. ”

Programme transfer

You can request to transfer from your current programme to another programme at the same level according to the School's regulations. There are usually restrictions or conditions on transferring programmes, and sometimes transfers are not possible.

All transfer requests need the approval of the new academic department you wish to transfer into before being authorised by the School. For more information visit

lse.ac.uk/programmetransfers

Change of mode of study

If you are studying a master's programme, and you need to change from full-time to part-time study due to your circumstances, you will need to seek approval from your academic department.

Changing from full-time to part-time study is generally acceptable up until the end of Winter Term Course Selection, as long as your selected courses can be amended according to programme regulations and in line with the teaching that you have already taken. Your fees will also be amended.

Changing from part-time to full-time may not always be possible, especially if you need a visa to study at LSE, and requests will be considered on a case by-case basis.

It is not normally possible to study an undergraduate programme on a part-time basis. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/changemode

Withdrawal

Withdrawing means that you are leaving your programme permanently.

Before withdrawing you should consult with your Academic Mentor, and you may want to consider requesting an interruption instead, so that you have some time to consider your options. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/withdrawal

Regulations

You should familiarise yourself with the LSE regulations, policies and procedures that cover many aspects of student life. Some of the regulations explain the organisation and conduct of your academic study. These include information about the structure of your programme, assessment requirements, how your final degree is calculated and what to do if you experience problems during your studies.

Visit lse.ac.uk/calendar for more information on:

- Appeals Regulations
- General Academic Regulations
- LSE Calendar
- Assessment offences including plagiarism
- Regulations for first degrees
- Regulations for taught master's degrees.

You can find a full A-Z listing of all of LSE's policies and procedures online at lse.ac.uk/policies

Student Voice

Student-Staff Liaison Committees

Student-Staff Liaison Committees (SSLCs) are one of the most important bodies in the School. They are a forum for students to discuss their experiences, both in and outside of the classroom, with LSE staff. SSLCs are a shared, collaborative endeavour between departments, the Students' Union, central School Services, and, most importantly, students themselves.

SSLCs are your chance to engage with LSE and enact positive change for the benefit of yourself, your peers, and even future cohorts. Volunteer to represent your peers and take a leading role in the student body.

At the start of the year, you will be asked by your department if you would like to represent your programme on the SSLC as a Student Academic Representative.

Hear from current students about their experience of getting involved in SSLCs and the Peer Support scheme.

More information, including access to minutes from SSLCs across the School, and other ways you can use your voice, can be found on the student voice webpages.

Student Q&As with LSE Leadership

The LSE President and Vice Chancellor hosts student Q&As with members of the School Management Committee, where you can discuss your experience as a student with LSE leadership.

The Q&As are an opportunity for students from across the School to hear from the President and Vice Chancellor in person and give you the chance to ask questions, raise suggestions and voice any concerns. Look out for details of where and when the Q&As will be happening.

Student Partnership

Change Makers

Change Makers is an opportunity for you to instigate positive changes at LSE through independent research.

You are invited to propose a research project (independently, as a pair or as a group) about an aspect of student experience at LSE. This can be on a topic you identify, or one that's been proposed by staff.

Approximately 25 proposals will be selected to receive 80 hours of funding, full academic supervision, and the opportunity to present your findings and recommendations directly to LSE leaders.

Applications to become a Change Maker will open in Autumn Term 2023 and you can find out more at lse.ac.uk/changemakers

Student Education Panel

The Student Education Panel is an opportunity for you to enhance education at LSE and gain insight into how the university works.

50 Student Education Panellists meet twice per term to consider a specific education-related topic, question or proposal. Drawing on their own experiences and ideas, they work in partnership with LSE and LSESU leaders to co-create a better educational experience for everyone. In recognition of their contributions, and to enable a wide range of students to participate, panellists receive a voucher for every meeting they participate in.

Applications to become a panellist will open in Autumn Term 2023 and you can find out more at lse.ac.uk/studenteducationpanel

Quality Assurance

Quality assurance

LSE's approach to assuring the quality of our teaching is set out in the Strategy for Managing Academic Standards and Quality. As an awarding body LSE must be in a position to assure the standards of its degrees. At the same time, we believe that the design of quality assurance should respect different departmental cultures and academic histories. The strategy sets out broad principles and processes for assuring academic standards and for enhancing the quality of educational provision.

The overall framework includes devolved quality assurance arrangements for academic departments, with responsibility for the oversight and modification of existing provision resting with Departmental Teaching Committees.

The Teaching Quality Assurance and Review Office (TQARO) supports the activities of the Education Committee and several of its sub-committees, with further details available in the "Committees" section of the website at lse.ac.uk/tqaro. TQARO also curates and publishes information about the School's academic offering, including programme regulations, course guides, and academic regulations in the School's Calendar. Queries relating to devolved quality assurance responsibilities, the work of Education Committee or the process for the consideration of proposals for new courses and programmes of study should be sent to ard.capis@lse.ac.uk

Student surveys

In both Autumn Term and Winter Term TQARO conducts course-level surveys to assess students' opinions of teaching.

Course survey scores are made available to course convenors, teachers, Heads and Deputy Heads of Departments, Department Managers, the Director of the Eden Centre, the Vice President and Pro-Vice Chancellors for Education and Faculty Development. In addition to producing reports for individual teachers TQARO produces aggregated quantitative data for departments and School-wide bodies. Further information can be found online in the "Surveys" section of the website at lse.ac.uk/tqaro

TQARO also conducts annual programme-level surveys of undergraduate and taught master's programmes and supports LSE's participation in the National Student Survey in coordination with the Communications Division and academic departments.

Queries relating to the delivery of teaching surveys at course- or programme-level should be sent to tqarosurveys@lse.ac.uk

Study and Career Support Services

LSE LIFE

LSE LIFE is the place to discover and develop the skills you'll need to reach your goals at LSE, whether they concern your academic work or other personal or professional pursuits. LSE LIFE is here to help you find your own ways to study and learn, think about where your studies might lead you, and make the most of your time at LSE. It is also the place to come to ask about the range of opportunities and services available across the School to help you achieve success, whatever 'success' means to you.

LSE LIFE offers:

- Hands-on practical workshops and online resources for effective reading, academic writing, critical thinking, managing your dissertation research, organising your time, and other key areas of university work.
- Constructive conversations and workshops to learn ways to adapt and thrive in new or challenging situations, including developing your skills for leadership; public speaking; connecting and collaborating with others; finding a healthy balance among study, work, rest, and fun; and thinking about life beyond university.
- One-to-one appointments with LSE LIFE study advisers for personalised advice on essays, participating in classes and seminars, revising for exams, or any other aspect of your studies at LSE. Or simply book an appointment – on campus or online – to talk through your ideas for an essay, a project, or your research.

- Specialist advice in areas like CV writing, English language, finding and referencing academic sources, research ethics and data management, statistics, and more – offered on a one-to-one basis by colleagues and services across LSE.
- A space to meet and work together with students from other courses and departments.
- Group visits and walks to take advantage of what LSE and London have to offer.

Find out more at lse.ac.uk/lselife, check out workshop materials and other resources on Moodle or just drop by with any questions, or just to pick up a lollipop – LSE LIFE is on the ground floor of the Library, open Monday-Friday, 10am – 6pm.

LSE Library

LSE Library is the major international library of the social sciences. The collections, both print and online, cover the discipline in the widest sense, and will support your studies and research.

The two main print book collections are:

- The course collection, located on the first floor, which holds multiple copies of essential books for your courses. Many of these titles are available online.
- The main collection is located across three floors, holding wider items for social sciences research.

You can use Library Search to find books and other materials for your studies via lse.ac.uk/library. Once you have found what you need, write down its location to help you find it in the Library. To borrow books, use your LSE card and the self-service machines on the ground floor. Taught students can borrow up to 30 books at any one time. You can renew your books online by logging into your Library account at lse.ac.uk/library. If you do not return books on time, you will be unable to borrow any more until your overdue item is returned or renewed. We do not charge fines on late returns.

Each department has a dedicated professional Librarian, a subject expert offering email support and in-person and online appointments to help you locate and access information resources on any topic. This support ranges from identifying key resources to support your studies to high-level systematic literature searching for researchers. They also provide expert help in managing references.

The Library is a focal point of the School and we are open seven days a week during term time and breaks and 24 hours daily from the beginning of the Winter Term until the end of the examination period. There are over 2,300 study spaces, including group study rooms, and extensive IT facilities, including over 500 PCs, laptop points, a laptop loan service, wireless Internet access via eduroam, and photocopying and printing facilities.

Language Centre

Whether you are an international student looking for support with your English, interested in taking a Language Centre course as part of your undergraduate degree, or want to learn or improve a language, the Language Centre can help.

If English is not your first language, there are plenty of ways you can improve and practise using the English language for your academic work. English for Academic Writing courses are available for any undergraduate or postgraduate student who does not have English as a first language and would like a weekly English language class to help with academic writing for coursework. You can find out more information on what is on offer and how to sign up at info.lse.ac.uk/current-students/lse-life/events/english-language-skills

You may be eligible to take a language, literature or linguistics course as part of your degree. As an LSE student you can also sign up for a non-degree language course at a discounted rate. As part of the LSE Language Policy, if you are a UK-EU undergraduate and you do not have a GCSE Grade 4 (or equivalent) in a language that is not your mother tongue, you are eligible to take a course for free!

For more information visit lse.ac.uk/languages

LSE Careers

LSE Careers is here to work with you throughout your LSE journey – from helping you to find part-time work and internships, to providing opportunities for you to explore different sectors and connect with employers and alumni.

How do I get started?

Whether you're just beginning to explore your career options or have a clear idea of where you want to go, use LSE Careers to access a range of careers support, from events and job opportunities to resources and careers appointments. LSE Volunteer Centre

Volunteering is a great way to help develop new skills and meet new people whilst making a difference. The LSE Volunteer Centre is here to inspire and empower you to volunteer for causes that you are passionate about during your time at LSE.

We work with multiple organisations to provide you with short-term and long-term volunteering opportunities across London, the UK and internationally. Throughout the year charities will be on campus to discuss their volunteering opportunities with you at our volunteering fairs and Charity Tuesdays.

We also know that students are busy, so we run a comprehensive one-off volunteering programme to make sure you can fit it in. Additionally, we can support you with starting your own volunteering project with fellow students.

You can find out more, as well as the advice and support we can offer, at lse.ac.uk/VolunteerCentre or by following @LSEVolunteering

LSE Generate

LSE Generate is the student home of entrepreneurship at LSE.

We welcome all students and alumni – from those starting their journey in developing entrepreneurial skills to those who have already launched their ventures and are looking for support. We specifically focus on supporting and scaling socially driven student ventures and have a presence here in the UK and across the globe (from Lisbon to Lagos!).

As a student, you'll have access to all of our startup resources as well as access to a variety of events created to expand your skills, give you the tools to excel, and help you network with like-minded founders. Our events vary from funding competitions, talks, workshops on a range of topics, skill development bootcamps, and even international treks!

Pop by and meet us in our co-working space (the GenDen) opposite the Student Services Centre on campus.

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI)

What is EDI?

One of our guiding principles in Strategy 2030 is to sustain excellence through an inclusive and diverse community. We work to build a School – and a society – in which everyone is able to fulfil their potential, and everyone's contribution is valued.

Support and resources available:

Safe Contacts: LSE Safe Contacts are members of LSE staff who have received training and can offer a confidential “signposting” service for staff and students who have previously or are currently subjected to some form of bullying, harassment (including those based on protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010: age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation), hate crimes or sexual violence.

Safe Contacts are often the first point of contact if you are unsure of what to do. They provide support to you and help you navigate what comes next. Find out more at lse.ac.uk/safecontacts

Report it Stop it: If you have been subjected to, or witnessed, any form of bullying, harassment (including those based on protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010: age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation), hate crimes or sexual violence and you want to report this to LSE, you can directly do it by using the online form Report it Stop it. This report can be completely anonymous. If you leave your contact details, the School's Deputy Head of Student Services will be able to get in touch to help with the next step.

Find out more at info.lse.ac.uk/making-a-choice/report-an-incident

Ethics Module: This online module has been designed for the whole School community with the aim of increasing understanding of the Ethics Code, the range of ethics policies that support the ethics principles, how they can be applied, and the importance of creating a culture in which individuals can and do raise any concerns that they may have.

Consent.ed: Consent.ed is an educational programme that explores issues around consent and provides an opportunity for us to discuss how we can look out for one another and create a respectful and inclusive campus. It is expected of students at LSE to take part in the Consent.ed sessions. It takes place over 2 platforms. The first step is completing a short online module at your own pace before taking part in the second step which is an in person 90-minute session. The session is led by 2 student facilitators.

As we recognise the sensitive nature of Consent.Ed, students who feel unable to participate for personal reasons can opt out.

More information can be found here: <https://www.lsesu.com/support/consented/>

AccessAble: Our partnership with AccessAble will help us to be proactive in improving the accessibility of our buildings, at a time when the LSE estate is undergoing major physical change.

LGBT+ Role Models and Allies Directory: Being an LGBT+ role model at LSE is about being a visible member of the LGBT+ community and a champion for LGBT+ issues.

Rape Crisis: Rape Crisis Centres provide frontline specialist, independent and confidential services for women and girls of all ages who've been subjected to any form of sexual violence, at any time in their lives. LSE has partnered with Rape Crisis so that any student or staff member can book appointments with a designated Sexual Violence Support Worker anytime. Find out more: info.lse.ac.uk/Making-a-choice/Sexual-violence-support-worker

Survivors UK: LSE has recently partnered with Survivors UK and they can provide independent sexual violence advisor services to any man, boy, transgender or non-binary person in the LSE community. Any staff or student can book a 45 minute confidential appointment by emailing isva@survivorsuk.org

If you would like to find out more about these and the information and support available to you, please contact the EDI Team at edi@lse.ac.uk, or visit lse.ac.uk/equitydiversityinclusion where you can also find out more about our initiatives including the Race Equity Framework.

Your Wellbeing and Health

Student Wellbeing Service (SWS)

SWS brings together two specialist student facing services; the Disability and Mental Health Service (DMHS) and the Student Counselling Service (SCS), supported by the Wellbeing Team. SWS also facilitates the Peer Supporter Scheme. Student Wellbeing Services works with you to remove barriers and manage challenges to get the most out of your LSE experience. Visit lse.ac.uk/studentwellbeing to access support.

Student Counselling Service (SCS)

SCS provides a professional, free and confidential service to help you with any personal problems that you may be experiencing. You can speak to a qualified and experienced counsellor about academic stresses, as well as personal and emotional difficulties.

Visit lse.ac.uk/counselling to book a Wellbeing appointment to discuss whether counselling is the best option for you, and to explore further options available to you.

SCS also organises groups and workshops to support students experiencing stress, anxiety or other issues. Details of these groups can be found at info.lse.ac.uk/ current-students/student-wellbeing/counselling-workshops

Disability and Mental Health Service (DMHS)

DMHS are the first point of contact for students with disabilities, long-term medical and mental health conditions, and Specific Learning Difficulties such as dyslexia. DMHS can help you to create My Adjustments which is a way of putting in place agreed “reasonable adjustments” to support your studies. Visit lse.ac.uk/disability to find out more.

Peer Supporters

Peer Supporters give you the opportunity to talk to fellow students about anything that is worrying you. Peer Supporters are trained to offer confidential emotional support, help and reassurance. You can find out more about the scheme and arrange a chat with a Peer Supporter at lse.ac.uk/peersupport

My Adjustments

If you have a disability, long-term medical or mental health condition, you are advised to apply for My Adjustments (MA) as soon as possible. The earlier that you let the Disability and Mental Health Service (DMHS) know about your condition, the earlier they can work with you to put appropriate support in place. Advisers in DMHS can potentially set up one-to-one learning support, mentoring and help you access assistive technology designed to remove barriers to studying. For more detailed information about My Adjustments, and to apply for My Adjustments, visit lse.ac.uk/myadjustments

Health care in the UK

You are likely to need to access medical care while you are at LSE, even if this is just for routine appointments. In the UK most health care is provided through the National Health Service (NHS).

You are typically eligible for free treatment on the NHS if you fall into one of the following categories:

- You are a UK resident
- You have a Student visa and have paid the Immigration Health Surcharge (IHS)
- You have applied for the EU Settlement Scheme and hold either Pre-settled or Settled status.

This list is not exhaustive and was correct at the time of print. The UK Council for International Student Affairs maintains an up-to-date listing on their website available at ukcisa.org.uk

If you are unfamiliar with the NHS, search for “NHS Services explained” to find out more. You are usually required to register with a local General Practitioner’s (GP) surgery before you can book an appointment. You should register as soon as possible and not wait until you are unwell. The nearest GP surgery is St Philips Medical Centre who are based on the second floor of Pethick-Lawrence House. This surgery will register most LSE students. For more information about the services offered and how to register please visit www.stphilipsmedicalcentre.co.uk or call 020 7611 5131.

Alternatively, you can find your nearest GP by using the GP finder function on the NHS website available at nhs.uk

As well as dispensing medicines, pharmacies can also offer advice on common health problems. You do not need to make an appointment, just visit a pharmacy and ask to speak to the duty pharmacists. In an emergency you should dial 999 to call an ambulance. You can also visit your nearest accident and emergency (A&E) department at your local hospital or visit an Urgent Care Centre.

There is a lot more information about Health Care, including details about dentists and opticians, available at lse.ac.uk/studenthealth

LSE Faith Centre

The Faith Centre is open to students of all faiths and none. It is home to LSE's diverse religious activities, transformational interfaith leadership programmes, and provides spaces for worship, prayer, and quiet reflection.

Finding your feet

It can be challenging arriving in a new city for a new start. We want to help you settle into London and find a community that suits you – and there are lots of options!

We provide a space for LSESU Faith Societies to meet, worship, and plan their activities. Details of contact information for faith groups and other helpful information can be found in our resources.

Wellbeing

We host a range of wellbeing activities. Details of our regular classes can be found on the Wellbeing page and we always have spaces available for prayer, meditation, and reflection.

Facilities

The Faith Centre comprises Islamic Prayer Rooms, a space for silent prayer/meditation (The Cave), and a multifaith space (The Desert Room) which is bookable for LSESU Faith Societies or faith/wellbeing-based staff groups. Find out more here or email faithcentre@lse.ac.uk for booking enquiries.

Support

You can contact the Faith Centre Director and Chaplain to LSE, Revd Dr James Walters, on j.walters2@lse.ac.uk for confidential support regardless of your religion or belief.

You can also find contact details for our team of Associate Chaplains on our “People” page at lse.ac.uk/faithcentre

Beecken Faith and Leadership Programme

Learn more about our flagship faith and leadership programme at lse.ac.uk/faithcentre. These programmes are free, extra-curricular modules for all students at LSE, providing opportunities to explore, question and challenge religious differences, and build relationships and transform attitudes across faiths.

LSE Religion and Global Society

The Faith Centre is also home to the Religion and Global Society research unit; an interdisciplinary unit conducting, coordinating and promoting religion-related social science research at LSE.

LSE Religion and Global Society Blog

The LSE Religion and Global Society blog is an interdisciplinary platform that explores the place and role of religion in our globalised world. The blog is a platform for experienced and early career academics, PhD and Masters research students, and other expert commentators to share their insights on this complex, wide-reaching topic. We welcome contributions from all researchers working on religion and global society.

If you are interested in contributing to the blog, have a look at our guidelines or get in touch with the editor Flora Rustamova at f.d.rustamova@lse.ac.uk

Religion Scholars Network

This is a network for current LSE PhD candidates and post-doctoral researchers across departments whose research relates to the social scientific study of religion. This is a great opportunity to collaborate with other PhD candidates from different fields through informal events throughout the year to share your insights and challenges. For more information email Flora Rustamova at f.d.rustamova@lse.ac.uk

Exams and Assessments

Candidate numbers

Your candidate number is a unique five-digit number that ensures that your work is marked anonymously. It is different to your student number and will change every year. Candidate numbers can be accessed in early Autumn Term.

Exam timetables

Course by course exam timetables will be available online. For January exams the timetable is usually available towards the end of Autumn Term, for spring exams it is usually available towards the end of Winter Term and for students taking in-year resit and deferral exams, it is usually available in late July. Closer to each exam season, you will also be given access to a personal exam timetable with your room and seat numbers.

Exam procedures

Central exam adjustments

Fit to sit policy

Deferral policy

Extension policy

Exceptional circumstances

Exam procedures

Anybody taking exams at LSE must read the Exam Procedures for Candidates. It contains all the information that you need to know and is updated each year.

The document is less than fifteen pages and covers topics ranging from candidate numbers, permitted materials and e-exams to what to do if things go wrong. You can download your copy at lse.ac.uk/exams

You may only use a calculator in an exam if this is permitted by the relevant academic department. If you are permitted a calculator, it must be one of the approved models. For more information on the types of calculators allowed, please read the Exam Procedures for Candidates. If you bring an alternative model it will be removed by invigilators and no replacement will be given. The permitted calculators are readily available in many supermarkets, online retailers and in the LSE Shop.

Central exam adjustments

Central Exam Adjustments (CEAs) can be made if you have a documented medical, physical or mental health condition and/or a specific learning difficulty such as dyslexia or dyspraxia. The purpose of CEAs is to provide an environment that gives all students an equal opportunity in exams. These adjustments are confidential and will not be listed on your degree certificate or transcript. In most cases you should apply for CEAs as part of getting your My Adjustments in place. However, there is a different process for applying for CEAs for short-term, unexpected, conditions. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/CEA

Fit to sit policy

By attempting any type of assessment, including but not limited to sitting exams, submitting coursework, class participation, presentations, or dissertations, you are declaring yourself fit to do so. If you have experienced disruption to your studies (including but not limited to illness, injury or personal difficulties) you must think carefully about whether you should attempt the assessment or whether you should consider requesting an extension or deferring the assessment. Requests for an extension or deferral must be made in advance of the assessment deadline.

Deferral policy

If you feel you require more time to submit the work than an extension would normally allow, or the assessment in question has a static deadline eg, an exam or take home assessment released on a specific date, you should consider requesting a deferral. You must submit the deferral form and evidence in advance of the submission deadline or starting time of an exam. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/deferral

Extension policy

If you have difficulties in the lead up to an assessment deadline but think you may be able to successfully submit if you had extra time, you can seek an extension request. You must make this request before the deadline has taken place and you will need permission from the Chair of your Sub-Board of Examiners to do this. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/extensionpolicy

Exceptional Circumstances

You should submit an Exceptional Circumstances Form and corroborating evidence to the Student Services Centre if there are any circumstances which you feel may have affected your performance. These could include (but are not limited to):

- Missing an assessment which you did not defer, or submitting an assessment late and incurring penalties
- Experiencing difficulties which could have affected your academic performance in an exam or coursework
- Adjustments such as CEAs, My Adjustments or deadline extensions that you feel were insufficient to compensate for the impact of your circumstances
- A late diagnosis of a condition meaning that you could not apply for adjustments until after you had completed some or all assessments.

Submitting an EC Form is the only way for you to alert the Exam Boards to the circumstances which may have affected your performance. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/exceptionalcircumstances

Assessment Misconduct

All summative assessments that you submit to the School are subject to the School's Regulations on Assessment Offences. You are expected to have read and acknowledged these regulations before you submit your work to the School. If you are found to have committed an assessment offence, such as plagiarism, exam misconduct, collusion, contract cheating or using Artificial Intelligence software, you could be expelled from the School. For more information and support regarding the School's expected standards of academic integrity visit lse.ac.uk/assessmentdiscipline

When you submit your summative (assessments that count towards your mark in a course) assessments to the School you are expected to have read and understood the following academic integrity statement:

By submitting work to the School you confirm you will abide by and uphold the School's Code of Good Practice, Ethics Code and academic integrity as outlined in the School's Regulations on Assessment Offences and Department guidance and you also confirm that:

- The work in this assessment is solely your own; and
- You have not conferred or colluded with anyone in producing this specific assessment*; and
- You understand the use of AI tools to help with any part of your assessment is strictly prohibited unless some use is permitted as defined by the Department responsible for the assessment (see Departmental guidance); and
- Where necessary, you have clearly cited and referenced the work of others appropriately to make clear which parts are your own work; and
- Your submission does not re-use substantial/verbatim materials you have previously submitted to the School or elsewhere. To note, in some cases expanding on earlier formative or summative work may be permitted as defined by the Department responsible for the assessment (see Departmental guidance); and
- You understand the School has the right to ask you questions about the originality of your work if deemed necessary.

It is acceptable to consult with LSE LIFE for general study skills questions but not questions specific to the content of a particular assessment.*

You can seek advice about the School's rules regarding academic integrity from the Library (visit lse.ac.uk/library) and LSELIFE (visit lse.ac.uk/lse-life)

You should also ensure that you adhere to the School's Research Ethics Policy and Procedures where appropriate when conducting research. Failure to obtain the necessary Ethics Approval for your research could result in your conduct being considered under the School's Research Misconduct Procedure. For more information visit lse.ac.uk/ethics

Results and Classification

Results

Final results are available once the relevant School Board of Examiners has ratified them. Provisional results are available for students taking January exams and for 12 month master's students.

Results are not released to students who owe debts to the School.

For more information on how and when results are released visit lse.ac.uk/results

If you need to take a deferred or resit assessment, more information about the resit period can be found at lse.ac.uk/re-entry

Classification schemes

Transcripts

Degree certificate

Classification schemes

Degrees are awarded according to the classification scheme. These schemes are applied by the Boards of Examiners when they meet to ratify your results. You can find the classification schemes at lse.ac.uk/calendar

Transcripts

Continuing students can request intermediate transcripts through the Student Services Centre immediately after ratified results have been published. Final transcripts are made available electronically through Digitary which allows them to be easily shared.

For more information about final transcripts please visit lse.ac.uk/transcripts

Degree certificate

Depending on when you are awarded your degree, you may have the opportunity to collect your certificate at graduation. Any certificates that are not collected are posted to the permanent home address we have on record. For more information, please visit lse.ac.uk/degrecertificates

Fees and Finance

Fees

All administration around your fees is handled by the Fees, Income and Credit Control Team.

LSE offers two options for payment of your tuition fees. You can either pay them in full prior to enrolment or by payment plan. If you have not paid your fees in full before you enrol you will be placed on a termly payment plan. You are expected to pay one third of your fees by:

28 October 2023

28 January 2024

28 April 2024

For payment plan options relating to Executive programmes please see Instalment options Executive Programmes.

For tuition fee levels please visit lse.ac.uk/tableoffees

To pay online or to find out about the different payment methods available, visit lse.ac.uk/feepayments

Once you are enrolled you can access your financial details at any time to review your tuition and accommodation fees, invoices, payments and instalment arrangements by accessing the Student Finance Hub. Please visit our webpage to get full details lse.ac.uk/ficc

Unfortunately, it is not possible for you to pay in person.

The Fees, Income and Credit Control Office also run support services for students who wish to discuss fees, loans and payment related enquiries. For further information, please visit lse.ac.uk/ficc

For full details regarding tuition fees, charging policy, payment and instalment options, visit lse.ac.uk/feepolicy

Financial Support Office

The Financial Support Office is responsible for administering a variety of scholarships, bursaries and funds for registered students. Please contact us if you have any questions about your LSE funding or have any funding related queries.

Codes and Charters

LSE Academic Code

LSE's Academic Code sets out what we are doing to deliver a consistent student experience across our School, and clarifies what you can expect from an LSE education.

The Academic Code brings together key principles that underpin students' education into a School-wide policy. Developed in partnership with LSE Students' Union, it sets the baseline to build on in four key areas: teaching standards, academic support, assessment and feedback, and student voice – areas that students have told us matter the most to them.

Read the Academic Code in full.

The Student Charter

Our Student Charter, written by students and staff, sets out how LSE's mission and ethos are reflected in the education you can expect to receive at the School, and in the diverse, equitable and inclusive community that we all contribute to and value.

The charter covers:

- Your education – what an LSE education is and how you can make the most of it
- Our community – what it means to be part of the LSE community and how to contribute
- Your future, our future – how to inspire future generations of LSE students.

Find out more about the charter and read the full version online.

Codes of Good Practice

The Codes of Good Practice explain the responsibilities and requirements of both staff and students.

They set out what you can expect from your department in relation to your teaching and learning experience. The codes cover areas like the roles and responsibilities of Academic Mentors and Departmental Tutors, the structure of teaching at LSE and exams and assessment. The codes also lay out your responsibilities as a member of our community. You can find the codes of practice in the LSE calendar.

The Ethics Code

The Ethics Code details the principles by which the whole LSE community are expected to act.

We expect the highest possible ethical standards from all staff, students and governors. The Ethics Code sets out the School's commitment to the six ethics principles:

- Responsibility and Accountability
- Integrity
- Intellectual Freedom
- Equality of Respect and Opportunity
- Collegiality
- Sustainability.

Learn more about the Ethics Code.

Research Ethics

If you conduct research, you'll need to follow the Research Ethics policy and procedures.

Student Hub

The Student Hub is LSE's app, designed to help you navigate your day-to-day life at LSE. With the Student Hub, you can:

- View your timetable and upcoming deadlines
- Find your way around with the campus map
- Follow your department, LSE events, Careers, the Students' Union and more to keep up to date with news and events from around LSE
- Book appointments with academic staff (office hours) or support services.

Available on iOS and Android app stores or as a web app at studenthub.lse.ac.uk

Moodle

Moodle is LSE's virtual learning environment.

The majority of taught courses have a corresponding course on Moodle, the online learning platform used at LSE. Moodle courses contain essential resources such as lecture slides, lecture recordings and reading lists. Moodle also enables activities such as quizzes and discussion forums and allows for online assignment submission, marking and feedback. How Moodle is used is determined by the course convenor and so this may vary from course to course. LSE also provides a Moodle Archive service which provides teachers and students with a snapshot of previous year's courses.

You can access Moodle by visiting moodle.lse.ac.uk

Reset your IT password

You can reset your own IT password at the LSE Password website

Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA)

MFA provides an extra layer of security on top of your username and password when you access our resources online – providing increased protection against cyber-attacks.

Once set up, it is easy to use and manage via the link below: lse.ac.uk/mfa

Email

LSE will use your LSE email address to communicate with you, so check it regularly.

Microsoft Outlook is available on all public PCs. You can also access your email off-campus using webmail (mail.lse.ac.uk) or on the move via the outlook app. For help setting up email on your device search "LSE mobile email setup".

LSE100

Welcome to LSE100

LSE100 is LSE's flagship interdisciplinary course taken by all undergraduate students in the first year of your degree programme. The course is designed to build your capacity to tackle multidimensional problems through research-rich education, giving you the opportunity to explore transformative global challenges in collaboration with peers from other departments and leading academics from across the School.

Your LSE100 theme

Before registering at LSE, you will have the opportunity to select one of three themes to focus on during LSE100, each of which foregrounds a complex and pressing challenge facing social scientists. In 2023/24, the themes will focus on:

- AI
- Climate
- Fair society.

For more information about each theme, visit info.lse.ac.uk/current-students/lse100/Welcome

LSE100 is a single course, and the themes are highly interrelated. Whichever theme you choose to study, you will have the opportunity to investigate issues from different themes throughout the course, including in both your individual and group assessments.

Alongside learning about your chosen theme from a range of disciplinary perspectives, you will also study frameworks of systems thinking and systems change during LSE100. These are fields of interdisciplinary research that are being adopted by academics, policymakers, corporations, and NGOs. During LSE100, you will think holistically about how complex systems work and how the social sciences can enable change at a systemic level.

How will I study in LSE100?

LSE100 is a half unit course running across Autumn and Winter Terms in the first year of your undergraduate degree programme. Each term, you will attend five 90-minute interactive, discussion-based seminars in alternating weeks.

Before each seminar, you will use Moodle to watch short video lectures featuring leading LSE academics and complete carefully selected readings to explore ideas and arguments from across the social sciences.

How will I be assessed?

Your LSE100 mark will be based on two summative assessments: one individual written assessment (50 per cent) and one group research project (50 per cent) that you will submit and present as a team. Your final mark in LSE100 will be included with your other first year marks and, if it is one of your six best marks, will count towards your overall first year average.

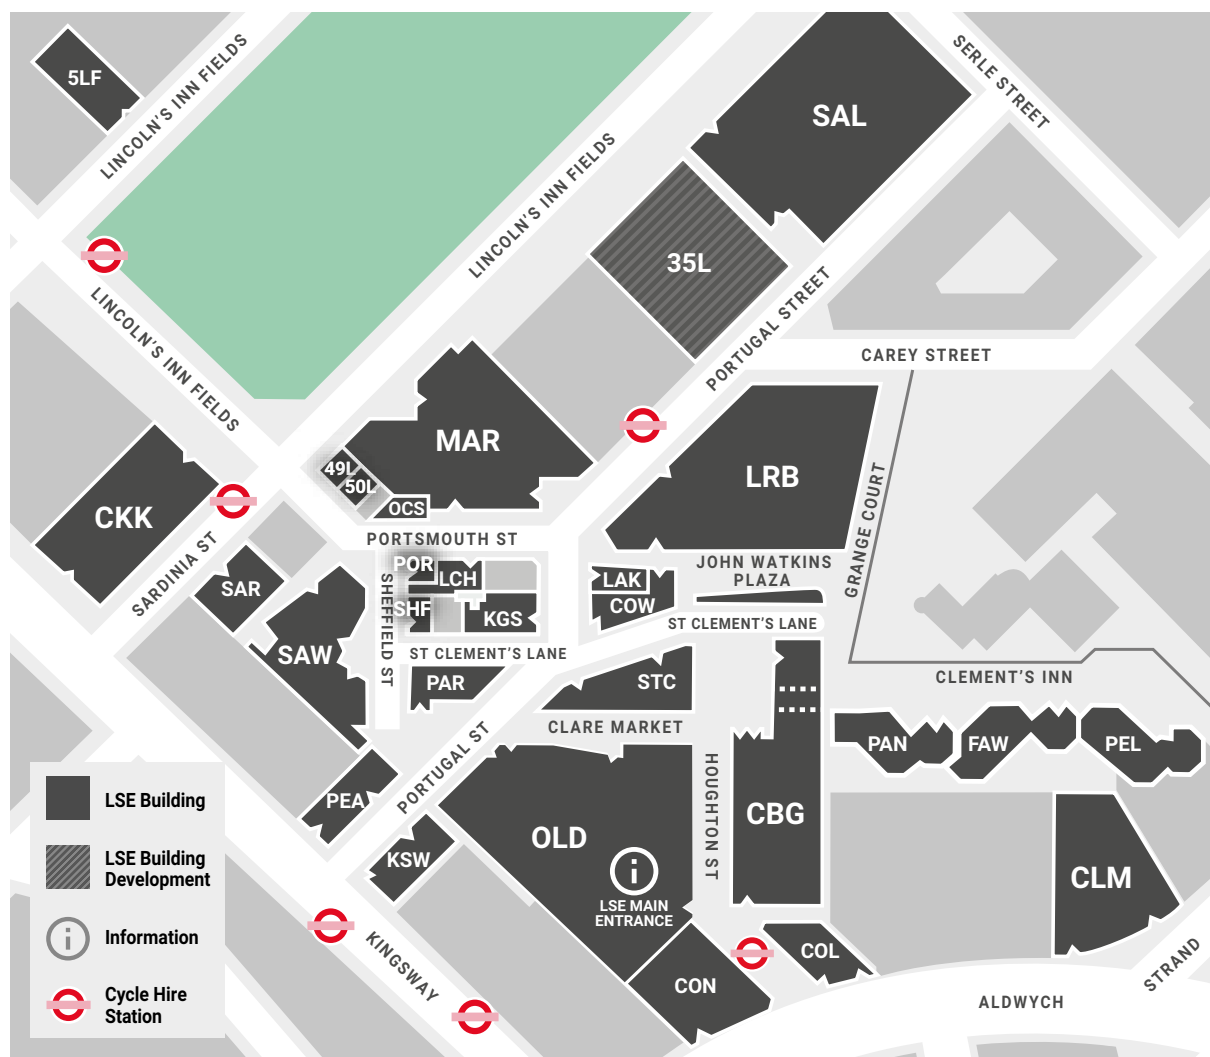

Chat with the LSE100 team

We have a team answering your enquiries from 9am to 5pm, Monday to Friday. Email us and we will be happy to help answer any questions you may have about LSE100 – get in touch at LSE100@lse.ac.uk or visit the LSE100 Course Office in KSW 4.10.

We're online, on Moodle, on the Student Hub, and on the fourth floor of 20 Kingsway (KSW). To find out more about LSE100, check out lse.ac.uk/LSE100 and follow us on Twitter @TheLSECourse.
