

Business Chinese Teacher Training (18- 20 Sep, 2015)

The Training Course that Shapes Your Career as a Mandarin Teacher

Why?

This training course is jointly organized by CIBL, Tsinghua University China and Confucius Institute Headquarters (Hanban). It's the sole training course for teaching Business Chinese which will develop trainees' teaching careers. Guided by experienced professors and trainers who have been teaching in the UK for many years, trainees will master a series of practical and academic teaching methods. A certificate of attendance will be issued upon successful completion of the training course.

What?

This course is specially designed for those who are interested in Business Chinese teaching and already have some experience in the area. It consists of three parts: Guided Research, Intensive Training and an Online Learning Forum.

Guided research: A reading list and research materials will be sent to all the trainees immediately after the completion of their registration. Trainees are required to do some homework and research regarding Business Chinese teaching in order to fully prepare for the intensive training course.

Intensive training: More than ten professional trainers from Oxford, Cambridge, SOAS and LSE will guide and teach students in terms of methodology, linguistics, business manner and business culture knowledge presented via lecture, multi-media, seminar and workshop formats.

Online learning forum: This is an online website specially set for trainees and CIBL alumni to provide a platform for discussion and sharing teaching experience. Furthermore, CIBL experts will email alumni all kinds of updated new teaching materials as well as information about forthcoming events regularly. All alumni will benefit from long-term ongoing support. Meanwhile, reference letters could be offered by CIBL for job hunting.
