Report of the Director for 2006-07

In the academic year 2006/2007, demand for places at the LSE was again very strong. The School recruited successfully up to capacity and that in turn produced a strong financial result. Over the year we made a surplus, after depreciation and capital charges, of £24.4 million.

Once again, undergraduate demand strengthened further. Indeed, with the single exception of the private University of Buckingham with its two year degree programme, LSE is the most popular undergraduate university in the country in terms of applications per place. We receive around 15 applications for each opening. And overseas demand, at both undergraduate and graduate level, remained as strong as ever in spite of the strength of sterling against the dollar, which affects our relative prices vis a vis the top American universities which are among our strongest competitors.

Forward Plans

This is a healthy background against which to plan our further expansion in student numbers, whose details I explained last year. I described the planning process we had put in place to ensure that further expansion in the School proceeded on a rational basis, with full understanding of the nature of the market place in which we operate and of the attractiveness or otherwise of our courses.

During the last year each School department has prepared a plan for the next five years, and those plans have been rigorously assessed by the Academic Planning and Resources Committee. Of course elements of them are bound to change as time goes by, but we now have an agreed basis on which to assess specific proposals for new courses and additional students in the future. The process brought forward many good ideas for new degrees. We think it important to continue to renew and refresh our portfolio, especially at graduate level.

One particularly important initiative for the School is the new Department of Management. We have introduced two new programmes this year, which have attracted a large number of top quality applicants. We were reassured that we are moving in the right direction in management teaching by our rapid rise up the Financial Times league table for Masters degrees in management, where this year we were in second place among European business and management schools.

We also made further progress with our joint and double degree programmes with partner universities around the world. The TRIUM Executive MBA class continues to expand. The degree programmes with Peking University and Columbia are healthy. And we have established a Global Public Policy Network including those two schools and the Lee Kwan Yew School in the National University of Singapore to create a grouping of institutions committed to addressing global public policy issues and to strengthening our ability to train public sector managers for the future. We have already established two MPA programmes in partnership with these other universities, and more are in preparation. I would expect this to be a growing dimension of the School's teaching in the future.

Another initiative which, during the year, moved from the nursery to more full grown status was BIOS, set up four years ago on a small scale to work on addressing the social science and social policy questions raised by developments in bio-genetics and bi-technology generally. The Institute has now proved successful in attracting grants from the Wellcome Foundation and others, and is running a lively and popular MSc degree.

Research

Preparations for the Research Assessment Exercise continued through the year. We were especially grateful to Professor Howard Glennerster, who returned to the School for a while to help departments to prepare their submissions. His contributions were extremely valuable. The full submission will be put into the Funding Council panels during the course of this Michaelmas term. We will be submitting, as we did last time, a large proportion of our faculty, almost all of whom are research active. It is hard to know at this stage how highly we will be ranked, and indeed the basis of the ranking will be somewhat different this time, in ways which will not benefit us. For example, last time the percentage of faculty submitted was a relevant indicator. This time it will not be. And on that indicator we are relatively very strong.

Looking further forward, the picture remains clouded. Early indications that the Government and the Funding Council wished to move to a metrics based approach to assessing the quality of research, in other words one focused on numbers of citations in refereed journals, have not yet been carried through. The British Academy have produced a report which argues that a metric based system will not be appropriate for most of the social sciences and the humanities. The Funding Council is once again carrying out a review and we expect to hear more during the course of the next twelve months.

Management

There was quite a lot of turnover during the year in the senior management positions in the School. Ray Richardson has retired (for a second time) from the position of Deputy Director, Teaching and Learning and has been replaced by Janet Hartley. Paul Johnson sadly left the School to take up appointment of Vice-Chancellor at La Trobe University in Melbourne Australia and was replaced by George Gaskell. Those two appointments in turn created vacancies as Janet Hartley had served for three years as Vice-Chairman of the Academic Board and George Gaskell for two years as Vice-Chairman of the Appointments Committee. They were replaced respectively by Chris Brown and George Philip. So although there was a lot of turnover, in fact all the people involved have a close knowledge already of the way the School runs, and all of these transitions have been smooth. The other four members of the management team, Sarah Worthington, Adrian Hall, Andy Farrell and I remain in place. To make the hierarchy more understandable, in future the deputy directors will be known as pro-directors. I was pleased to be offered, and readily accepted, a second five year term of Director of the School which will begin at the expiry of my current five year term next summer.

We also made another significant management change near the end of the year. After extensive discussions in Council we decided to create a new post of Director of External Relations, pulling together a number of aspects of our externally focused work, including our international partnerships, our Press and Information Office and the conference and events programme. Robin Hoggard, who joins us from the Foreign Office, has the task of pulling all the activities together and ensuring that the School gets the profile it deserves from all its outward facing activities. We are sure that there is more to do in that area.

Fundraising

The School had an exceptionally good year in fundraising, raising £26.7 million from external sources. That was twice as much as the previous year and three times as much as we were raising on an annual basis only 3 or 4 years ago.

The increase is quite broadly based, and includes an uplift in the amount we get from our Annual Fund, to which many alumni contribute at a modest level. We think it important, for the long run, to develop a habit of giving among relatively recent alumni. Experience in the United States and elsewhere suggests this is the secret of successful fundraising in the long term. It is particularly pleasing that we were able to achieve a significant increase in our scholarship funding.

I would draw attention also to the two biggest contributions to the School from overseas. The Kuwait Foundation for the Advancement of Science (KFAS) have pledged to contribute just under £6 million over a ten year period to support a named Chair in the economics department and a range of activities related to economic, political and social issues in the Gulf States. We are greatly indebted to the work of our governor, Victor Dahdaleh, in bringing this negotiation with the Kuwaitis to a successful conclusion near the end of the year, and we hope this will be the beginning of a long and fruitful relationship with them.

We also worked during the year to establish a Chair in the name of IG Patel, one of my distinguished predecessors who served also as governor of the Reserve Bank of India. We were delighted when the Reserve Bank, and the State Bank of India on whose board he also served, agreed to be the lead donors. We attracted Sir Nicholas (now Lord) Stern, who has been working in the Treasury for the last few years, back to the School to be the IG Patel professor and to oversee a new India Observatory designed to bring together our research on issues related to the political economy of the sub-continent. Already, many plans are afoot and the first annual IG Patel lecture was delivered by Montek Singh Ahluwalia. Further events, both here and in India, will follow.

These are both good examples of the way in which our fundraising effort, by Mary Blair, can finance significant extensions to the School's academic interests.

The Estate

Our major estate project remains the New Academic Building at the south west corner of Lincoln's Inn Fields. That will provide an additional 125,000 sq feet of space and will very significantly increase the availability of large lecture theatres and teaching rooms. The programme remains on time and on budget and we expect to take possession in July 2008, allowing it to come in use for the 2008/2009 academic year. Since the construction is at the edge of our campus it has created very little disruption in the life of the School. We now need to plan the moves of the departments of Law and Management into the new building, which will create much needed flexibility for us on the rest of the site.

However, we are not yet near the end of our re-development. Both the two 1960s towers at the heart of the campus and the St. Philips building are in serious need of reconstruction. We have commissioned plans on how that reconstruction may be managed with as little upheaval as possible. During the course of the year we shall need to make firm decisions on which of these projects to undertake first, and how to ensure that the work of the School can continue during what is bound to be a difficult period. I am confident, though, that our estates team is up to the task of managing these initiatives. In addition to the major construction of the New Academic Building, we have undertaken a lot of refurbishment work on the campus recently, which has gone well and delivered significant improvements in the environment in which our faculty teach and our students learn. During summer 2007, we have added 160 study spaces and expanded the course collection space in the Norman Foster designed library, under the careful stewardship of Jean Sykes, Librarian and Director of Information Services. As we pursue these projects we will also be able to improve further our environmental performance.

LSE Degrees

Last year I reported that we had asked the University of London for permission to exercise degree awarding powers ourselves. That permission was granted during the year, and, as from the 2008/2009 academic year, students entering the School will be studying for an LSE, rather than a University of

Report of the Director for 2006-07

London degree. There will be exciting new hoods and gowns, in a tasteful shade of purple, and brand new certificates. The response to this change amongst students and alumni has been very positive, as the granting of degrees in the name of the University of London has seemed anachronistic to some for a while.

Imperial College have concluded that their interests are best served by a withdrawal from the central University altogether. So far we have not decided to take that step, although it is fair to say that our links with the University are somewhat tenuous now. We are hoping for significant changes in the way in which the University is governed, following a recent review, which will give us more assurance that the central functions are managed with the interests of the colleges in mind. It is, after all, the colleges which teach the students and the central functions are in the matter of services to those teaching entities. We expect changes to be made during the course of this year, and we shall watch closely to see if they do give us the reassurance we need. It is very frustrating that change in the central university takes so long.

Financial Overview

For the financial year ending 31 July 2007 the School achieved a surplus, before exceptional items of £21.2m which is equivalent to 12.5 per cent of gross income and compares to a surplus of £13.7m for 2005/06 (9.2 per cent).

At the end of 2006 the School sold the Silverwalk residences for £5.1m. The properties, located in Rotherhithe, had provided 85 student spaces but their location some way from the School made them relatively unattractive. The sale has generated a surplus on disposal of £3.3m which is shown as an exceptional item. The sale of the garages at Silverwalk for £0.3m has been completed since the year end and is not included in the accounts for 2006/07.

The School's Finance and General Purposes Committee has adopted a target surplus range of 3 per cent to 4 per cent of income, recognising that a surplus is required to fund loan repayments, to support capital and infrastructure investment and to provide the School with the flexibility to invest in new academic initiatives.

The School has achieved surpluses in excess of this level in recent years reflecting increased contribution from summer schools, consultancy, executive education, conferences and other activities additional to normal teaching and research. In addition, residences has added to our surpluses through a reduction in costs and increased contribution from vacation business. It is worth noting that the School has doubled its net assets over the last five years.

Consolidated Income and Expenditure

The income of the School and its subsidiaries increased 15 per cent to £172m (2005/06 £149m). Major contributions to this growth came from a 11 per cent increase in tuition fee income, a 33 per cent increase in 'other' income and a 55 per cent increase in endowment and investment income. The School's tuition fee income of £80.5m (2005/06 £72.3m) remains the most important source of income, representing 47 per cent of the total, 1 percentage point less than in 2005/06.

Overseas students (those from outside the United Kingdom or other European Union countries) account for roughly half the School's student population and for over two-thirds of tuition fee income, reflecting both the international flavour of the School's student body and our world-wide reputation. Turning to expenditure, non-pay spending grew by almost 9 per cent, in many areas this is less than the growth in related income. For example the significant increase in academic department spending comes from growth in the London summer school, some new short courses and the cost of teaching to support the additional student numbers in the year.

It is particularly pleasing to note that scholarship and bursary spending has grown by over one third to £9.8m reaching 13 per cent of tuition fee income. This level is amongst the highest in the higher education sector and with the success of the School's fundraising and the new bursary scheme that supports undergraduate home/EU tuition fees this will continue to rise over the next few years.

Total pay costs increased by 10 per cent, partly as a result of an increase in staff numbers. An underlying increase in pay of 7 per cent, well above cost of living award for 2006/07 reflects the School's continuing commitment to investment in staff. Although presenting a constant challenge in the competitive global market from which the School seeks to draw its faculty, the recruitment and retention of the best academics is critical to the School's continuing success.

Liquidity and financing

As the New Academic building project nears completion and our capital commitments fall due, our net debt is forecast to rise. Nevertheless, at the end of the 2006/07 the School's cash balances exceeded its long term debt. The cash flow from operating activities of £33.8m combined with the proceeds from the sale of Silverwalk, grant funding for the new academic building, advance payment of tuition fees and donations are all contributory factors in this achievement. The School put in place a 25 year £75m amortising debt facility in 2003, with £65m of debt swapped into fixed rates. During the year, the Finance and General Purposes Committee has reviewed borrowing facilities, and concluded that the current facilities are sufficient to meet capital commitments beyond the completion of the New Academic Building. The requirement for financing facilities will be reviewed again after a firm decision is taken on the next major estate development.

Capital Expenditure

The School has undertaken two major capital projects during the year: the redevelopment of the New Academic building at 54 Lincoln's Inn Fields and the refurbishment of Passfield Hall of residence. Passfield was completed in September 2006 and has operated successfully throughout the year and the New Academic building project continues on schedule. Strong financial performance has allowed us to fund the work during 2006/07 without further recourse to our borrowing facility.

Funding Council Grants

Although the School has a relatively low proportion of HEFCE (Higher education Funding Council of England) grant funding compared with most UK higher education institutions, the £27.7m received from HEFCE together with the £0.5m from JISC (the Joint Information and Infrastructure Systems Committee) is an essential contribution to the financial viability of the School. Although there is speculation from time to time that some universities might 'go private' to have freedom in setting undergraduate fees, there are no such plans at LSE.

Research Income

The income generated by grants from the UK research councils was significantly increased from the previous year (+14 per cent). This is almost entirely due to the positive influence of the first full year of grants awarded since the introduction of full-economic costing. Grant income continues to grow from other major sponsors such as UK Charities and the European Commission. The School is competitive in obtaining external funding for high quality peer reviewed research, where growth is a strategic goal. Where it is appropriate to our academic aims, we also participate in commercial non peer reviewed research, but growth of research purely for income generation is not a strategic aim.

Enterprise LSE Limited and Subsidiary

Enterprise LSE Ltd is the wholly owned subsidiary of the School that exists to develop the potential for consultancy and related activities that the School's world-class faculty offer. 2006/07 has been a particularly successful year that has seen strong growth in consultancy work. Turnover has increased by 28 per cent to £5.6m generating a net profit of £1.3m that is paid through Gift Aid to the School to support teaching and research activities. It also provides an important opportunity for faculty to supplement their personal income, a useful mechanism for attracting and retaining key staff.

Towards the end of the year, the company exercised its option to acquire a 30 per cent equity share in Duke CE Ltd, the venture with Duke University that specialises in customised corporate education and that is rated number 1 in the world in this area in the FT rankings. By exercising Enterprise LSE's option to take an equity stake in Duke Corporate Education Ltd, the School is signalling a long term commitment to this highly successful partnership with Duke University.

Residences

In September 2006 the School significantly increased its residence bed space with the reopening of Passfield Hall and the addition of two new halls, Lillian Knowles House in Spitalfields and Northumberland House in Northumberland Avenue, increasing bed spaces by over 25 per cent to approximately 3,500 and allowing the School to offer all new students a guaranteed place in hall, a key factor in ensuring that the best students choose to attend LSE.

During vacation periods the halls operate on a commercial basis providing hotel accommodation for a wide range of customers, ranging from our own summer school students to casual visitors to London. The £5m per annum revenue generated from this activity is used entirely to subsidise student rents. It also enables us to continue to offer many rooms on a 31 week basis, in contrast to the emerging trend elsewhere of requiring students to contract for 40 weeks or longer.

Environment

This year we were judged by People and Planet to be the best university in London in terms of environmental performance, and we are committed to being amongst the best in the country. Finance and General Purposes Committee has approved £0.5m investment in energy saving measures. The School has been awarded funding from HEFCE to extend the successful student re-use project to 6 other universities. The New Academic Building has a range of environmental measures incorporated, including solar panels, bore hole cooling, heat recovery mechanisms, reuse of existing materials, FSC certified timber, flooring with recycled and recyclable content, waterless urinals, and more, with the objective of achieving an Excellent BREEAM rating.

Employment

The School commissioned a survey on employee attitudes and the results have been considered by Council and other School bodies. Overall employee satisfaction is high in comparison with other institutions, but with some issues to address in areas such as communication. A Staff Council has been established to provide a forum for discussion and consultation on issues affecting employees, I was particularly pleased that Bert Massey, Chair of the Disability Rights Commission, was able to open formally our step free access to the main entrance of Old Building. This was a difficult and expensive adaptation, but the School is committed to support staff and students with disabilities to achieve the best they can, and sending them to a back door just did not seem right.

The Future

LSE is in an excellent position: better in many ways than I would have forecast when I took up the position as Director in 2003.

We do have some challenges to address. In addition to the evident need to improve capacity and quality of facilities and to address the uncertainties of the external environment, we do need to ensure that our teaching support and pastoral care is on a par with the best in the UK. To that end we have set up a Task Force to review our teaching, which will report in the summer of 2008.

We have students of the highest quality from around the world, we have world class academic staff, we have support services and staff of high quality and commitment to LSE, we have an excellent reputation, strong partnerships, and clear plans for growth. We have a supportive Alumni community, and many important donors. We have a world leading public events programme. We have a strong financial position.

We are well positioned for the future.
