Report of the Director of the School

It is wonderful to be able to report that the LSE is thriving and moving forward, that it remains intellectually exciting, that it is educating terrific students, and conducting path-breaking research. It is especially wonderful because I have been Director for just over a year and even if I can't take credit I can say I haven't broken it.

The past academic year has seen not just continuity but major new initiatives and a few events. One of the latter came when the BBC took several LSE students to North Korea under false pretences. The trip put both students and the School's reputation in danger. But other events were happier: three of our current or retired faculty were knighted, for example, and my predecessor elevated to be Dame Judith Rees. Other faculty and indeed students also won major prizes and recognition.

One of the most important new initiatives was our Research Quality Investment Fund which played a central role in adding more new faculty to the School than in any single year before. We conducted a global search for the best social scientists and added over 20 faculty members as well as a wide variety of less senior faculty members. These include some of the world's most distinguished scholars in fields from anthropology to statistics, geography to law. As well as top-level researchers, these are teachers who will broaden and deepen the education we can offer our students.

We introduced a new academic career structure, raising the base salary for each of our three major ranks, strengthening our performance review and promotion processes, and initiating an effort to ensure that we are globally competitive in the job market for top academics, but also appropriate and fair in recognizing specific contributions to LSE and its students. To lead in the continuing effort to make sure we both have the most brilliant faculty possible and support faculty members' research and teaching as well as possible, we added the new position of Provost and Deputy Director to the School's senior staff team. LSE's first Provost is Professor Stuart Corbridge, formerly Pro-Director for Research and External Affairs.

To help the LSE clarify its mission and maintain its national and global leadership, we undertook a School-wide Strategic Review. Though the final report will only be issued in Spring 2014, this has already yielded a framework for understanding what we are doing and how we can work to improve, what challenges we face and how we can meet them. An interim report summarizes what has been learned, and LSE leaders have not hesitated to implement important decisions where our choices were clear. We have decided to grow gradually, for example, and have added several hundred students to our full-time total over the last two years, especially but not only undergraduates. We are creating more places for UK students and making a special effort to widen the range of our recruitment in the UK.

We are not just adding numbers, we are innovating in courses with new degree programmes – including especially interdisciplinary offerings such as Philosophy, Politics, and Economics. We are innovating in research with exciting new projects including the Centre for Macroeconomics, the Systemic Risk Centre, and the What Works Centre for Local Economic Growth, all funded by major ESRC grants. The International Growth Centre received the largest grant ever made to the School, DfID support for research that both breaks new ground academically and supports practical policy action. Our new Institute for Public Affairs is leading innovation in public engagement, with projects like crowd-sourcing the UK constitution!

Not least of all, the LSE is changing physically. This past year we celebrated bringing all our major economics programs together in one superb building, the former Land Registry at 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields, now brilliantly remodelled. We will shortly begin holding the first activities in the beautiful Saw Swee Hock Student Centre, which will have its formal inauguration in Lent Term. We have received proposals from world-famous architects to design the Global Centre for Social Science that will replace our crumbling Centre Buildings. And we have recently acquired another building at 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields, providing for long-term needs. All of this brings not simply more space but a more beautiful campus, enhancing our educational offering and supporting our global leadership.

Improvement requires resources and we are grateful to all who have contributed. We are conscious that fees are a burden for some students and their families and we celebrate donations to our scholarship funds that make it possible for many students to benefit from an LSE education. We also remind ourselves, finally, that all of us working at the LSE have an obligation to manage our budget carefully and to use the opportunities it provides to best advantage for the School, its students, and the world.

Business review and principal activities

The principal activities of the School in the year under review were higher education, research and other related activities. Other activities include consultancy, conferences, public lectures, the provision of catering and accommodation services and the publication of academic journals.

As a percentage of income	11.6%	10.1%		+1.5%

For the financial year ending 31 July 2013 the School achieved a surplus of income over expenditure of £30.6m, equivalent to 11.6 per cent of turnover which compares favourably with £24.7m for 2011-12 (10.1 per cent of turnover).

The School sets a budget based on assumptions concerning income and expenditure that is designed to ensure a sustainable long term surplus of income over expenditure in the range of three to five per cent of turnover. This target recognises that a surplus is essential to fund loan repayments, to support capital and infrastructure investment and to provide the School with the flexibility to invest in new academic initiatives. A combination of strong student recruitment, a significant and sustained contribution from ancillary activities and strong financial management have delivered consistent surpluses in recent years and 2012-13 is no exception. Over the past five years the School has achieved an average annual surplus of 9.6 per cent, generating £110.5m.

This robust financial base has supported many academic initiatives during 2012-13 such as Research Quality Investment Fund (RQIF) recruitment and the introduction of a new academic career structure and a scheme to increase the proportion of externally funded research. It has also permitted enhancement of the School's infrastructure through the acquisition of The Women's Library Archive, the opening of 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields and in October 2013, the purchase of 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

Report of the Directors

Income

Gross income grew by 8.0 per cent (2011-12, 4.3 per cent). Tuition fee income increased by 10.3 per cent and represented 53.1 per cent of income compared to 50.0 per cent in 2011-12. The withdrawal of public funding for home and EU undergraduates between 2012 and 2014 and increased home/EU undergraduate fees will accelerate this trend. The School remains unique amongst the Russell Group of research intensive universities in setting its fee below the maximum permitted level and will continue to charge £8,500 fees for home/EU undergraduates in 2013-14. For those recruited from 2014-15 we will charge £9,000, though after allowing for the impact of cost inflation and increased bursaries this will do no more than maintain the value of this revenue element in real terms. Bursaries ranging from £500 to £3,500 and averaging £2,735 are offered to Home/EU students, continuing the School's intent to recruit the most able students irrespective of individual financial circumstances. In total, bursaries and other awards to support students at the School increased by 24.5 per cent to £13.2m.

Funding Council grants

At 10.1 per cent of total income the School's proportion of HEFCE (Higher Education Funding Council of England) grant funding is already low compared with most UK higher education institutions and, with the move in funding from grant to tuition fees and cuts in capital grants, we expect it to fall further. The year on year fall of 5.0 per cent belies a 40.3 per cent fall in teaching grant following the introduction of higher fees for Home/EU undergraduates as it is offset by increases in non-recurrent grant funding, particularly from the Higher Education Innovation Fund (HEIF) of £1.1m.

Students

The School had 9,218 full time students (excluding LSE students studying abroad, exchange and exchange students at LSE) in 2012-13 compared with 9,108 in 2011-12. Current plans are to return to a gradual growth in the size of the School over the next few years. The Strategic Review, which the Director, Professor Craig Calhoun initiated during his first year, is looking closely at the future size and composition of our student population. We are fortunate to be doing this against a background of strong demand for our courses. Most recently, for the 2013 entry we had 13.8 applicants per place at undergraduate level and 4.6

Full-time student by continent in 2012/13

Report of the Directors

applicants per place at the taught postgraduate level.

Research income

Research income has increased by 4.4 per cent to £23.7 million. Most of the growth in income was matched by an increase in related expenditure, and the £5.7m contribution towards overhead costs remains at last year's level reflecting increasing pressure on overhead recovery rates. We are also seeing a continuing shift in funding away from UK Research Councils, which have fallen for the third year, to other funders such as the European Union which contribute less to overhead costs compared to the Research Councils.

The School's preparations for the Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) are nearing completion. The School has invested strategically in this area. Our REF Strategy Committee is working closely with Heads of Department to finalise the submission of staff, research outputs and narratives at the end of November 2013. Colleagues are also submitting around 65 impact case studies for the REF, to demonstrate how LSE's excellent research has resulted in changes and benefits to the economy, society, culture, public policy, health, the environment and quality of life beyond academia.

The School's strategy remains to compete successfully for high quality peer reviewed research. Where it is possible and appropriate to our academic aims, we also participate in commercial non-peer reviewed research, though undertaking research of low academic benefit purely for income generation is not a strategic aim. During 2012-13 the School launched a Research Incentive Scheme to support the delivery of this strategy by giving our faculty time and resources to support the process of grant winning.

Other income

The School derives significant value from its academic reputation and resources, via a number of additional activities. These activities are now well established and make a valuable contribution to the financial health of the School. They form a key component of our financial plans and are increasingly seen as an extension to our core activities. Together these activities generated a surplus of £13.0m in 2012/13 (before one off adjustments).

Summer Schools

The LSE Summer School celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2013. The LSE Summer School is the largest university summer school in the UK, with just under 6,000 students attending in 2013 from over 100 countries and every continent. The LSE Summer School means that the campus remains intensively used for a six week period during the summer, with strong demand for rooms in School residences and use of catering facilities. The School has developed summer schools with partner institutions in Cape Town and Beijing.

International Programme

Under a collaboration agreement, the School participates in the University of London International Programme, which sees our academic material taught under the University of London badge to some 24,000 students around the globe annually. This study leads to the award of a University of London degree via distance learning. The School plays an active role in the direction and quality assurance processes of the programmes in which it is involved.

TRIUM

The School continues its partnership with NYU Stern and HEC Paris in the development and growth of the TRIUM MBA programme which is consistently highly ranked globally. Following the appointment of the first Executive Director of the TRIUM programme based at LSE, the School has agreed to take over responsibility from NYU Stern for much of the management and administration of the programme. This move will create synergies with the School's own executive masters programmes.

LSE Enterprise Limited

The School is keen to apply the social science expertise of LSE academics in researching and resolving issues across a very wide range of policy, social and business areas, and where appropriate to do this on a commercial basis. These activities are conducted through LSE Enterprise Ltd, a wholly owned subsidiary company of the School established some twenty years ago and its revenues are reported under Other Income.

Report of the Directors

During the year LSE Enterprise Ltd managed more than 160 consulting projects ranging from highly focused research and advisory assignments to complex interdisciplinary research programmes applying academic methodologies to major policy and commercial questions. LSE Enterprise Ltd has also been increasingly successful in bidding for and leading complex projects to advise on the development or outcomes of European Union policies. These activities connect the School's academics to business, government and the third sector, creating opportunities for their research to deliver insight and impact.

Halls of residence and catering services

With over 4,000 bed spaces in 12 halls of residence and University of London halls the School is able to offer a guaranteed place to all first year undergraduate students and, unlike the many commercial providers of accommodation in London, we are able to offer 31 week contracts to undergraduate students making our residences more affordable for them. During vacation periods, we operate many of the halls on a commercial basis through a wholly owned trading subsidiary LSE Lets Ltd, providing hotel accommodation for a wide range of customers. In 2012-13 this trading activity generated £7.1m of revenue, an increase of £1.0m on the previous year which is in large measure attributable to improved marketing of the summer vacation period. The surplus from residences' commercial activities is used to support student rents.

A new catering outlet, 'The Bean Counter', based in the School's newest academic building, 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields, was opened during the year bringing the total number of catering facilities on campus to 10. As the Saw Swee Hock Student Centre will include 3 new catering outlets, Catering Services and the Students' Union are working closely together to enhance and complement the campus food offering.

The International Growth Centre

Other Income includes £4.8m income from the International Growth Centre (IGC). In February 2013 LSE and DfID signed the second phase contract for the IGC. This ground-breaking initiative promotes sustainable growth in developing countries by providing demand-led policy advice based on frontier research. Based at LSE, it has 14 active country programmes in 13 countries (Bangladesh, Ethiopia, Ghana, India (Bihar state and Central), Liberia, Mozambique, Pakistan, Rwanda, Sierra Leone, South Sudan, Uganda, Tanzania and Zambia) as well as 10 research programmes spanning topics such as trade, agriculture, macroeconomics and human capital. The second contract totals £50m over a three year period to March 2016 and supports a combination of commissioned research projects, in-country research and policy work and an operations hub supporting and coordinating the work.

Endowment and investment income

In 2012-13 Endowment and investment income consisted of three elements, investment income and capital gains generated by endowments, the School's general reserve investment and interest earned on the cash deposits.

Surplus cash is held in term deposits with a range of banks regulated by the FCA or EEA which have credit ratings of AA- or better. Deposit terms range from one to 12 months and the maximum deposit at any one bank or bank group is normally £20m. Rates of interest receivable on cash deposits have remained at low levels throughout the year, below prevailing rates of inflation so returns have been modest.

On the other hand investment returns have been good with the School's main investment pool returning 17.4 per cent during 2012-13.

Expenditure

Total expenditure grew by 6.2 per cent (2011-12, 2.0

per cent) with pay costs increasing by 4.0 per cent and other operating expenses by 8.3 per cent.

The increase in pay costs includes 2.7 per cent associated with a net increase in staff numbers, 1.0 per cent attributable to the pay award in August 2012, 1.7 per cent related to promotions, increments and other one-off payments. There was a 1.1 per cent year to year reduction as there were significant one off costs in 2011-12 associated with a voluntary leavers scheme that operated that year.

During the year four initiatives associated with staff recruitment, retention and reward were developed.

- The Research Quality Investment Fund (RQIF), a global search to recruit over 20 world class academics.
- A new academic career structure, that will replace the current four tier lecturer, senior lecturer, reader and professor structure with assistant, associate and full professor nomenclature. In addition to changes in academic titles the new structure introduces higher starting salaries for each level and a revamped process of interim and major review.
- A scheme to increase the proportion of research funded from external sources by ensuring that the principal investigator funding and a proportion of the contribution to indirect costs is made available to the academic who secured the grant.
- The processes associated with the recognition and reward for exceptional performance amongst non-academic staff were revised and devolved.

Other operating expenditure

Other Operating Expenditure increased by 8.3 per cent (2011-12, 0.0 per cent) while the School's interest payable costs remained stable as interest rates did not change between the two years. The completion and opening of our new academic building at 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields accounts for £0.9m of the increase in the depreciation charge.

Other Operating Expenditure reflects the increase in scholarships, bursaries and general educational expenditure (£2.2m), increased investment in IT and Library services (£1.1m), additional estates costs particularly following the commissioning of 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields (£1.1m) and the costs associated with increased business in our halls of residence (£2.5m).

Balance sheet and liquidity

During 2012-13 the School's net assets grew by 10.3 per cent (2011-12, 12.6 per cent), an increase of £40.3m, boosted by the net increase in the value of endowments of £9.4m. The School's cash deposits grew to £89.4m during 2012-13 and general reserve investments increased in value from £10.0m to £11.9m. In August 2013 the School exchanged contracts for the purchase of 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields for £80m. This acquisition and the School's other capital plans exceed projected cash balances so post year-end the School issued £125m of unsecured loan notes paying between 3.73 per cent and 4.15 per cent repayable between 2028 and 2053. The £57.9m secured loan facility with Barclays Bank of which £27.9m is currently drawn has been retained.

The Finance Committee continues to review the School's liquidity on a regular basis to ensure it is adequate to accommodate the School's medium term plans.

Endowments and fundraising

During 2012-13 the School received £8.0m (2011-12, £6.8m) in endowments from a combination of new donors and receipts from existing pledges.

The School's endowments are invested in investment pools or, where the money was given for use in the near-term, it is held in money market deposits. During 2012-13 two of the School's three investment pools were merged and now operate on a total return basis. The third pool, FER, which supports the Foundation for Economic Research continues to operate on an income basis.

The Investment Sub-Committee of our Finance Committee oversees the asset allocation and investment strategy of these pools. The School is fortunate to be able to draw on the advice and expertise of a number of very experienced investment professionals who, along with academics and a Students' Union representative comprise the committee. The committee is supported and advised by an external investment consultancy.

In 2012-13 the overall investment return after fees was 17.4 per cent for Pool A assets, 8.0 per cent on the FER pool and 0.7 per cent on endowments held in cash.

Report of the Directors

This produced an overall return of 12.7 per cent (2011-12, 3.6 per cent).

There were two major capital development projects underway during 2012-13, a new academic facility at 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields was completed and the construction of the Saw Swee Hock Student Centre on the site of the St Phillips building continued. The refurbishment and enlargement of 32 Lincoln's Inn Fields, the former Land Registry building, for use as a core teaching, academic and research facility was completed and the department of Economics and a number of associated research centres are now ensconced.

The redevelopment of the St Phillips site as a student facility, to be named in honour of Professor Saw Swee Hock is progressing well and a striking new building is has now emerged in this quarter of the Houghton Street campus. This £38m scheme is complete and provides purpose built facilities for the Students' Union, Careers, catering, venue space and other student focussed services.

In addition to the completion of the Saw Swee Hock student centre, 2013-14 will see two other significant capital development projects begin. In August 2013 the School contracted with Cancer Research UK to purchase its premises at 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields. The purchase was completed in October 2013 and the School expects to take possession of the building during 2016-17. In the meantime decisions will be taken about whether to refurbish or demolish and rebuild it. This is a truly transformational opportunity in the history of the School with far reaching implications for academic and scholarly development in the years to come.

The second project is the redevelopment of three major buildings in the centre of the Houghton Street campus, namely East Building, Clare Market and St Clements East. Subject to planning, it is anticipated that a 3-year build programme costing around £100m will commence in 2015, and an architectural competition under RIBA (Royal Institute of British Architects) guidelines has just been completed, with appointment pending.

Cash flow

There has been a net funds inflow in the year of £11.8m, leaving the School with a strong cash position of £89.4m at the year end. As the acquisition of 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields in October 2013, completion of the Saw Swee Hock student centre and the redevelopment of the centre buildings will consume these funds the School has raised monies through a private debt placement.

Financial sustainability and going concern

The Council has reviewed the financial situation as at 31 July 2013, the financial forecasts for future years and demand for student places and is satisfied that the School is a going concern.

The Finance Committee has reviewed and reported to Council on the long term five-year forecasts and 10-year projections on a termly basis and the potential financial effects of variations in assumptions used to construct those forecasts. The Finance Committee has reviewed the level of surplus required to fund capital investment and other developments and is satisfied that retrospectively and prospectively the School is operating at the required level. The Audit Committee has reviewed and reported to Council on the management's assessment of strategic risks. The Director of the School has reported to each meeting of Council on major developments in higher education and issues facing the School. The Council has received reports on non-financial indicators which are of significance to longer term financial sustainability. On the basis of these assurances, Council is satisfied that the School is operating in a financially sustainable manner. This exercise has been repeated in significant detail during the summer of 2013 to support and inform Council's decision to acquire 44 Lincoln's Inn Fields as it was clear that the opportunity to acquire the site was likely to attract competing offers from developers seeking planning consent for a residential development.

Indicators of financial sustainability

At its away-day in September 2013, Council, the School's governing body reviewed a range of financial and non-financial indicators to assure itself about the sustainability of the institution. These "context statistics" included both financial indicators similar to those used by HEFCE in risk evaluation and a wide range of non-financial indicators, including research quality, student demand and student satisfaction data, league table positions, philanthropic donations, staff retention and estates quality measures.

The table below summarises some of the School's actual and forecast financial metrics and other non-financial measures and compares them against the sector.

The data clearly indicates that the School is in a strong position on many measures; however, the Council is also mindful that the School's principal competition is increasingly from overseas. Although no direct comparators are available, it is clear that – in common with almost all UK higher education institutions – LSE is comparatively disadvantaged on both public funding

There are longer term risks to financial sustainability that the School is addressing as it develops its strategic thinking for the future.

More than most institutions the LSE operates in an international context and so many of our concerns are outward looking. We remain concerned that issues relating to the UK Border Agency and student visas and the reporting of statements made by politicians may deter some students from applying to study in the UK. Likewise we face employment visa issues and these add to the difficulties of recruiting and retaining staff from overseas. We are also becoming aware of increasingly aggressive overseas competition, especially in Australia, and the emergence of private providers as issues which we need to watch carefully in the coming years. Secondly, in the months in the run up to the 2014 REF census date, competition for staff has been particularly acute. The School's approach has been bold and innovative with a major global and open recruitment campaign that has been successful in attracting over 80 new academics to the School since September 2012. The challenge now is to ensure that an effective reward policy is developed to retain both these newcomers and existing faculty while ensuring long-term affordability.

Thirdly, the School derives its income from four main sources: student fees, government grants, contracts for research and other work done for clients, and philanthropy. 2012-13 is the second year in which the School receives no direct government funding for teaching the incoming cohort of undergraduates, next year will see undergraduate teaching no longer directly supported by government funding. At the same time the value of government funding for research continues to decline in real terms.

Fourth, while the School has been successful to some extent in philanthropic development in recent years, it does not enjoy the same level of endowment or income as US comparators, Oxford, Cambridge or some other UK universities. During 2012-13 the School has been reviewing its investment in development of philanthropic funding to support scholarships/bursaries, research, internationally competitive reward for academic staff and the continuing redevelopment of the estate.

Finally, while some steps have been taken by their trustees to improve the long-term sustainability of the pension schemes – USS and SAUL – that the School's employees participate in, Council remains concerned about the long run sustainability of defined benefit schemes in an era of sustained low investment returns.

Financial instruments

The School's operations expose it to a variety of financial risks including the effects of changes in interest rates on debt, foreign currency exchange rates, credit risk and liquidity risk. The School's principal financial instruments comprise investments, cash and bank deposits, gilts and bank loans, together with trade debtors and trade creditors that arise directly from its operations. The credit risk on bank deposits is limited because the counterparties are banks with high credit-ratings assigned by international credit rating agencies. The School has a limit of £20m that can normally be placed with any one bank group. The School's current practice is to maintain the majority of borrowings at fixed rates to fix the amount of future interest payments. This is delivered through an interest rate swaps agreement associated with the School's Barclays loan facility.

Progress and achievement environmental policy

This year has seen continual progress against the School's environmental policy with improvements in reducing waste, water and energy consumption. Not only has the School made good progress in these core areas, but it has also supported the growth of the "green" economy through trialling new green products.

An innovative redesigned toilet offering water savings in the region of 84 per cent is now assisting the School to reduce its water consumption. Students have also played a vital role in developing projects that encourage staff and students to lead a greener lifestyle through the installation of cycle maintenance stations which include tools, pumps and instructions. All this good work was recognised with the School being placed 22nd in this year's Universities Green league – a rise of 20 places from its 2012 ranking of 42nd.

Public benefit

We have reviewed the activities of the School for the year 2012-13 with regard to obligations under section four of the Charities Act 2011 and the Charity Commission's guidance on public benefit. In this section, we set out some of the many ways in which the School delivers public benefit.

The objectives of the School are set out in our Memorandum and Articles of Association. The public benefit objectives include education and research, but the School's ambitions go significantly beyond the intrinsic benefits of those activities. Since its foundation, LSE has sought to apply teaching and research to improve society, and that goal remains unchanged today, except that the School's global reach is greater than ever.

Our beneficiaries

The benefits and beneficiaries of LSE activities include students who benefit from their education at LSE, academia as a whole benefits from research, and broader society benefits from both; with well-educated graduates contributing to academia, the professions, public service, commerce and industry, and society in many fields, and our research influencing public policy for the good of society.

Widening participation and raising aspiration

At LSE we believe that all school students should have the opportunity to go on to higher education regardless of their background, and that it is our social responsibility to encourage and support them in exploring their options and making decisions about their future. We have always sought to recruit the best students, irrespective of socio-economic background, though we recognise that limited endowment funding constrains our ability to offer “needs blind” admission to overseas students.

LSE works with schools and colleges in the UK and offers a range of activities aimed at pupils, their teachers/advisors, and adult learners. These programmes are free for schools and colleges, being fully funded by LSE and through the generous support of private donors. These initiatives include the following:

Visits to schools and colleges – The School works with schools and colleges in order to provide bespoke sessions to raise awareness of higher education, to raise aspirations and motivate students. Popular topics include: thinking about and choosing your university; the UCAS application process; student finance and budgeting; student life; applying to and studying at LSE; and personal statement workshops.

Moving On – A collaborative effort by LSE staff and students aimed at easing pupils’ transition to secondary school by showing that change happens throughout life and can be a positive experience. It includes activities to promote independence and resilience, includes a campus tour and culminates in a “graduation ceremony”.

Student tutoring – LSE students work in schools, under the supervision of teachers, to help pupils with their academic work. Tutoring usually involves students spending two to three hours per week at a school or college for a 10 week period, working with pupils on a one-to-one or small group basis. The scheme benefits both the school children (in Years 6, 8, 10 and 12) and our undergraduate and postgraduate students who gain important work experience and take part in a valuable community programme.

Other examples of our outreach work with schools and colleges include:

- The LSE Mentoring Scheme which aims inter alia to help mentees to improve their performance in key stage assessments and at GCSE and A Level.

- Introduction to Social Sciences for those considering their GCSE choices.
- Promoting Potential Summer School – the Summer School provides opportunities for African-Caribbean boys from state secondary schools to learn about financial mathematics and the Stock Exchange.
- The Black Achievement Conference – highlighting some of the positive achievements in the black community and inspiring children to “aim high”.
- Aiming for a College Education (ACE) and ACE High Days – preparing for university life.
- Summer Schools in Business and Finance, Law and Society, Mathematics and Psychology. School supporters deliver expert help beyond price.
- Pathways to Law (London), delivered in partnership with University College London, The College of Law and The Sutton Trust.
- The Politics Conference.
- The London Taster Course Programme.
- LSE Choice – tools for successful application to LSE and other Russell Group universities.
- Student shadowing.
- Open days.
- Public lectures.
- Advising the Advisors Conference (information and guidance for teachers).
- Routes into Languages.
- LSE.FOCUS – newsletter for schools and colleges; and
- Email a Student/Alum – first-hand advice from current students and graduates on what to expect at LSE and where an LSE education might lead.

Financial support

LSE is committed to ensuring that students from all social and economic backgrounds continue to apply to the School and that no-one is deterred from doing so because of financial considerations. Since the introduction of variable fees in 2006, around one third of LSE’s additional fee income has been reinvested in widening participation and student bursaries. The

Report of the Directors

School's new Access Agreement for 2013 builds on past success and commits half of our additional fee income to undergraduate bursaries, outreach and on-course support. As part of this agreement, LSE offers a generous package of bursaries and scholarships to undergraduate students, which do not have to be repaid. The main sources of support are as follows:

LSE Bursaries – these are available for all students who are in receipt of a full or partial maintenance grant.

LSE National Scholarship Awards – worth £6,000 over three years, NSAs are available for students in receipt of a full maintenance award and from the lowest income backgrounds.

A range of scholarships and awards, funded by external donors and foundations, is available for undergraduates each year.

On-course financial help – this is available in the form of the Access to Learning Fund and an expanded Student Support Fund.

Public Events

The School's location in central London and our close links with Westminster, Whitehall and the City help to maintain our reputation as the place where the world comes to debate. Everyone is welcome to attend LSE's public events, where some of the most influential figures in the social sciences can be heard. Notable speakers at the School in the past year included former UN secretary-general Kofi Annan; former governor of the Bank of England Mervyn King; Ben Bernanke of the US Federal Reserve; Harvard's Professor Lawrence Summers; and Nobel laureates Amartya Sen and Muhammad Yunus.

LSE's Public Events programmes includes lectures, debates, discussions and concerts. In order to maximise the opportunity for those outside of London and overseas to benefit from the programme, many were also made available online by video or podcast, with debate being sustained through social networking and syndication via sites such as Twitter, Facebook, RSS, Atom, iTunesU, Soundcloud, YouTube, etc. In 2012-13, there were over 30 million hits of the School's rich media offerings via video and audio podcasts. In the interests of accessibility, we also provide many public lectures in the form of written transcripts.

Arts

The School provides a range of art and entertainment programmes which are free of charge and open to all. These include exhibitions, music concerts, online photographic galleries, and our popular annual 'Space for Thought' Literary Festival which this year attracted speakers including Baroness Helena Kennedy, award-winning author Kate Mosse, former London Mayor Ken Livingstone, and journalist and writer Polly Toynbee. LSE has an "open" campus in the heart of London, generously furnished with an interesting range of sculptures and installations for all to enjoy. We want to do what we can to continue to make London a beautiful space for residents and visitors alike and, to that end, continue to do all we can to transform the "public realm".

Volunteering

The School has a strong tradition of social awareness and engaging with the wider community. LSE supports such efforts through its dedicated Volunteer Centre. In 2012-13, the Centre saw a huge amount of interest from students who wanted to get involved in volunteering. LSE students completed a range of roles including mentoring, campaigning, fundraising, marketing and research. The School has been able to fund student-led projects, run a photography competition, invite over 30 charities on to campus for the annual Volunteering Fair and host an event to celebrate the commitment of LSE students to volunteering and fundraising. LSE and our students work with a range of charitable organisations with a broad reach – from action tutoring in inner-city London schools, to helping poor rural families in India, Nepal, Malawi and Zimbabwe. We are proud to be making a difference.

Library

The School hosts the largest social sciences library in Europe, and unusually amongst university libraries it is open to the public. 2012-13 saw the launch of The Women's Library @ LSE, a chronological presentation of more than 300 important items from LSE Library and The Women's Library @ LSE from the 16th Century to the present day. The facility enables anyone with an interest to journey through the personal, political and economic struggles that have symbolised women's battle for equality over the past 600 years, through a representative selection of the broad range of materials in the collection. In partnership with Arts Council England, the LSE have also been working toward the development of Women's Walks, a mobile phone app that will work by tracking the user's position as they walk through the streets of London, identifying images, documents and audio clips relevant to each location, and downloading them to the user's smartphone.

Research

The School prides itself on a policy of engagement and the provision of research which seeks to address the burning issues of the day and influence public policy. The work of many of our research centres and academic departments has direct relevance to our charitable aims and the delivery of public benefit. A few examples include the following:

The prevention and relief of poverty: the International Growth Centre, Asia Research Centre, Centre for the Analysis of Social Exclusion; Centre for Economic Performance; and Department of International Development.

The advancement of health or the saving of lives: LSE Health and Social Care, and the Centre for Human Rights.

The advancement of citizenship or community development: Cities, Spatial Economics Research Centre, Centre for the Analysis of Social Exclusion.

The advancement of human rights, conflict resolution or reconciliation or the promotion of religious or racial harmony or equality and diversity: Centre for Human Rights, Diplomacy and Strategy (IDEAS), International Relations; Government; Gender Institute, the Crisis States Research Network; and the Middle East Research Centre.

The advancement of environmental protection or improvement: Grantham Research Centre, Centre for Climate Change Economics and Policy, Department of Geography and the Environment.

The relief of those in need, by reason of youth, age, ill health, disability, financial hardship or other disadvantage: Centre for the Analysis of Social Exclusion, LSE Health and Social Care, Department of International Development, International Growth Centre, Centre for Economic Performance, and the Suntory and Toyota International Centre for Economics and Related Disciplines.

Research that has hit the headlines in the past year includes: the publication by the LSE Growth Commission and Institute for Government of the Manifesto for Growth ("Investing in Prosperity: skills, infrastructure and innovation"); a major collaborative research programme on gender equality in India involving LSE's India Observatory; research into the social care crisis for disabled people by the LSE Personal Social Services Research Unit; publication of the EU Kids Online report led by Professor Sonia Livingstone of the LSE Department of Media and Communications into excessive internet use among children; the launch of a new model of the British class system; and a report by the London Finance Commission, chaired by Professor Tony Travers (LSE London) which called for greater financial freedoms for the capital and autonomy to invest in London's infrastructure as the city's population and economy grow.

In a significant development, the LSE were delighted to negotiate with the UK Department for International Development a £50m additional investment in the International Growth Centre (IGC). The objective of the IGC is to support sustained economic growth in developing countries as a means of supporting progress toward the Millennium Development Goals. It achieves this through providing independent and demand-led growth policy advice directly to governments based on rigorous analysis and frontier research. The additional investment will enable the School to expand its work in 13 countries.

Thank you

We would like to thank the many generous donors and sponsors, without whom LSE's public benefit activities would not be sustainable at their current scale.

The School is indebted to the enthusiasm and engagement of members of the LSE Council, who receive no remuneration for their services as charity trustees.

Employment

The School promotes equality of opportunity for staff from all social, cultural and economic backgrounds and ensures freedom from discrimination on the basis of disability, gender, race, age, religion or belief, and sexual orientation, or personal circumstances. Equality and diversity are integral to the School priorities and objectives. The School will support inter-faith and inter-cultural dialogue and understanding and engage all students in playing a full and active role in wider engagement with society.

The School's policy of employment with regard to disabled persons is to consider positively any registered disabled person who may apply for a post and provide similar opportunities for training, career development and promotion as for other members of staff.
