

LSE Anthropology Department ranked first in the UK for Research Quality

We have achieved an excellent result in the 2014 Research Excellent Framework (REF), the latest national assessment of the quality of research undertaken in the UK's Higher Education institutions since 2008. The Department, which submitted all of its researchers to the REF, was ranked top in the UK for the quality of its research outputs. 32 per cent of that research was awarded the highest (4 star) grade, indicating that it is 'world- leading'. A further 41 per cent was deemed 'internationally excellent' (3 star).

---

Outstanding League Table Results for LSE Anthropology

LSE is celebrating after its undergraduate courses received spectacular rankings in this year's university league tables. The Independent has ranked us second in the country (after Cambridge) - for the second year in a row! - while The 2014 Sunday Times University Guide places us third, just a few points behind Cambridge and Oxford. We are also graded highly by The Complete University Guide, who have now ranked us as the best anthropology course in London for 7 of the past 8 years.