Professor Lord Nicholas Stern is IG Patel Professor of Economics and Government, London School of Economics; Director of the India Observatory, Chairman of the Grantham Institute on Climate Change and the Environment. He was appointed as a crossbench peer in the House of Lords from end 2007. Nick has been Chair, Sustainable Development - Environment, Energy and Society, Collège de France during October 2009 - September 2010. He is currently Member of the High-Level Advisory Group of the United Nations Secretary-General on Climate Change Financing.

Professor Stern was adviser to the UK Government on the Economics of Climate Change and Development from 2005-2007, and Head of the Stern Review on the Economics of Climate Change. He was also Head of the Government Economic Service, 2003-2007; Second Permanent Secretary to Her Majesty's Treasury, 2003-2005; and Director of Policy and Research for the Prime Minister's Commission for Africa, 2004-2005. He was Chief Economist and Senior Vice President at the World Bank from 2000-2003.

During his time as Chief Economist of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development and Visiting Professor of Economics at LSE, he was one of the founding forces behind the Asia Research Centre, formally becoming its Chairman in June 2007. His research and publications have focused on the economics of climate change, economic development and growth, economic theory, tax reform, public policy and the role of the state and economies in transition.
