In Conversation with Keir Starmer QC
24 October 2012

Tweet your questions throughout tonight’s event

@LSELaw #LSEdpp
Does s.127(1)(b) Comms Act 2003 mean a person who retweets grossly offensive comment could themselves be prosecuted? #LSEdpp
@LordMoseley

If a private conversation is prosecuted would that breach Article 8 HRA? Even if it occurred on social media so was not secret?

Tweet your questions throughout tonight’s event

@LSELaw  #LSEdpp
#LSEdpp are guidelines on prosecution of journalists enough, or do we need a generic public interest defence for public interest journalism?
Jack Straw on #wato indicated no need to change drugs law & downgrade as CPS has prosec discretion but DPP last week indicated ... of offensive speech on social media that constit. required to enforce law of land as passed by Parl. Who is right?
@kmsosa

#LSEdpp Doesn't the public interest test sometimes put the CPS in a legislative role, judging whether a law is just or not? If a law is "bad", then could prosecution under that law ever be in public interest? CPS can effectively nullify laws.
Tweet your questions

@LSELaw

#LSEdpp

In Conversation with Keir Starmer QC
24 October 2012
Coming soon

7 November 2012, 6.30pm
Hong Kong Theatre, Clement House

In Conversation with the Hon. Mr Justice Singh #LSEsingh

27 November 2012, 6.30pm
Hong Kong Theatre, Clement House

Secured transactions and the process of international harmonisation and domestic law reform  Professor Sir Roy Goode CBE QC #LSEgoode

Tweet your questions throughout tonight’s event

@LSELaw  #LSEdpp
Conversing with the Law

In Conversation with Keir Starmer QC

Keir Starmer QC
Director of Public Prosecutions, Crown Prosecution Service

Professor Conor Gearty
Chair, LSE

Suggested hashtag for Twitter users: #LSEdpp