

LSE Literary Festival discussion

Rerum Cognoscere Causas: understanding our classical foundations

Professor Barbara Graziosi

Director for Arts & Humanities, Durham University and author The Gods of Olympus

Tom Holland

Award winning and bestselling author including Rubicon and In the Shadow of the Sword

Professor Edith Hall

Professor of Classics at King's College London and author Introducing the Ancient Greeks

Sir Peter Stothard

Editor of the Times Literary Supplement, author On the Spartacus Road and Alexandria

Dr Llewelyn Morgan

*Chair
Brasenose College, Oxford*

Suggested hashtag for Twitter users: #LSElitfest

Apulian crater depicting Apollo next to a statue of Apollo, early fourth century BCE (Allard Pierson Museum, Amsterdam)

Andrea
Pisano, formella,
bell tower
of Santa
Maria del
Fiore,
Florence, late 1330s.

LSE Literary Festival discussion

Rerum Cognoscere Causas: understanding our classical foundations

Professor Barbara Graziosi

Director for Arts & Humanities, Durham University and author The Gods of Olympus

Professor Edith Hall

Professor of Classics at King's College London and author Introducing the Ancient Greeks

Dr Llewelyn Morgan

*Chair
Brasenose College, Oxford*

Tom Holland

Award winning and bestselling author including Rubicon and In the Shadow of the Sword

Sir Peter Stothard

Editor of the Times Literary Supplement, author On the Spartacus Road and Alexandria

