

NATIONALISM, INTERNATIONALISM AND COSMOPOLITANISM: SOME LESSONS FROM MODERN INDIAN HISTORY

Speaker: Professor Partha Chatterjee

Chair: Dr Ayça Çubukçu

Thursday 3 April 2014, 6.30pm – 8pm
Sheikh Zayed Theatre, New Academic Building, LSE

This lecture deals with four strands of trans-regional political movement in India's 19th and 20th century anti-colonial history: Islamic jihad, nationalism, communism and those who deplored the narrow self-aggrandizement of nationalism and pleaded for an opening to world humanity. All of these strands, with their possibilities and limits, continue to be vibrant today.

Partha Chatterjee is a Professor of Anthropology and of Middle Eastern, South Asian and African Studies at Columbia University and a Professor of Political Science at the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences in Calcutta, India.

This lecture is free and open to all on a first come first served basis.
