

The Stan Cohen Prize

The Stan Cohen Prize is awarded for the best LSE MSc Human Rights dissertation

2012/13

Sophie Donaldson

The Active Bystander. An Interactional Model of Rescuer Behaviour.

2011/12

Chloe Cheeseman

Atrocity Fiction: To What Extent Can Representations of Atrocities in Fictional Literature Advance our Understanding of Violent Human Rights Violations?

2010/11

Amy Hong

Defending the Rights of France's Sans-Papiers: Contradictions and Complexities.

2009/10

Victoria Ivanova

How is International Criminal Justice Implicated in the Constitution of Today's Global Ideological Order?

2008/09

Paul Di Stefano

Motivation and Responsibility: Understanding the Phenomenon of Rescuing During the Rwandan Genocide.

2008/09

Ariagni Adam

To What Extent Should a Government Exercise the Power to Restrict Free Speech? The Case of Rwanda.

2007/08

Grace Sauder

Misinterpreting the Root Issues: Amnesty International, the Catholic Church and Abortion.

2006/07

Joseph Heller

Establishing our Rights in Different Ways? The Possibilities and Problematics of a 'Division of Labor' Approach to Human Rights and Peacebuilding Advocacy in Israeli-Palestinian Conflict.

2005/06

Alex Dukalskis

A Decade of the Right to Truth: Mapping the Gaps Between Rhetoric and Reality.

2004/05

Hillary Cohn

Democracy Without Human Rights? The Case of Iraq.