

LSE Estates Division are 'building' on the Apprenticeship Scheme

The Estates Division has been involved with the Apprenticeship scheme since 2012.

Tamara Williams from Westminster joined us in 2013 to become an Apprentice Office Assistant in the Estates Admin Team. Tamara successfully completed both Level 2 and Level 3 Certificate in Business Administration (in conjunction with Westminster Adult Education Service) during her time with us.

"We wanted to give a young person from the local community an opportunity to gain work experience within a world class university," says Julian Robinson, Director of Estates at LSE. "It has been rewarding to see Tamara develop new skills and gain confidence whilst working with us." As part of her Level 3 qualification, Tamara designed and built her own website.

The benefits of her apprenticeship were felt in many ways. As well as gaining valuable experience, Tamara was able to build on her passion for soul music. "I can afford the things I need to be able to build my home studio, which I'm really happy about. Since I didn't enjoy my education at school it's interesting that I've found myself working in a prestigious educational establishment." After 3 years at LSE Tamara is now moving on and hopes to complete a Level 4 NVQ with her new employer, we wish her every success.

The Maintenance Team have also extended our involvement with the Apprenticeship Scheme by employing three members of staff on four year Apprenticeship Contracts:

Cline McIntosh – Electrical Apprentice,

Cline joined LSE in April 2014 and is going into his final year at Barnfield College, he works alongside Jimmy Maslen, a qualified electrician, who mentors him, developing his skills as an electrician.

Cline is a keen basketball player and mountain bike rider

Jerell Kirnon - Mechanical Services Apprentice

Jerell joined the maintenance team in October 2015. He has just successfully completed his first year at the College of North West London, where he attends on a day release basis.

In his spare time Jerell enjoys meeting up with friends and playing a variety of sports.

Joshua Sloman - Apprentice Groundsman

Josh joined us in September 2015, making the move from his home in Taunton to join the small team at the Sportsground in New Malden, he is studying groundsmanship on a day release basis at Merrist Wood College Guildford. Josh is very enthusiastic and keen to learn and has the long term goal to one day have a key role at a premier league football club.
