LSE Sociology's One-Hundredth Anniversary Celebration Conference

The first course in Sociology at the London School of Economics and Political Science was taught by Edvard Westermarck in the Session 1904-05. The Session 2004-05 is therefore the one-hundredth anniversary of the teaching of Sociology at LSE.

We are going to celebrate this historic occasion for the discipline with a major one-day conference. To mark the development and transformation of the discipline in the past one hundred years and the contours of contemporary sociology, there will be a programme of distinguished speakers from outside and inside LSE. These include: Les Back, Martin Bulmer, Rosemary Deem, Mary Evans, Sarah Franklin, Anthony Giddens, Chelly Halsey, Jennifer Platt, Nikolas Rose, Mike Savage, John Scott, Bev Skeggs and John Solomos.

The conference will be held in LSE's Old Theatre on Friday 13 May 2005. The programme will start at 9.45am and include a buffet luncheon and refreshments and an evening reception.

There is no fee for attending but, because of limitations of space, it is necessary to register in advance.
