

We can help to

Compare global choices

- How does climate system respond to global energy, food, land use and other policies?
- How can we represent uncertainty in modelled outputs?

CATS researchers worked on implementing the Climate Science section of the Global 2050 Calculator with an international consortium funded by the UK's DECC. It is an interactive "game" which allows users to choose climate and energy strategies and see the consequences.

www.globalcalculator.org