LSE EVENTS

WELCOME

Everyone is welcome to attend LSE's public events, where some of the most influential figures in the social sciences can be heard.

This term we are delighted to be hosting in-person events again. We look forward to welcoming our alumni and the public back to our campus.

Most events will also continue to be streamed live online, allowing a global audience to tune in and join the global debate at LSE.

Browse this leaflet to find out what's on this term. All details are correct at the time of going to print. For further details and to register for each event, head to lse.ac.uk/events

Sign up to our e-newsletter to be the first to know about newly announced events at lse.ac.uk/events/signup

Podcasts and videos of most LSE events are available online after the event at lse.ac.uk/lse-player

MAY

Tuesday 3, 6-7.30pm

Evacuating Women Judges in Afghanistan: a tale of international feminist solidarity

Helena Kennedy is one of Britain's most distinguished lawyers. Discussants: Fawzia Amini, a senior judge in Afghanistan's Supreme Court until the Taliban took control in August 2021 and Bee Rowlatt, Chair of the Wollstonecraft Society.

Women lawyers that stood up to the Taliban were among the most vulnerable when Kabul fell. This inspiring exchange examines hopes for women's rights internationally and considers those left behind. #LSEInequalities

Wollstonecraft Society Lecture, hosted by the International Inequalities Institute

Wednesday 4, 1-2pm

Inclusion of Global Talent

Kiera Byland is a Special Olympics GB Board Member. Nyasha Derera serves on the Special Olympics International Board of Directors.

Kester Edwards is Manager of Sport and Development at Special Olympics, Washington DC. Heidi Mallet has had leadership roles on many disability organisations boards.

Our panel of athlete leaders discuss the current work of the Special Olympics to build a more inclusive world. #LSEII

Lessons from Afghanistan

Michael Callen is Associate Professor of Economics, Department of Economics, LSE. Michael Cox is Emeritus Professor of International Relations, LSE. Devika Hovell is Associate Professor in Public International Law, LSE Law School. Nargis Nehan is former Afghan Minister for Mines, Petroleum and Industries, activist and founder of EQUALITY for Peace and Democracy.

We discuss this special issue of the LSE Public Policy Review, reflecting on what the fall of Kabul means for the Western alliance system, women's rights, geopolitics, international law, development, and the economics of peace.

#LSEPublicPolicy

Hosted by the School of Public Policy

MAY

Thursday 5, 6.30-8pm

European Remembrance

Paris Chronakis is Lecturer in Modern Greek History at Royal Holloway, University of London.

How and what kind of European histories get remembered or memorialised? What and who gets included – whose statues are erected or toppled – and whose story is left out?

#LSEEurocentrism #LSEEI30

European Institute 30th anniversary event

Tuesday 10, 6-7.15pm

Tranquillity

Liam Bright is Assistant Professor of Philosophy, LSE. Zena Hitz is a tutor at St John's College. Alex Voorhoeve is Head of the Department of Philosophy, Logic and Scientific Method at LSE.

What does it take to live a good life? The idea that we should aim to cultivate a state of "tranquillity" is important to both Eastern and Western thought. But is it true? #LSEForum

Hosted by the Department of Philosophy, Logic and Scientific Method

Tuesday 10, 6-7.30pm

Sheikh Zayed Theatre,
New Academic Building

The Arthur Lewis Lecture

Abhjit Banerjee, Ford Foundation International Professor of Economics at MIT, celebrates the legacy and work of Sir Arthur Lewis.

 Sheikh Zayed Theatre,
New Academic Building

Climate Change Diplomacy: a most dangerous game

Scott Barrett is Lenfest Earth Institute Professor of Natural Resource Economics at Columbia University, Centennial Professor at LSE and Alliance Professor at Sciences Po.

Professor Barrett explains why global collective action on climate change has failed, how climate diplomacy can be made more effective, and what past and ongoing diplomatic failures imply for future climate diplomacy. #LSEPostCOVID

Part of the "Shaping the Post-COVID World" series, hosted by the Grantham Research Institute on Climate Change and the Environment and Department of Geography and Environment

Thursday 19, 6.30-8pm

The Egalitarian Ideal

Christine Synpovich is Professor, Queen's National Scholar and Head of the Department of Philosophy, Queen's University, Kingston, Canada, and Visiting Fellow, All Souls College, Oxford.

We should eschew the reticence of much left-liberal theories and embrace a radical political philosophy which focuses on what's really at stake: equal human flourishing. #LSEMiliband

Hosted by the Ralph Miliband Programme

Monday 23, 6-7.15pm

Artificial Intelligence and Democracy

Etienne Brown is Assistant Professor of Philosophy, San José State University.

Jocelyn Maclure is Professor of Philosophy, Laval University. Zeynep Pamuk is Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of California San Diego. Annette Zimmermann is Lecturer in Philosophy, University of York.

Artificial intelligence creates opportunities to strengthen democracy but also challenges existing norms. How can we align the decisions of AI systems with democratic values? #LSEPostCOVID

Part of the "Shaping the Post-COVID World" series, hosted by the Department of Philosophy, Logic and Scientific Method

TUESDAY 24 MAY
NIINA VUOLAJÄRVI
