WELCOME

Everyone is welcome to attend LSE's public events, where some of the most influential figures in the social sciences can be heard.

We look forward to welcoming you to our campus. For those who can't be with us in person, we hope you enjoy using LSE Live, our new LSE events experience this term. Our events will be streamed live online, allowing audiences across the world to tune in and join the global debate at LSE.

Browse this leaflet to find out what's on this term. All events are free and all listings are correct at the time of going to print. To check the location, registration requirements and full details for each event, head to lse.ac.uk/events

Musical life at LSE continues to flourish with a series of lunchtime concerts on Thursdays in the Shaw Library. These concerts regularly showcase an impressively international spectrum of musicians, and now rightly enjoy a reputation for both their quality and popularity. Find out more in this leaflet and at lse.ac.uk/music

Monday 6 November to Friday 8 December

Climate change: America and the world

From unprecedented droughts in East Africa and devastating floods in Pakistan, to heatwaves in the United Kingdom and wildfires in Canada, the disastrous impacts of climate change can be felt around the world. These events affect some communities more than others, raising questions about our global responsibility to mitigate the effects of climate change. Our exhibition features bespoke artwork by Carleen de Sözer, one of London's most skilled and varied aerosol and airbrush artists, on this theme.

Hosted by the Phelan United States Centre

Atrium Gallery, Old Building. Visitors are welcome Monday to Friday from 10am to 8pm.

Friday 8 September to Wednesday 20 December

Resistance, rights and refuge: Britain and Chile 50 years after the Chilean coup

Following a military coup on 11 September 1973, tens of thousands were imprisoned and tortured, and more than 3,300 murdered and disappeared. And more than 3,000 Chilean refugees arrived in Britain. Here we explore conversations about human rights, democracy and refuge, celebrating Chilean contributions to Britain 50 years since Chile's democratically elected socialist government was overthrown. Hosted by LSE Library and Department of International History

LSE Library Gallery. Visitors are welcome Monday to Friday from 9am to 7pm, Saturday and Sunday from 11am to 6pm.
