

CHILE, A MODEL COUNTRY GONE WRONG?

Professor Andrés Velasco, Dean of LSE School of Public Policy and Professor Robert Funk, Institute for Public Affairs, University of Chile

Tuesday 18 February 2020

6-7pm

32Lincoln's Inn Fields G.03

Chile has been regarded as one of Latin America's success stories, both politically and economically. Recent political violence and public protests in the country raise questions about what is going on in Chile and why it is going on. Two leading Chilean academics and public figures, Professors Andrés Velasco and Robert Funk, will discuss this in conversation with the public the reasons behind the violence and public unrest and the prospects for the country.

