

STEPHANIE CAMPBELL

Policy stream: International Development

Contact: steph.campbell6@gmail.com

Nationality: Australian, British

Education:

3/2005 – 12/2009

University of Melbourne, Australia

BCom (Economics, Finance),

BA (Political Science, English Literature)

Languages:

English – Native speaker

French – Intermediate

IT Skills:

Microsoft Office – Advanced

Microsoft Excel – Advanced

Stata – Intermediate

Key academic interests:

Microeconomics

Political Economy

International Development

Political Sociology

Collective action problems

Key extra-curricular interests:

Yoga

Reading

Photography

Running

Travelling

Work Experience:

7/2015 – 9/2015

Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD)

Junior Analyst/Intern – Observatory of Public Sector Innovation, Directorate for Public Governance and Territorial Development
Paris, France

- Research and coding of public sector innovation activities across different countries
- Design and development of a qualitative coding system
- Research on outcomes/performance-based funding.

3/2010 – 1/2014

Deloitte

Manager – Economics

Melbourne, Australia

- Economic analysis and advisory to the public sector
- Microeconomic analysis of public policy issues, including social policy, health and mental health, environmental economics and sustainability, and public sector innovation
- Led and managed teams, projects and junior staff.

10/2015 – Present

London School of Economics and Political Science

Research Assistant, Department of International Development
London, England

- Increasing expertise in development economics
- Strengthening academic research skills
- Undertaking economic research for World Bank projects.