- I was able to work in several projects: Human Trafficking; Smuggling of Migrants; Terrorism; Crime, Justice and Government Statistics.
- We promoted the implementation of an international crime classification
- We developed a framework to measure organised crime
- We published several reports and books on victimisation (on households and the private sector)
- The number of stakeholders which we were working notoriously increased
- I learned a lot about the statistical information generation process (ie, sample design, survey design and field operations).
