

ZACHARY CLEMENCE

Policy stream: MPA Public and Economic Policy

Nationality: American

Contact: zachary.clemence@gmail.com

Education:

9/2006 – 6/2010

New York University

BA Politics

Languages:

English – Native speaker

IT Skills:

Stata – Advanced

Excel – Intermediate

Python – Intermediate

Academic interests:

Economics

Health policy and institutions

Organizational strategy

International development

Program design

Evaluation and implementation

Key extra-curricular interests:

Rock climbing

Cycling

Whitewater kayaking

Cooking

Exploring the world and getting to know it's people

Work experience:

12/2012 – 10/2015

Innovations for Poverty Action

Research Coordinator

Kampala, Uganda

- Managed over 1 million USD in grants from the UNF, EGAP, Hewlett Foundation, and the IGC.

- Created and evaluated a new mHealth product to enhance health service provision at national scale by using DHIS2 data and the existing mTrac platform.

9/2016 – Present

Public Sphere Journal

Web Editor

London, UK

- Created an online platform for the LSE Institute of Public Affairs' student-run journal of public policy.

- Recruited and managed authors from within the LSE and in the global policy community.

- Developed a vision for the MPA's student contribution to policy conversations through blogs, interviews and podcasts.

9/2015 – 9/2016

Cognoscere Consulting

Senior Consultant

London, UK

- Developed strategy for The Forgiveness Project, a London based NGO dedicated to amplifying true stories to resolve conflict to expand and franchise internationally.

- Created data visualization for Save the Children's annual report.