

LSE Undergraduate Offer Holder Newsletter 6

Dear offer holder,

In this edition of Get Ready for LSE, we're going to introduce you to LSE100, our flagship interdisciplinary course designed to shape the future leaders of tomorrow.

What is LSE100?

LSE100 is a half-unit interdisciplinary course that you will take in your first year of your degree. It's a unique opportunity for you to delve into complex global challenges, alongside peers from various departments and leading academics across the School. Through research-rich education, LSE100 equips you with the skills to tackle multidimensional problems, fostering critical thinking and collaboration for the betterment of society.

Hear from current students about their experiences with LSE100:

Ask the LSE100 Co-Directors: online Q&A sessions

To learn more about LSE100, including what to expect from the course and advice on choosing your LSE100 theme, join us for one of our online Ask the LSE100 Co-Directors sessions later this summer.

During these virtual events, you'll be able to ask any questions that you may have about the course and its themes. We'll be hosting several of these sessions in late August and early September. You can also follow LSE100 on Instagram, X and LinkedIn to keep up to date with the course and its news!

Choosing your LSE100 theme

Before arriving at LSE, you'll be asked to select one of these three compelling themes as the focus of your LSE100 studies:

- How can we control AI?
- How can we transform our climate futures?
- How can we create a fair society?

We encourage you to select a theme that sparks your curiosity and enthusiasm. You don't need prior expertise in your chosen theme; our seminars will support you in developing your knowledge throughout the course.

When can I select my theme?

You'll select your theme during the online pre-enrolment process later in the summer, before arriving on campus. For more details about each theme and how to make your choice, visit the LSE100 Welcome page and remember to join an Ask the LSE100 Co-Directors online session.

How will I study in LSE100?

LSE100 takes place across the Autumn and Winter terms of your first year as an undergraduate student. During your time on the course, you'll attend fortnightly interactive seminars where you'll get to engage with peers who are also studying your chosen theme.

How will I be assessed?

Assessment in LSE100 is based on two key components: an individual written assessment (worth 50% of your grade) in Autumn Term, and a group research project (also worth 50%) presented and submitted collectively at the end of Winter Term.

Complete the Offer Holder Survey and win up to £500 in vouchers!

Take a few minutes to help us make the experience of future LSE applicants better by completing our Offer Holder Survey. Your answers will help us understand what we're doing well and what we can improve on.

To complete the survey, search for an email from Undergraduate Admissions with the subject: 'Help us improve the LSE application experience' and follow the instructions. For your time, you'll be entered into a prize draw where you could win up to £500 in Amazon vouchers.
