Welcome to the Undergraduate Offer Guide for 2023! The purpose of this guide is to provide you with important information regarding your offer, fees, accommodation and other services available at LSE. This guide is intended to be a “nuts and bolts” overview of the important information you will need at some point in the next year, which we acknowledge can be a bit dull to read and doesn’t represent all of the exciting opportunities you will have as an LSE student. For this reason, we will also be sending you newsletters which will hopefully demonstrate the fun side of LSE.

Congratulations on your offer of a place at LSE!

I am delighted to enclose your official offer letter and look forward to welcoming you to LSE for the start of your studies.

I was a student at LSE myself, and I know just how overwhelming it can be. This guide will help you to understand your offer and prepare for your arrival on campus. The following pages explain what you need to do next and how to get answers to any questions you may have. I encourage you to read all of the information in this booklet and your offer letter.

LSE is a wonderful institution. As one of the world's leading universities for the study of the social sciences it attracts students from over 160 countries and offers them a unique blend of leading teaching, cutting-edge research and stimulating intellectual experiences.

Our identity and character are closely linked with our location in central London, an exciting and lively place to live and study. This benefits the School in many ways, as we are at the crossroads of global politics, business, culture, ideas, and people. We provide a unique forum for public debate with the heads of state, top global officials, corporate leaders, Nobel Laureates, social activists, and visionary entrepreneurs visiting every week as part of LSE's Public Events programme.

While you are here you will be part of a vibrant and inspirational community, with societies representing hundreds of different interests available for you to join, as well as possibilities to volunteer and participate in social events. Take advantage of these opportunities – the friends I made at LSE are still a huge part of my life and career.

LSE graduates are leaders in their chosen fields, succeeding in a wide variety of ways and in making a difference to the world around them. Our graduates go on to work for international organisations, such as, national governments, research institutions, business, finance, media and civil society, and many build their own private and social enterprises.

I am absolutely delighted you will be joining us and I encourage you to make the most of all the opportunities LSE has to offer. Welcome!

Yours sincerely,

Baroness Minouche Shafik
LSE Director

6 September	Deadline for receiving any re-mark results.

Post-confirmation checklist

Things to do between August 2023 and your September enrolment at LSE

August/September

Get vaccinated. All students – British, European or overseas – admitted to universities in the UK are advised to be vaccinated against Meningitis ACWY and COVID-19 and to ensure all their vaccinations are up-to-date.

Before you arrive in the UK (overseas students)

Obtain sufficient UK currency or an international credit/debit card to last until you open your UK bank account.

Late September

Move into your accommodation.

Late September

Attend LSE Welcome events and the Students' Union.

Late September

Attend enrolment (see page 18).

September/October

Ensure that you pay your fees, or that you have a payment plan organised (see page 20).

September

If you have been assessed by Student Finance for a means-tested element to your maintenance loan, please ensure that you have received your LSE bursary entitlement (see page 28).

Late September

Select your first year courses online via LSE for You.

Other things to consider after you arrive

- 1 Get a UK mobile phone (or SIM card) if you need one.
- 2 Make financial arrangements, including opening a student bank account.
- 3 Get a Student Oyster Card (discount travel card).
- 4 Get to know your department.
- 5 Join societies – or set up your own here!
- 6 Take a tour of the Library (see page 45).
- 7 Explore the campus – you can use our self-guided tour here.

For those of you who are new to the capital, get to know London! Buses are an excellent way to explore how the city fits together, or why not explore on foot.

Finally, make the most of your time at university! A packed year at LSE goes quickly, and there are lots of opportunities coming your way – to make friends from across the globe, to attend exciting events with world leaders in their fields, to contribute to classes in subjects that you are enthusiastic about and to shape your future career. You have a challenging and amazing year ahead.

LSE Offer Holders' Day

Wednesday 26 April 2023

The LSE Offer Holders' Day gives you the opportunity to visit the LSE campus, meet LSE staff and students and find out more about studying at LSE and life in London.

The LSE Offer Holders' Day provides you with the opportunity to:

Learn more about your chosen degree subject at LSE.

Meet academic staff and other offer holders from your department.

Get advice from current LSE students about studying at LSE and living in London.

Explore London, the LSE campus, and university accommodation.

Discover LSE's academic and student support services – Alumni, Careers, Disability and Wellbeing, Financial Support, Language Centre and LSE LIFE.

Find out about Student Life at LSE and our Students' Union.

Places are limited and booking is essential, please see here.

Cancellation policy

Please note that as a result of circumstances or events outside of our control (known as a Force Majeure event), which includes but is not limited to industrial action, official government advice, fire, flood or other environmental or physical damage to premises, we may need to cancel an event at short notice.

In the event of a cancellation, a change of venue or date, we will endeavour to notify attendees wherever possible through the contact details given at the time of booking. For the avoidance of doubt, the School will not be liable for any costs you may incur as a result of any cancellation, change of venue or date.

LSE Virtual Offer Holders' Day

You can also experience the LSE Virtual Offer Holders' Day wherever you are in the world.

The LSE Virtual Offer Holders' Day is designed to give you all the information you need about studying at LSE and life in London.

The Virtual Offer Holders' Day provides you with the opportunity to:

Learn more about your chosen degree subject at LSE.

Watch videos, listen to talks and read blogs from staff and students in your academic department.

Explore London, the LSE campus, and university accommodation through interactive maps, videos and virtual tours.

Discover LSE's academic and student support services – Alumni, Careers, Disability and Wellbeing, Financial Support, Language Centre and LSE LIFE.

Find out about Student Life at LSE and our Students' Union.

Get advice from LSE students and alumni about studying at LSE and living in London through videos, blogs and profiles.

Speak directly to LSE students and staff through our live chat service.

Contacting the Undergraduate Admissions Office

The answers to most questions you may have can be found either in this Offer Guide, in the Undergraduate Admissions Knowledge Base or in the "Information for offer holders" section of our website.

If you have a question about your application, your offer, or the undergraduate admissions process in general, please refer to these resources in the first instance. If you need to contact us, either with a question which you cannot find an answer for, or to notify us of a change to your application or circumstances, then you can find our contact details here. We will ensure that your query is directed to the appropriate person and answered promptly.

School holiday closures

The Undergraduate Admissions Office will be closed for all UK bank holidays, as well as extended Easter and Christmas breaks. The office is particularly busy after long breaks, so please be patient when contacting us; we will respond to your query as quickly as possible once the School re-opens. All term dates can be found on page 1.

General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)

LSE collects information on its students for essential tasks, in order to pursue its legitimate interests as a higher education institution.

This includes registration, teaching allocations, monitoring and assessment of academic progress, entry to examinations, management of health and safety, planning, maintenance of order and contacting next of kin in emergencies. This information is treated in the strictest confidence, and is covered by the provisions of the General Data Protection Regulation.

Under the provisions of General Data Protection Regulation, we are unable to disclose or discuss any part of your application with a third party, unless you have nominated this individual (eg, parent/guardian/teacher) via your UCAS application form.

Your offer explained

You should by now have received official confirmation of your offer from LSE via UCAS. The guidance and frequently asked questions provided in the “Information for offer holders” section of our website should help you to better understand the terms of your offer.

Your offer of admission to the School is based on the information you provided on your UCAS application form. It is your responsibility to provide official evidence of your qualifications (if we require it – please see your offer letter). If you are unable to provide such evidence, we reserve the right to withdraw your offer of admission.

Deferrals

If you wish to defer your place for one year*, you must submit a request to the Undergraduate Admissions Office (via the Undergraduate Admissions Knowledge Base), stating the reasons for your request and what you plan to do on your gap year.

The deadline for one-year deferral requests is Friday 14 July. Requests received after this date will not be considered.

*LSE does not offer the option of a two-year deferral, unless the applicant has extenuating circumstances preventing them from beginning their programme in 2023 or 2024. Please note that compulsory National Service is not considered as an extenuating circumstance for two-year deferral requests.

If your request is granted

Your UCAS record will be changed to reflect your new year of entry and you will receive a confirmation email confirming the Selector's decision. You are not required to pay a deposit to secure your place for the following year.

You will still be expected to meet the conditions of your offer within the year you applied; conditions cannot be carried over into the next academic year.

- If your offer required you to obtain an English language qualification, please be aware that this qualification may expire before you join the School. Please refer to our list of recognised English language qualifications here.
- If your English language qualification is due to expire before 1 September of your year of entry, you will be required to take another test before joining the School. For overseas offer holders requiring a visa, you must obtain this qualification before a CAS can be issued.

You must also ensure you keep your contact details up to date on UCAS so we can contact you throughout the following year, especially if you were previously using a school email address. Our first email will be sent in December/January to confirm that you still wish to take up your place for the following September, and failure to respond will result in your offer being withdrawn.

If your request is refused

Your offer will still be valid for 2023. If you are happy with this, then no action is required. Alternatively, if you do not wish to take up your place, you will need to contact UCAS to withdraw from the programme.

English language requirements

General requirements

All students are required to be sufficiently proficient in the English language to benefit from their studies at the School. Overseas students must also satisfy Home Office requirements in order to receive a Student visa (see page 42). An English language requirement in your offer is as important as the academic requirement. If there is an English proficiency condition in your offer, it will be stated in your offer conditions as shown on UCAS Track and on your offer letter.

For example:

“Obtain grades AAA at A-Level, with A in Mathematics, in your forthcoming and declared exam sitting. Offer is subject to terms and deadlines, as specified in the appendix of your offer letter.”

Booking your test

We strongly urge you to book your English language test early and in time to meet our 31 July 2023 deadline.

Test dates for all qualifications are often full by July and waiting to book a test could mean that you fail to meet the conditions of your offer. We cannot defer an offer based on a missed English language test. You should contact the individual organisations for further guidance about booking your test.

Test validity

IELTS, TOEFL, Pearson and Trinity test scores must be achieved from one sitting. We will not accept individual component scores from multiple tests. They are also only valid for two years. Applicants entering in 2023 should offer results dated on or after 1 September 2021. For deferred applicants entering in 2024, tests must be dated on or after 1 September 2022.

You may have already declared a qualification we would accept (pending verification), or may be exempt, based on your nationality. However, you are able to provide us with any of the valid qualifications below, or clarify your exemption, via our English language questionnaire.

English language questionnaire

All offer holders who we request to obtain an English language qualification, will have access to complete a questionnaire to determine whether they:

- a. Have already met our English language qualifications. If so, they will either be directed to guidance on how to supply us with evidence.
- b. Provide us with information, which would allow us to verify obtained English language results on their behalf (selected qualifications only).
- c. Would be considered as exempt, providing us with confirmation of this.

The link to this questionnaire will be provided in the offer congratulations email you have received from us.

English language qualifications accepted by LSE for entry in 2023 can be found here.

Providing certified copies of your qualifications

We will often request officially certified copies of your qualifications as part of your offer, usually to verify previous study which you have stated on your UCAS application form. If you are sitting an overseas or European qualification in late 2022 or in 2023, you will also need to ensure we receive certified copies of your results when they are released.

If we require proof of any previous qualifications, this will be stated on your offer document, eg, "You are required to submit certified documentation of the following qualification(s), which must be received by 31 July 2023: A levels, taken in 2022".

It is vital that you ensure we receive correctly certified copies of your qualifications. Failure to do so can result in a delay in making your offer unconditional.

Full details on how we should receive certified evidence of your academic qualifications can be found on our website here.

Your first weeks

After pre-enrolling online you need to formally campus enrol with the School, and attend School and departmental welcome induction events. There are also lots of other optional events provided by the School, your department and the Students' Union during that week that are designed to help you settle into London and LSE as quickly and smoothly as possible. For more information, including how-to-guides for settling in and other event information, please visit the Welcome web pages during the summer.

Enrolment and Welcome Presentations

When you arrive on campus, you should attend your scheduled campus enrolment session. Campus enrolment takes place in-person and is where we will check your official documents, including passport (all students) and visa (if applicable). Once you have completed campus enrolment, you will be issued with your LSE Card giving you access to campus and on-campus teaching and services.

In order to avoid delaying your enrolment, please ensure that you have returned all required admissions documentation, and completed and submitted the online Student Verification Form and Financial Undertaking Form.

Your Welcome Presentation is the ceremonial start to your time at the School. These presentations are compulsory and are your opportunity to learn more about what it is to be part of the LSE community and our opportunity to welcome you to it.

Further information about the timing and format of these events will be available on the Welcome web pages.

What to bring with you to Campus Enrolment

When we campus enrol you we are legally required to check your eligibility to study in the UK. We do this by checking various documents. The documents you'll need to bring with you will vary depending on your nationality and immigration status. For details of what to bring with you please visit What to Bring to Campus Enrolment. Please remember to check back regularly as the page may be subject to change.

At campus enrolment, we will take a scan of all students' passports and documents that verify immigration status and will not be able to campus enrol you unless you bring all the required in-date original documents with you.

Please also bring a copy of your pre-enrolment pass which will be emailed to you following your online pre-enrolment.

LSE Welcome Events

LSE Welcome includes a variety of formal and social activities designed to introduce you to the School, your department and the Students' Union. Each event is designed to inform you about different aspects of life at LSE and many of the services and opportunities open to you as a student. The events range from fairs where you can meet and chat with people to more formal presentations. Specific information about LSE Welcome will be published in the summer before you join us.

Fees

Every student is charged a fee for each year of their programme. Fees cover all registration and examination fees payable to the School and to the University of London for lectures, classes and individual supervision, lectures given at other colleges under intercollegiate arrangements and membership of the Students' Union. It does not cover living costs, travel or fieldwork or repeat fees.

Fee levels under the School's control are set by the School's Council around 15 months ahead of the academic year that they relate to.

See here for a complete list of fees.

Your offer letter will specify how much you will be charged for your tuition fees. The School does not require you to pay a fee deposit when you accept our offer of admission, though if you wish you may make a payment as soon as you have an offer. However, before you register at the School you must complete a Financial Undertaking Form (FUF) confirming that, if admitted, you have adequate funds available to meet the School's fees and your living costs for the full period of your proposed programme of study at the School. Applicants who firmly accept their offer from LSE will receive an email invitation from early June to complete their FUF.

Important note:

The School cannot accept responsibility for students arriving to start a degree programme without sufficient funds and without having already explored all possible options of financial assistance from the School and other organisations.

2023/24

Home (UK) and Republic of Ireland students fees

If you are a Home (UK) or Republic of Ireland (ROI) student undertaking your first year of Undergraduate study you do not have to pay your full tuition fees upfront. The UK government provides students with a tuition fee loan to cover the full cost of their tuition fees for the duration of the undergraduate programme.

Important note:

Following the UK's decision to leave the EU, EU, other EEA and Swiss nationals will no longer be eligible for home fee status. This change will not affect those EU, other EEA and Swiss nationals benefiting from Citizens' Rights under the EU Withdrawal Agreement, EEA EFTA Separation Agreement or Swiss Citizens' Rights Agreement respectively.

The best place to look for updated information is our Fee Status Classification web page.

The tuition fee loan is administered by Student Finance England (SFE). To apply, please visit the Directgov website here.

You should visit this website so that you understand the help that is available, and begin the application process as soon as possible.

Students can opt, if they prefer, to pay the tuition fee upfront or throughout the course.

Students from Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland wanting to find out more information should refer to the following websites:

Welsh Assembly

Student Awards Agency Scotland

Student Finance NI

Overseas fees

For all non-UK/ROI (overseas) students, universities charge fees to cover the full cost of tuition. Overseas undergraduate students beginning their studies in 2023 will pay a fee based on which tier their programme is in, for further information see the "Overseas Undergraduate Fees by Programme for 2023/24 Entry". This fee will be fixed from the year of entry, so students will pay the same amount each year for the duration of their programme.

Channel Islands and Isle of Man students

If you are classified as a student from the Channel Islands or Isle of Man for the purpose of fees, you or your family will have to make a contribution towards tuition fees. Island students enrolling on undergraduate first degree programmes of study in 2023 will be charged the same tuition fees as English students. Students from the Channel Islands or Isle of Man should contact their local Education Department for further information regarding financing their studies:

Jersey

Guernsey

Isle of Man

Deferred offer holders from 2022

Applicants who submitted an application in the 2022 admissions cycle and are holding a deferred entry place for 2023 will pay the fee published on the LSE website for the actual year of entry.

Paying your fees

When to pay your fees

Offer holders can pay their fees as soon as they have their offer. If you have not paid in full by the time you enrol you will be placed on a termly Payment Plan. More details can be found on the Fees, Income and Credit Control website.

How to pay your fees

The School is committed to offering a simplified payment experience, which is both secure and safe, all fees including tuition fees, accommodation fees and short course and Summer School fees should be paid via the School's payment portal. Please see here for more information.

If you have taken out a Tuition Fee Loan via Student Finance England

LSE will receive information about your fee loan directly from Student Finance England in September 2023. The Fees, Income and Credit Control office will then contact you to check that the information we have received is correct. If your application to Student Finance England is late or delayed, you should contact the Fees, Income and Credit Control Office for advice and support. You will not be asked to pay your fees until the Fees, Income and Credit Control office has discussed the situation with you. English students can apply for their loan online here.

If you or your family are paying your fees

If you are paying your own fees please see the Fees, Income and Credit Control office website for further details.

If you have received an award from LSE

Financial awards made by LSE are put towards your fees for the year. If the award made by the School covers only a part of your fees, you are responsible for paying the remainder. You may pay the remainder either in full at enrolment or in instalments. If a proportion of the award is specifically intended for your living costs, you will be contacted by the FSO. The School will pay your award to your UK bank account.

If your fees are to be paid fully or partially by an organisation

If your fees, or part of them, are to be paid directly to the School by a company, government department or government body, educational institution, research body or charitable organisation, then it will have to accept liability for the fees. You can submit confirmation of your sponsorship from the outside organisation through the Financial Undertaking form, you must provide a sponsorship letter, please see the Fees Policy Appendix 5 for further information..

The organisation should state in its letter how much of your fees it will pay; you will then be responsible for the rest, and will be liable for the full fees until we have this confirmation. Please note, this does not include any maintenance grant, which is paid to the student and not to the School. The organisation must pay its share upon receipt of the School's invoice and you must pay your share according to the schedule on the Fees, Income and Credit Control Office here.

Important notes:

- If the organisation does not confirm acceptance of your fee liability, withdraws sponsorship or fails to pay, you will be required to pay the fees yourself.
- You are responsible for ensuring that the organisation confirms that it will pay your fees by submitting proof online via the Financial Undertaking Form, or by submitting a letter of confirmation directly to the Fees Office.

Receipts and visa updates

If you are an overseas student requiring a visa, information on your fee payments is automatically sent to the Home Office and your CAS is updated once your payment has cleared, to reflect the amount paid.

Important note:

It can take up to two weeks for some payments to clear. Please wait until you are issued with an updated CAS before booking any visa appointments.

Penalties for late payment

There are penalties for late payment. These may include loss of library rights, de-registration and referral to Credit Control. You will be warned by email if your payments are late and/or if sanctions are going to be imposed on you. At this time you should contact the Fees, Income and Credit Control office directly.

Failure to pay your fees

If any portion of your fees remain unpaid, whether by yourself or other external organisation, then your exam results will not be published and will not be made available to you.

Problems

If you encounter any problems with the payment of your fees you should contact the Fees, Income and Credit Control office immediately.

Fee status classification

The amount of tuition fees you will need to pay, and any financial support you are eligible for, will depend on whether you are classified as a Home or Overseas student. LSE assesses your fee status using The Education (Fees and Awards) (England) Regulations from the UK government's Department of Education.

We assess your fee status using the information and facts that you provide at the time of your initial application to the school. We may need to ask for additional information in order to help us assess your fee status.

The onus is on individual students to satisfy the institution that they meet the criteria to be classified as home status for the purpose of fees.

Each programme has a separate home and overseas target. Consequently we are required to establish fee status prior to making a decision on your application

We have summarised below the most common categories of people who will pay Home fees for courses starting in autumn 2023. These are only the very basic details, and there are more categories. For more detailed information, including the full details of the 3-year residence requirement, please refer to the UKCISA guide "England: fee status for Higher Education".

British citizens:

On 1 September 2023 you are a British citizen, and you have been living in the UK and Islands, the European Economic Area, Switzerland or the UK overseas territories since 1 September 2020. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Irish citizens:

On 1 September 2023 you are an Irish citizen, and you have been living in the UK and Islands, the European Economic Area, Switzerland or the UK overseas territories since 1 September 2020. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Other EU nationals:

You have settled or pre-settled status under the EU Settlement Scheme, and you have been living in the UK and Islands, the European Economic Area, Switzerland or the UK overseas territories, since 1 September 2020. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Family members of British citizens:

You have been living in the UK and Islands since 1 September 2020. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Indefinite Leave

On 1 September 2023 you have Indefinite Leave (Permanent Residence) and you have been living in the UK and Islands since 1 September 2020. Gaining ILR after 1 September 2023 does not change your fee status. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Refugees, Humanitarian Protection

You or your relevant family member has been recognised by the UK government as a refugee or as someone with Humanitarian Protection. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Long residence

If under 18 years: In the period immediately preceding 1 September 2023 you have been in the UK for seven years. If over 18 years: In the period immediately preceding 1 September 2023 you have been in the UK either for half your life or a period of twenty years. Since 1 September 2023 you have had formal immigration permission for the UK. For full details, see UKCISA's guide.

Asylum seekers

Asylum seekers would not ordinarily qualify for the Home fee status. However, LSE has two financial awards available for asylum seekers to the UK, the Access to Education Scholarships.

If you feel you've been incorrectly classified

If after reading all the information and consulting the UKCISA website you believe that the School should reconsider your fee status please contact UG Admissions via the Knowledge Base. The deadline for re-assessment of fee status is 31 October in the year you register.

See the UKCISA website for independent advice about fee status here.

Financial support

LSE, the UK government and overseas governments offer a range of financial support packages for undergraduate students.

Financial support for UK students

The information given below is for students who reside in England. Students residing in Scotland, Northern Ireland and Wales should check the website for up to date information, as their financial support options need to be confirmed by the devolved administrations.

Student loan for maintenance

The student loan for maintenance will continue to be available to students entering higher education in 2023.

Assessments are made by Student Finance England. Applications can be made online here. Information on interest rates is also on this site.

Tuition fee and maintenance loans are combined for repayment. More information on how much your repayments will be can be found here.

LSE Bursary

The LSE Bursary is for UK students who have a means tested element to their maintenance loan.

The value of the LSE Bursary is linked to students' (or their families') income levels and are assessed following your online application to Student Finance England for a Maintenance Loan. The maximum LSE Bursary of £4,000 per year is awarded to those students with the lowest residual income.

The value of the bursary tapers on a sliding scale. Students with a residual income in excess of £42,611 will not receive an LSE Bursary. These bursaries do not have to be repaid.

More information can be found here.

You do not have to apply separately to LSE for the bursary and students do not compete for these awards. If you have been assessed for a means tested element to your maintenance loan, your details will be passed to LSE automatically and the value of the bursary is calculated accordingly. If you are eligible you will receive the award once you have enrolled at the School.

Important note:

If you want to be considered quickly and easily for the LSE Bursary, you should ensure that when both you and your parents complete the online form for funding you do not tick the box opting out of sharing information.

Student Finance will then share your financial data with universities, and we can proceed to award any bursary promptly.

LSE Discretionary Bursary

Discretionary Bursaries are available for new LSE students who face exceptional financial needs, for example, caring responsibilities, financial need related to disability or an unavoidable requirement to live at home. The value of the award may vary according to need.

These bursaries do not have to be repaid. Any home UK student who receives an offer of a place at LSE will be eligible to apply for the Discretionary Bursary.

More information can be found here.

Please note:

You must have applied for all statutory support available before you can be considered. Students who are made an offer of a Discretionary Bursary will receive the award once they have enrolled at the School.

LSE scholarships- Home UK and Overseas

Each year LSE awards a number of scholarships to home UK and overseas (including EU) applicants to the School. The number, value, eligibility criteria and type of awards vary from year to year. Awards are based on financial need and academic merit. For more details about these scholarships and information on how to apply please see the Financial Support Office web pages.

Examples of the scholarships available can be found below, however scholarships become available during the course of the admissions cycle. We recommend that you check the Fees and funding section of the website, on a regular basis.

To be considered offer holders will need to complete the Undergraduate Scholarship application form which can be found on our web pages with further information relating to the scholarships available.

Uggle Family Scholarships 2023 entry

LSE is delighted to announce ten undergraduate scholarships, generously funded through the Uggle Family Scholarship Programme, for overseas and home UK students with the greatest financial need including those from groups underrepresented in higher education. These scholarships have been designed to support a diverse range of offer holders who fall into one of the following categories; care leavers, underrepresented BME backgrounds, especially Black African/Caribbean, Pakistani and Bangladeshi heritage, Canadian (reflecting the family's personal connection with Canada) and all gender identities to ensure a balance across all ten scholarships.

The scholarships offer a generous financial package, as well as guidance, support and opportunities throughout your studies to help position yourself for future success.

The deadline for receipt of applications from overseas applicants is 28 April 2023.

The deadline for receipt of applications from UK applicants is 1 June 2023.

LSE Access to Education Scholarships

LSE offers three awards made up of support for the tuition fee and living costs. You will be considered if you are:

- an Asylum seeker; or
- a refugee; or
- a person with Humanitarian Protection or
- a person who is resident in the UK and has been granted Discretionary/Limited Leave to Remain in the UK.

Priority will be given to those who are unable to access funding from Student Finance England (or its national equivalent), but each case will be assessed on need.

To apply please see here.

The deadline is 28 April 2023.

LSE Undergraduate Support Scheme

The LSE Undergraduate Support Scheme is designed to help overseas students who do not have the necessary funds to meet all their costs. This financial aid is available only for study at LSE, and the awards are renewable for each year of your programme.

Information on how to apply together with the application form are here. We will ask you to submit information about your financial situation so that we can make an assessment of your financial need.

You are advised to apply early. The final deadline for completed application forms to be received by LSE by 28 April 2023.

Important note:

The School has limited funds and is unfortunately unable to help every applicant for financial assistance. The School is not able to offer any assistance to students who are under-funded when they start their course.

External sources of funding

In special circumstances, applications for undergraduate study may be considered under the following schemes. You should also refer to the School's website for further information.

Additional financial support while you are studying

LSE provides additional aid to students who experience unexpected financial difficulties once they have registered on their programme of study. Please note, LSE will not provide financial support to students who register without sufficient funds to cover their fees or living expenses.

Student Support Fund

The Student Support Fund is an emergency hardship fund for students who are experiencing financial difficulties which could not have been foreseen at the time of first registration at the School. It cannot be used to assist students who register without sufficient funds for their fees and living expenses. Students must be fully registered to apply. More information can be found here.

LSE Access

LSE Access funds are available to provide help for low income UK students who may need extra financial support for their course and to stay in higher education. More information can be found here. Students must be fully registered to apply.

Other forms of Financial Support

- Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Childcare Grant (CCG)
- Parents' Learning Allowance (PLA).

The LSE Careers Service

The LSE Careers Service can help you find employment while you are a registered student at LSE, and will help you think ahead to future employment with opportunities for internships, voluntary work and work placements.

Further information about the services offered by the LSE Careers Service can be found here.

Accommodation

LSE guarantees a space in accommodation, in either an LSE Hall of Residence or an Intercollegiate Hall (which are open to all University of London students), to all first year undergraduates who book by the deadline.

Undergraduate students in residences are usually offered housing contract lengths to match the academic year. Contract lengths available for undergraduate students are 31 weeks (the academic year excluding the Easter and Christmas vacations), 39 weeks (the academic year including the Easter and Christmas vacations) or 50 weeks (the academic year including the Easter, Christmas and Summer vacations).

LSE and University of London Accommodation

LSE offers a variety of styles of accommodation. There are undergraduate only halls, and halls which accommodate both undergraduate and graduate students.

In all of them, there will be a varied mix of students, including home and overseas, men and women. Residences offer a supportive environment for those living away from home for the first time, providing a pathway to independence and establishing networks of friends that last a life time. All utilities and WiFi are included within the rent.

In all residences there are student committees who maintain an active social calendar throughout the year with regular events, pizza parties, study brunches, film nights, yoga, guided meditation and wellbeing events, boat parties and seasonal celebrations. For the latest information on what's happening in our hall communities please see

LSE Halls Life.

All of the LSE halls are in central London within a four mile radius of the LSE campus and within London Transport zones 1 or 2, though most are in zone 1 (see map on page 70).

Accommodation rates for 2023/24 will be available on the Accommodation website once accommodation bookings open in early 2023. Room rates differ from hall to hall, according to varying factors.

These may include:

- Relative room size in the building; location within the building; access to shared facilities, such as bathrooms, kitchens, etc
- Bed size
- Whether or not meals are included in the weekly charge.

For more details about LSE and Intercollegiate Hall facilities, room types, and prices, please see here.

Private housing

Information on living in privately rented housing is available here for those students who would prefer this option.

How to book

You can book accommodation in LSE and Intercollegiate halls using the LSE Student Accommodation System once you have accepted your offer to study at LSE. You will need your LSE ID number and date of birth to create an account.

Please visit the Accommodation website here for more information.

For those beginning their programme in 2023, bookings should be made before the deadline. Please see here for the 2023 accommodation booking deadline.

Bookings from new undergraduate students are possible after the deadline but are subject to availability.

Payment of halls' fees

If you have an unconditional offer to study, the deposit is requested at the point of booking. Students with conditional offers to study are still able to make a booking, however, the deposit is requested at the time you meet the conditions of your offer to study at the School.

For those paying a £250.00 deposit, £110.00 will be used as a holding deposit (deducted from the first term accommodation fees) and £140.00 will be used as a security deposit (if there is no damage to the room this will be refunded after check out). If you book a couples room the deposit amount is £500.00; £210.00 is used as a holding deposit and £290.00 is used as a security deposit.

University of London Intercollegiate Halls require a registration fee on the acceptance of an offer. Additionally, some require a deposit.

Accommodation fees for LSE Halls are due in the second week of each term. Different payments schedules apply in University of London Intercollegiate Halls and urbanest halls.

A schedule of payment dates for 2023-24 will be provided to each applicant as part of their Licence Agreement.

Accommodation Bursary Scheme

To help students financially, we run an accommodation bursary scheme. Students interested in being considered for this scheme can find more information here.

Insurance offer holders

Students who are holding the School as an insurance place should make their accommodation booking after their insurance place becomes firm.

Students with a disability

The School offers accommodation for disabled students, including rooms with adapted bathrooms and kitchens, sensory equipment for fire alarms and much more. Almost all residences (except Carr-Saunders Hall) have lifts and/or ramp access to the front entrance. High Holborn has a limited number of rooms with access to an adapted kitchen with adjustable counters which can be lowered or raised as required. LSE actively encourages applicants and students to disclose their disability. This helps us to ensure that supportive measures are in place.

Applicants who make a disclosure will be asked to submit additional information at the time of booking in order to advise the School of particular requirements. Access guides to all the School's buildings and residences are available here.

For advice and further information please check here or contact Accommodation@lse.ac.uk

Applicants with medical requirements are also encouraged to contact the Disability and Wellbeing Service at: disability-wellbeing@lse.ac.uk

Couples

Sidney Webb House can accommodate a small number of couples in double rooms.

Students with children

Accommodation for LSE students with children is available only through the University of London International Hall or through Zebra Housing Association. Applicants with children are advised to seek early guidance and information from the Residential Services Office on options for suitable housing in London.

The Residential Services Office operate on a blended working basis. We recommend students contact us via email, telephone or live chat using the details listed below.

Visa advice for overseas students

Overseas offer holders should leave plenty of time to plan, apply for and obtain their Student visa. We recommend that you do not plan any travel during the summer until you have obtained your Student visa for LSE.

You can apply for your visa up to six months before your programme begins if you are applying overseas and up to three months in advance if you are eligible to apply in the UK. You will only be able to apply for your visa when you have received your CAS (Confirmation of Acceptance for Studies) number from us to complete your Student visa application.

LSE does not have a Student (Child) sponsor licence. If you will be under 18 when you are applying for your visa, you must still apply for a Student visa.

Please note the information below was updated in November 2021. Immigration rules change frequently and it is essential that you check on the Student Advice and Engagement website, and the Home Office website.

Confirmation of Acceptance for Studies (CAS)

The CAS is a unique reference number issued to LSE by the Home Office after we supply them with your programme, admissions and personal details. It can only be issued to you by LSE once you have:

- firmly accepted your unconditional offer
- completed your Financial Undertaking Form (FUF)
- confirmed to us your passport details, including all of your official names as shown in your passport, the correct spelling and the order that they appear in on your passport. If your name is incorrect on the CAS, let us know before applying for your visa.

Once your CAS number has been assigned by the Home Office, the Undergraduate Admissions Office will email your CAS statement containing the CAS number to you. Your CAS statement has no legal function; it is just a note of the information we have supplied to Home Office to create your CAS number.

The CAS statement lists the evidence that we assessed when making the decision to offer you a place. You will need to read this carefully and submit evidence of these qualifications along with your visa application.

Once you receive your CAS statement email, you should re-check the information it contains is correct, in particular your name, nationality, passport details and qualifications listed.

If you notice an error, you should contact Undergraduate Admissions immediately via the Undergraduate Admissions Knowledge Base.

Important notes:

You must keep us up-to-date with any changes to the information contained in the CAS Statement, such as a new passport number, so that we can update the Home Office and avoid your visa application being refused.

We cannot issue CAS numbers to offer holders who choose LSE as an insurance choice.

When do I need to apply?

Your CAS number is valid for six months and you can only use it once. You can apply for a visa up to six months in advance (applications outside the UK) or three months in advance (applications to extend in the UK) before the sponsorship start date listed on your CAS. We strongly recommend that you apply as early as possible in the relevant time window for your location of application.

Do not apply earlier than you are permitted before your programme start date as your application will be refused, you may not receive a refund of the application fee and you will have to apply again.

You will need to submit your passport as part of your application and attend a biometrics appointment. You should not plan any travel outside your country of application until your visa is granted because you will need to be available throughout the visa application process. This also applies if you are able to apply using the UKVI Immigration ID Check App. If you use the LSE CAS, your visa will entitle you to study at LSE and LSE only. You cannot use a visa issued for another university to study at LSE.

You cannot travel to the UK as a tourist and apply for your Student visa in the UK. You must have your Student visa in place before you can attend teaching.

If you are already studying in the UK at a different institution, you will have to apply for a Student visa for LSE before you can register and start attending your programme. You can only begin your studies at LSE if you have a Student visa application in progress in the UK, using an LSE CAS.

Maintenance costs and financial requirements

If you are a new student to the UK, you will have to prove that you have:

- tuition fees for the first year of your programme, plus
- maintenance for up to nine months of your programme. The maintenance level is set at £1,334 per month. $9 \times £1,334 = \textbf{£12,006}$ max (subject to change).

If you have been in the UK for up to 12 months on a visa and are applying to extend your visa in the UK, you may not be required to show any evidence of funding. Contact the International Visa Advice Team for more advice and whether it may be more beneficial for you to apply in the UK.

Important notes:

You are required to have held the funds in your bank account continuously for at least 28 days from the closing balance of your bank statements before you apply for a visa.

This must be a personal cash account. The Home Office will only accept specific documentation and it is essential that you read our guidance and the policy guidance from the Home Office to ensure that you obtain the appropriate documentation. The most common reason LSE students' were refused a visa was because they did not meet the financial requirements. This is easy to avoid if you do your preparation and understand if you meet the rules. If you are correctly refused, you will have to apply again and you will not get a refund for the first application. A CAS number can only be used once. If you are refused your visa, you will only receive your new CAS once you have been advised by The Student Advice and Engagement Team and they confirm you are able to submit a new application.

Money paid towards tuition costs

LSE will update the Home Office CAS database with details of any tuition fee payments you make. This enables the Home Office to take such payments into account when calculating your ability to finance your studies and living costs. We will make updates to the Home Office approximately 48 hours after the money has arrived in our bank account. You must wait for an updated CAS statement from us before applying if you need to show that you have paid money to LSE.

Important note:

It is important to note that it can take up to two weeks for payments to clear. You should not make a payment for accommodation or fees if you have a visa appointment within the next two weeks as it is likely that we will be unable to issue you with an updated CAS statement before your appointment.

Payments made towards accommodation fees will not be shown on the CAS. You will need to obtain an official receipt from residence.fees@lse.ac.uk if you wish to claim evidence of accommodation payments.

You can only claim a total of £1,334 of accommodation costs for your visa application so we advise against paying more. You cannot claim for payment made towards private accommodation, including some halls of residence, so you must check LSE's visa guidance.

English language requirements

The Home Office currently requires sponsoring institutions to verify that students have achieved the necessary level of English proficiency.

LSE will assess your English language qualification(s) and inform the Home Office as appropriate. If you are taking the IELTS or Pearson test we would encourage you to sit the exam as early as possible, as test dates can be fully booked by mid to late summer.

The Home Office will not accept IELTS results that are more than two years old. If your results are dated prior to 1 September 2021, you will need to re-sit the test.

Important note:

These policies are currently under review. LSE will inform applicants of any changes if relevant.

Campus developments

At LSE, we are always striving to improve the campus environment for our students. In recent years several new buildings, including the spectacular RIBA Stirling Prize-shortlisted Saw Swee Hock Student Centre and award winning Centre Building, have opened providing our community with fantastic new teaching, learning and social spaces.

The newest addition to our campus is the imposing Marshall Building in Lincoln's Inn Fields; a multi-functional, flexible, state of the art academic and teaching building, designed by world renowned architects Grafton.

At £145m this is our biggest ever construction project.

Facilities include:

- Sports centre with multipurpose sports hall, squash courts and dynamic weights room
- Arts rehearsal facilities and music practice rooms
- Café
- Faculty and research accommodation
- Teaching and learning hub and student commons
- Great Hall – events space
- 10 roof terraces.

The pedestrianisation and landscaping of Portsmouth Street further enhances the campus, giving traffic free routes between most campus buildings and creating further outside seating and social space.

The next major project for the School will be the redevelopment of 35 Lincoln's Inn Fields. This project is currently in the design development stage and is likely to commence in 2023.

Our Estates Division will keep everyone up to date with regular online bulletins in Student News and via the Student Hub App, when the project commences. For more information see here.

Elsewhere, our commitment to environmental sustainability continues with policies to ensure the School achieves Net Zero Carbon status in scope 1 and 2 emissions by 2030.

The Library

LSE Library, founded in 1896 as the British Library of Political and Economic Science, is the major international library of the social sciences.

Research England recognises us as one of only five National Research Libraries in the country and our collections have been given designated status by the Arts Council England for outstanding national and international importance.

Our collections cover the entire social sciences, with particular strength in economics, political science and social, economic and international history. We also have rich international collections of government publications, statistics and archives.

Support

There are many ways to get help when you need it; either in-person, by email or by chat. Each department has a dedicated Librarian, offering support to help you locate and access information resources on any topic, as well as referencing advice.

We also have a Data Library with staff, providing support to students and researchers in the use of the wide range of datasets that we hold.

Study resources

You can explore the collections via Library Search, our online library catalogue. Your essential reading list items should be available online and/or available to borrow in print from the Course Collection. Background reading list items or wider social sciences titles are in the Main Collection.

LSE students also have borrowing rights to Senate House Library. You can use our Get It For Me service to obtain material not held at LSE or recommend that we purchase it for our collections.

Study environment

The Library is a focal point of the School and is used extensively by both students and academics. We are open seven days a week and 24 hours daily from the beginning of the Lent term until the end of the examination period. We have over 2,300 study spaces (including individual spaces and group rooms) and over 500 PCs. Wireless Internet access via eduroam, and photocopying and printing facilities are also available.

The ground floor is home to LSE's flagship academic skills development centre, LSE LIFE. They provide academic and career support through one-to-one help and workshops.

Further information about the Library can be found on our website.

Data and Technology Services

This information is correct at the time of going to print but is subject to change. For the latest information, please visit the Data and Technology Services (DTS) website here.

IT facilities on campus

There are over 1,000 PCs available for students to use in open access areas and computer classrooms around the School, including over 450 in the Library (which is open 24 hours); all of which provide access to both common desktop applications and specialist software. LSE also offers students laptops which can be loaned out for short term use. There are print, copy and scan facilities across campus.

Further details can be found here.

Dedicated computer workstations and printing facilities, and screen reading, and voice recognition software are available. You can also book a one-to-one appointment to discuss any accessibility requirements.

Further details can be found here.

IT facilities in residences

Halls of Residence are connected offer WiFi connections to eduroam. There are also several open access PCs as well as printing facilities in each residence's computer room.

Using your own computer

Connect to the Eduroam WiFi network to benefit from internet access both on campus, in halls and in universities across the UK.

LSE also offers all our students a full licence for Microsoft Office 365, 1Tb of storage on OneDrive, Anti-Virus as well as specialist research software and remote printing facilities.

Please note: If you are joining us from overseas that the UK power supply is 240 volts. You will either need a voltage converter or an adaptor for the 3-pin UK power sockets.

Your responsibilities

As a member of LSE, you are bound by the School's Policy Statement on the Use of Information Technology and the Conditions of Use of IT Facilities at LSE.

LSE Student Wellbeing Service (SWS)

SWS aims to provide you with a single integrated source of help and assistance.

The specialist team at SWS includes:

- Disability Advisers
- Wellbeing Advisers
- Mental Health Advisers
- Counsellors.

Disability and Wellbeing Service

The Disability and Wellbeing Service offers confidential advice and support to all disabled students. This includes support for students with physical impairments, long-term health conditions, mental health conditions, specific learning difficulties, and autistic spectrum conditions.

We work to support LSE in its commitment to create an inclusive learning environment and ensure our students are treated equitably.

Offer holders are encouraged to make early contact with the service and, where possible, to make a preliminary visit to the School. The DWS can be contacted by telephone on +44 (0)20 7955 7567 or by emailing disability-wellbeing@lse.ac.uk and more information can be found here.

The Disability and Wellbeing Service (DWS) will work in partnership with you the student to ensure that appropriate reasonable adjustments are defined and applied, enabling disabled students to meet their full academic potential. Individual reasonable adjustments are informed by independent supporting evidence (such as a consultant letter, a diagnostic report, etc.) These adjustments are then detailed in My Adjustments; a document that confirms and communicates to appropriate staff a student's expected reasonable adjustments. More detail on My Adjustments can be found here.

Disabled Students' Allowances

UK students may be eligible for Disabled Students' Allowances (DSA) to fund disability related costs of study. Further details are available here. It is advisable to start the process as early as possible. Please inform the DWS if you are already in receipt of the DSA.

DisabledGO

Our partnership with DisabledGo is helping us to be proactive in improving the accessibility of our buildings, at a time when the LSE estate is undergoing major physical change. Access guides to all the School's buildings and residences are available here.

LSE is committed to strengthening our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion, as outlined in our 2030 Strategy. For further information see here.

Mental health and wellbeing

How can I access support for my mental health and wellbeing?

Once you have registered on your programme of study, our team of Wellbeing Advisers and Counsellors can support you during your time at LSE, ensuring that you make the most of your time at LSE. Our support includes:

- Individual counselling
- Specialist workshops and groups
- Advice on wellbeing and self care
- Signposting to LSE and external services

Students are welcome to first attend a Wellbeing Appointment so that we can help to identify the right support for your individual needs. Further information can be found on our website.

Peer Support Scheme

Peer Supporters are trained student volunteers who support their peers by offering a non-judgmental, confidential listening space to any LSE student. It's a point of contact if you want to check in and have a confidential chat, and will make it easier to reach out if sometime later you are finding things tough. Further information can be found on the website.

Confidentiality

Confidentiality is an important part of this service. We will not discuss anything about you outside the service without your explicit consent, except in exceptional circumstances. Our confidentiality policy is available on our website.

Study abroad

Global Opportunities LSE – GO LSE

LSE is committed to producing global citizens and providing students with opportunities to enhance their degrees. A year of study abroad will elevate your LSE experience, provide you with valuable transferable skills and enhance your graduate career prospects.

The School currently offers year-long study-abroad opportunities with:

- Bocconi University, Italy
- Central European University, Austria
- IE University, Spain
- National University of Political Studies and Public Administration, Romania
- Sciences Po, France
- Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden
- University of California (Berkeley; UCLA; San Diego), USA
- Warsaw School of Economics, Poland.

As the number of places available is limited we operate a competitive internal selection process. You can apply during the second year of your undergraduate degree (third year for PPE students) to spend your third year (fourth year for PPE students) at the partner institution.

Please note that a year of study abroad will be additional to LSE's academic requirements. You must return to LSE after your year abroad to complete the final year of your undergraduate degree programme.

In addition to the School-wide opportunities for study abroad outlined above, students studying BA Anthropology and Law; BA/BSc Social Anthropology; BSc International Relations and Chinese; BSc Language, Culture and Society, and BSc Management can take advantage of degree-specific study abroad options.

CIVICA

LSE is also part of CIVICA, the European University of Social Sciences, an alliance funded by the European Commission which brings together eight universities.

If you would like to develop your civic engagement skills during your time at LSE you should consider joining the CIVICA Engage Track. This is a European multi-campus, interdisciplinary bachelor experience with a focus on civic engagement. By combining academic study and social commitment, you'll explore and respond to value-laden topics like responsibility and sustainability and aim to provide real-world solutions to specific problems. Students who complete the Track are awarded a CIVICA Engage bachelor's degree track certificate.

To learn more contact the Global Academic Engagement team: global@lse.ac.uk

LSE-PKU Summer School in China

LSE students and offer holders are eligible to join our intensive, two-week summer school taught in China each August. The LSE-PKU Summer School, delivered in collaboration with Peking University, provides students with the ability to explore issues relating to China or Asia from within the dynamic city of Beijing. This summer school is offered in addition to degree programmes, is fully taught and assessed in English, and can be taken in any year of an LSE degree.

To learn more please see here.

LSE LIFE

Your time at LSE will be busy. So it's important to make the most of it – whether that means discovering your own best ways to study and learn independently at university, applying your classroom learning to real world contexts, making new friends, or thinking about where your studies might lead you in the future. You can do all of this at LSE LIFE.

What is LSE LIFE?

LSE LIFE is the place to come to discover and develop the skills you'll need to reach your goals at LSE – whether it concerns your academic work or other personal or professional pursuits. We are here to help you find your own ways to study and learn, develop your ideas for your essays and other projects, think about where your studies might lead you in future, and make the most of your time at LSE.

What can I do there?

- We run workshops throughout the year where you can get hands-on practice of the skills you'll need to do well inside and outside the classroom, including effective reading and note-making, essay writing, public speaking, critical thinking, finding and referencing academic sources, organising your time and resources, thinking about your future beyond LSE, and much more.
- You can also get personalised one-to-one advice from LSE LIFE study advisers. You can book a 30-minute session, available Monday-Friday, to talk about an upcoming assignment, ideas for research, how you plan your work and organise your time, or any aspect of your studies. If we don't have the information you're looking for, we'll help you find someone who does.
- LSE LIFE is also a bright, flexible, open-plan space on the ground floor of the Library. Come work on a group project or do homework together with your classmates or by yourself. Move the tables to suit you and use the whiteboards to illustrate your point!

Where is LSE LIFE?

We're on the ground floor of the Library and open Monday to Friday, between 10am and 6pm.

You'll find us online, too. You can get workshop materials, slides, recordings, and other independent study resources on our Moodle page. You can also find out what's on and book appointments or places at our events at our website here.

All events and appointments at LSE LIFE are free of charge.

Volunteer Centre

Volunteering is a great way to help develop new skills and meet new people while making a difference and the LSE Volunteer Centre is here to inspire and empower you to volunteer for causes that you are passionate about during your time at LSE.

We work with organisations to advertise volunteering opportunities across London, the UK and internationally. Whether you are passionate about the environment or human rights or ready to change the world through campaigning or mentoring, we'll have an opportunity for you. Providing a range of short- and long-term opportunities there will be an opportunity to suit you and your interests. We also know that students are busy and we run a comprehensive one-off volunteering programme to make sure you can fit it in.

Looking to meet charities? We host multiple Volunteering Fairs and invite charities on campus, so you can find out how you can make a difference for a cause you are passionate about and hear from organisations looking to recruit LSE students as volunteers.. We also run a seminar series called "Take Action" which explores how students can take action on some of societies most pressing issues. You can find out more, as well as the advice and support we can offer here or by following @LSEVolunteering.

LSE100

As a new undergraduate student at LSE, you will take LSE100, the School's flagship interdisciplinary course during the first year of your degree programme. The course is designed to build your capacity to tackle multidimensional problems through research-rich education, giving you the opportunity to explore transformative global challenges in collaboration with peers from other departments and leading academics from across the School. LSE100 invites you to step beyond the boundaries of your degree programme and engage with the cutting-edge social science research happening at the LSE and beyond.

You will work both individually and in small, multi-disciplinary teams to investigate complex challenges in depth, drawing on contributions from LSE's world-leading experts. In the process, you will gain expertise in the tools of systems thinking and systems change, broaden your intellectual experience and deepen your understanding of your own discipline as you test theories, evidence and arguments from different disciplinary perspectives. You will also develop your research, communication, teamwork and leadership skills as you apply your intellect and creativity to specific issues that interest you, both individually and as part of a group.

Before you arrive at LSE, you will have the opportunity to select one of three themes to focus on during LSE100, each of which foregrounds a complex and pressing question facing social scientists. In 2022, the available themes were:

- How can we control AI?
- How can we avert climate catastrophe?
- How can we create a fair society?

These themes reflect the complex and urgent issues that we face today, and are indicative of which themes you will be invited to choose from should you join the School in 2023. LSE100 themes are always highly interrelated and throughout the year, you will have a range of opportunities to connect with all the themes of the course, whether through activities in LSE100 seminars, your choice of assessment topics, or our interdisciplinary events programme.

You can read more about LSE100 here, and follow us on Twitter @TheLSECourse

If you have any questions before you arrive at LSE, please email the Course Office: LSE100@lse.ac.uk

We look forward to meeting you.

LSE Language Centre

LSE is a centre for the study of the social sciences and this is reflected in its Language Centre. Courses focus on language and society, encouraging you to learn how to use language in the contexts you would like to live, study and work in. We teach people to speak languages, but also teach about language (socio-linguistics/ intercultural communication) and offer a range of courses on literature and society. Whether you're looking for additional support with your English, interested in taking one of our courses as an undergraduate degree option, or want to learn or improve a language, we are here to help.

- Take a language, literature or linguistic course as part of your undergraduate degree.
- Work towards a language specialism (subject to your programme regulations).
- Get support if English is not your first language with weekly English for Academic Writing courses, workshops and one-to-one sessions, available to all taught students.
- Learn a language in your own time with an extracurricular non-degree language course.

You can find out more about the Language Centre and everything we offer on our website and also read about student Tai Tzu Chiang's experience of learning a new language at LSE.

If you have any questions about what is available, you can contact the Language Centre here.

Student Services Centre

The Student Services Centre (SSC) is located on the ground floor of the Old Building. As well as offering a range of services and advice we are also a good first point of contact to find out more about the support services available at LSE. See online for latest information about our services, opening times and how to contact us.

LSE Off Campus Support Scheme

The LSE Off Campus Support Scheme provides new commuter students (who are not living in LSE Halls of Residence) with exclusive social networking opportunities, targeted support and guidance on settling in. You can find out about services offered within the scheme, and how to take part in it, on our web page.

Academic Mentors

Each student has an academic mentor, who receives regular reports from class teachers and meets with the student during the course of the year to discuss their academic progress. The academic mentor is also there to help with any academic, administrative or personal questions where the student may not be sure which person or office is responsible.

The School also has an adviser to women students who generally deals with more personal and often private matters. The current Adviser to Women Students is Dr Sarah Trotter (s.trotter@lse.ac.uk, +44 (0) 20 7955 7258).

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

Promoting equality, championing diversity and developing an inclusive LSE

LSE was founded with the aim of understanding the causes of things and for the betterment of society and that also includes understanding, and more importantly, acting on the causes of inequalities within LSE.

Regardless of a person's gender, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, religion or any other protected characteristic, we will make time for introspection, and focus on structural and cultural change to ensure every one of our students can thrive and feel like they belong. See here to read about the School's commitment to equality of respect and opportunity.

As members of LSE, we are all responsible for interacting with mutual respect and open-mindedness, and for valuing the multicultural and diverse community that we share.

If you are concerned about bullying or harassment, visit here or to find out how to report incidents and access support services. Additionally, you can contact one of our Safe Contacts and see what Sources of Support are available to you.

Making contacts and keeping in touch

Now that you are holding an offer of a place at LSE there are a number of ways in which you can keep in touch with the School and find out more about life on campus.

Newsletters for offer holders

The Undergraduate Admissions Office sends out regular newsletters via email to offer holders. These newsletters will provide you with helpful tips and reminders about the admissions process, and also give an insight into School news and events. Copies of our newsletters can also be found on the offer holders' section of our website here.

Discover LSE

Take advantage of these opportunities to explore LSE and interact with our staff before you join the School:

- Virtual Offer Holders' Day
- "Destination LSE" pre-enrolment events
- Campus tours
- Drop-in consultations
- Experience LSE from home

Alumni groups

The international LSE alumni community comprises of over 200,000 alumni in over 200 countries. Over 90 alumni groups led by alumni volunteers all over the world help to maintain lasting connections between this vibrant global network and the School. These volunteers can offer useful hints and tips about studying at LSE, living in London, and the careers that their studies have helped them to pursue.

To find out more visit the LSE Alumni website here.

Ask an Alum

As a student at LSE, you can be the first to Ask an Alum. This new tool will help you as you start to think about your career journey and develop your network with your future alumni community.

With Ask an Alum, you now have access to 200,000 alumni at your fingertips, who are ready to provide advice and to connect with you. Use this tool to ask a question, for careers advice, about industries you would like to learn about, or a location you may like to move to, and AI will connect you with the best matched alumni who can provide advice straight to your email inbox.

Ask your first question today: ask-an-alum.lse.ac.uk/

Destination LSE events

Each summer, LSE's Student Marketing, Recruitment and Study Abroad team organise online "Destination LSE" pre-departure events for LSE offer holders.

These events provide you with an opportunity to connect with others who are about to embark on study at the School and to meet with current LSE students and staff. Offer holders will be able to find out what studying at the School is really like and can learn more about living in London and life after LSE.

Further details of the 2023 series of "Destination LSE" events will be available in the spring.

Social Media

Many departments have Facebook groups for new students. Your departmental administrator will contact you with details.

LSE Students' Union

LSE Students' Union is a charity run by students, for students. It exists to make your time at LSE the best it can be. We campaign for your rights and seek to improve all aspects of university life through our services. If you need something throughout your time here, we are the ones to reach out to. The Students' Union also runs its own welcome events, including the Official LSE Welcome Fair. Keep an eye out for these events on our website here.

A student-led organisation

Our Executive Team is made up of Student Representatives who are elected annually by the student body to represent and run the Union. Four of these students are full-time Sabbatical Officers– the General Secretary, Education Officer, Community and Welfare Officer and Activities and Development Officer. These are paid roles that ensure student representation on committees of LSE, and lobby the School on behalf of students. Part-time and Liberation Officers are also elected alongside the Sabbatical Officers, such as LGBT+ Officer, Disabled Students' Officer and Black and Minority Ethnic Students' Officer. Any student can run for these positions, whatever their course or study level.

Societies, sports clubs, Media Group and RAG

LSESU supports more than 250 student-led societies and 40 sports clubs, various campaign groups, as well as Media societies. There's a newspaper (The Beaver), television network (Loose TV), and various societies journals (such as the Clare Market Review). Raising and Giving (RAG) is the fundraising arm of the Students' Union and run our incredible LSE Welcome club nights, with all money raised going to a good cause. Our student clubs and societies welcome all new members; sign up in person at the Welcome Fair or join in online here.

Services

The Students' Union runs a range of services for students, including the Three Tuns student bar, two LSESU Gyms, a Sports Hall, three Music Practice Rooms and more.. We are a non-profit organisation, independent of the university, so every penny you spend with them goes into funding student activities. We also run a free and independent Advice Service which offers financial hardship funding and confidential advice on both academic and housing issues.

Annex D: LSE/LSESU student charter

LSE has a long and rich educational tradition that all its students and staff can be proud of. Since opening its doors in 1895, our School has sought to advance its founding vision of understanding the causes of things for the betterment of society through the study and analysis of the social sciences.

Our Student Charter, written by students and staff, sets out how LSE's mission and ethos are reflected in the education you can expect to receive at our School, and in the diverse, equitable and inclusive community that we all contribute to and value.

Find out more about the Charter and how you can use it here.

Annex E: Conditions of registration and enrolment

Please see here for Conditions of registration and enrolment.

Annex F: Consumer rights

The Competition and Markets Authority (CMA) has published updated guidance on your consumer rights as a student. Please see here for more information.
