LSE Black Achievement Conference

The LSE Black Achievement Conference is an annual event which has run at LSE since 2007.

This year's conference will take place as an online webinar on Saturday 18 June from 1.30-5pm.

The theme of this year's conference is Black Futures with a particular focus on the academic pipeline and careers.

The half-day virtual conference is an opportunity to celebrate leaders in the UK's Black community and provide a taste of higher education. Attendees will explore life and study as an LSE student, graduate prospects and career routes and receive information about how to make a competitive university application.

The event is for Year 12 students of Black heritage who attend UK state-funded non-fee-paying schools/colleges/sixth forms.

You can check your eligibility on the LSE BAC webpage.

You should be considering making an application to undergraduate study at LSE.

The event will consist of:

- A keynotes address from an LSE Alum
- A taster lecture delivered by Professor Coretta Phillips from the Department of Social Policy
- A talk from RARE recruitment led by Andi Marsh discussing graduate prospects, RARE candidate experiences and current/future opportunities

- A student panel with Q&A provides an opportunity to learn about student life at LSE including current undergraduate and postgraduate students
- A session on applying to university and LSE and how to submit a strong application
