

Diverse Expertise Joins The Inclusion Initiative's Advisory Board as TII Celebrates its 3-Year Anniversary

The Inclusion Initiative (TII) at the London School of Economics and Political Science, a leading advocate for diversity and inclusion in workplaces, is thrilled to announce the appointment of four distinguished members to its Advisory Board. This significant expansion of our Advisory Board coincides with TII's 3-year anniversary, marking a pivotal milestone in our journey towards fostering inclusive leaders and workplaces.

Elizabeth Nyamayaro is a renowned humanitarian, author, and former United Nations Senior Advisor on gender equality. With a career spanning over two decades in global development, she has tirelessly fought global inequalities, advanced social justice, and accelerated women's rights worldwide. Elizabeth is the visionary behind the HeForShe movement, a United Nations global initiative for gender equality that ignited conversations worldwide and engaged men from every corner of the globe.

"I am deeply honored to join the London School of Economics and Political Science's 'The Inclusion Initiative' as a board member and to contribute toward the initiative's bold efforts in enhancing inclusion at work. Having spent the past nine years advising Fortune 500 companies on their DEI efforts, it is my firm belief that building a truly inclusive workplace isn't just a moral imperative but a strategic advantage that fuels innovation, collaboration, and business growth. I have witnessed firsthand the meaningful impact that embracing DEI can have not only for achieving business success but also towards positively impacting society at large," said Elizabeth upon joining the board.

The board has also welcomed:

Sophia Dancygier who brings extensive experience as a London-based financial services executive, with a career spanning 18 years in building and scaling global businesses in financial data, software, and investible indices. Ashish Goyal, is a London-based investment professional specializing in global macro strategies, as the world's first visually impaired graduate of The Wharton School and investor-trader on Wall Street, Ashish's expertise in global markets and dedication to socio-economic equality align with TII's goals. Pam Jackson, is a seasoned executive with a career spanning over four decades, her extensive experience in finance, private equity, and commitment to promoting women's careers make her a valuable addition to the Advisory Board.

These four accomplished professionals will play pivotal roles in advancing TII's mission to create more inclusive workplaces globally. Their strategic insights and commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion will drive innovation, collaboration, and business growth.

"Reaching our 3-year milestone is a momentous occasion for TII. As we celebrate our achievements, we are excited to expand our Advisory Board with these exceptional individuals. Together, we will continue to make a positive impact on workplace inclusion," commented Dr. Grace Lordan, Director at TII.
